Thunderstorms
Kill 3 in State

BATAVIA — Severe thunderstorms in New York took the lives of three persons Sunday, as torrential rains and high winds caused widespread destruction in several areas of the state.

Police said a lightning bolt killed two persons as they watched a softball game in Kibbe Park in Batavia. A third person sitting with them under a tree was critically injured.

And a Toronto, Canada man traveling with his family on a sailboat on the Mohawk River was killed when lightning hit him Sunday evening.

His Image Staff

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dropping his television adviser and dividing powers held by his senior aide, President Ford shook up his image-making staff in preparation for battling Ronald Reagan and perhaps Jimmy Carter.

Out went television adviser Robert Mead, blamed by presidential press secretary Ron Nessen for spoiling last week's nationwide telecast of Ford's White House dinner for Queen Elizabeth.

Counselor Robert Hartmann, with Ford since his days in Congress, lost control of all written presidential statements but will still supervise speech writing.

Boston Offers
Queenly Welcome

BOSTON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip spent the last day of their Bicentennial state visit to the United States touring Revolutionary War sites and stressing the friendship between America and Britain.

Boston gave the royal couple one of the most lavish and colorful receptions of their six-day visit.

Lefsky Asks PSC
About Utility Costs

ALBANY (UPI) — Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz says he has petitioned the Public Service Commission to spell out when gas and electric utilities should be allowed to charge expenses for advertising and charitable contributions to consumers.

Lefkowitz said Sunday his petition asks the PSC to draw up regulations clarifying which expenses should be paid for from utility rates and which should be met by shareholders — or restricted in the public interest.

The petition notes that Con Edison, LILCO and other utilities have included the cost of publicity on controversial topics, such as the advantages of nuclear power plants, in their rate base.

The Attorney General noted in his petition: "The consumer is, in effect, paying from his own pocket to publicize the company's point of view on a highly controversial issue in which he may be in total disagreement" — such as offshore oil drilling or the importation of liquefied natural gas.

Palestinian Camp
Falls in Lebanon

BEIRUT — A right-wing broadcast claimed the Christians had captured the Palestinian refugee camp of Tal Zaatar, ending a 20-day siege today.

Palestinian spokesmen denied the claim but privately said the camp's fall was "imminent and inevitable."

Ulster Delegates Face Major Questions at Convention

(Freeman staffer Steven Asher is in New York this week covering the Democratic National Convention. He will be reporting daily on the activities of Ulster County delegates Maurice Hinchey, Saugerties, and Mary Ann Fallek, New Paltz, and other members of the state delegation. —Editor.)
By Steven Asher
Freeman Staff

NEW YORK — Mary Ann Fallek, New Paltz, will begin today to resolve two major questions facing her as an Ulster County delegate to the Democratic National Convention: will she vote to nominate Morris Udall Wednesday night, and will she vote on an unresolved controversy on women's rights?

The National Organization for Women and other women's groups are demanding that the call for the 1980 convention include the proviso that half the delegates be women. This year about a third of the delegates are women.

Ms. Fallek, who met with the women's caucus yesterday, is still undecided on the quota proposal, which the nominee-in-waiting, Jimmy Carter, opposes. Manhattan Rep. Bella Abzug, now in a tight, four-way race for the Democratic senatorial nomination in New York, tried to persuade the caucus to accept a Carter-supported compromise resolution abandoning talk of a 50 per cent quota.

"There has been intense communication between the Carter people and the women's caucus," Ms. Fallek confirmed, adding that she was still undecided on the issue.

More Convention Coverage Page 3

Karen DeCrow, president of the National Organization for Women, persuaded the caucus yesterday to take up the issue as its first order of business today, Ms. Fallek reported.

For Ulster County's other delegate, Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, D-101st Dist., life at the convention has been much simpler so far. He's a committed Carter delegate and in favor of the Carter-supported compromise. "I'm not excited about quotas," he said.

Hinchey will attend a caucus of New York Carter delegates this morning and join Ms. Fallek for a state caucus this afternoon. The Udall delegates from New York and other northeastern states met Sunday to resolve the question of whether they will have the chance to vote for their candidate, Rep. Morris Udall.

"At the caucus, the Udall people there were asked their opinion. They would definitely like to see Udall named for the nomination—that's the general feeling," Ms. Fallek said.

"I spoke to Udall last night at the Roosevelt, and I said I would like the chance to vote for him, and he said I would. But that's only one of several options being considered," she added.

"No final Udall caucus is planned for today."

Seven Youths Arrested For Post-Grad Vandalism

HIGHLAND — A 12-day investigation by State Trooper John J. Hayes of the Highland State Police barracks has resulted in 32 misdemeanor charges and 10 felony charges against seven youths in connection with an alleged spree of rock-throwing in the Town of New Paltz and the Village of Highland.

Police say Hayes and Trooper Richard Burdine, on a routine check of a vehicle on June 28, arrested the driver for drunken driving. A description of the vehicle linked the occupants with the spree of rock-throwing incidents, according to witnesses.

The investigation brought the arrest of the driver and six passengers in the car for five counts of criminal mischief and one count of assault each.

Police say the group had apparently been celebrating their graduation from high school when they decided to go to the home of one of their former teachers in the Town of New Paltz. There, police charge, they threw a large rock through a picture window which landed on a color television set and damaged furniture. The teacher was watching television at the time.

From the New Paltz, police say, the group proceeded to Highland where they allegedly threw rocks at the Brabatas Cleaners, the Sugarbowl Restaurant and an automobile, damaging and breaking windows in the stores and causing dents and scratches to the vehicle.

The group continued driving around the area of routes 44 and 55, police say, when they came upon a pedestrian hitchhiker, whereupon they allegedly pelted him with rocks. The hitchhiker suffered cuts and bruises.

On Route 55 the group allegedly stopped at the end of a driveway and threw stones at a parked station wagon, smashing the windows and denting the vehicle.

Police say the same group also was involved in minor incidents of tipping over trash cans and scattering rubbish for which no charges were lodged.

The names of those arrested are being withheld pending possible youthful offender treatment. All were initially arraigned in Town of Lloyd court on Friday and will reappear July 30. All have been released in the custody of their parents pending final disposition of the case.

Water Rate Rise Displeasing But Nobody Has Better Answer

STRUBEL: Very disgusted, but...

KINGSTON — Although not pleased with a 20 per cent increase in their water bills, most Kingston residents don't know what the water commissioners could have done to keep the rate from rising as much as it did.

Other results of a Daily Freeman random sample of public opinion show that most water users wouldn't shift control of water rates from the water commissioners, an appointed and independent board, to the Common Council, which is elected by the people.

However, of the dozen householders interviewed, only one knew beforehand that water rates are set by an autonomous board, without the need for public hearing.

"I'm very disgusted," said Margaret Strubel, who has watched her water bill at 156 Tremper Ave. nearly double in the past decade. "But I really don't know what they could have done to keep costs down."

Mrs. Strubel's bill went up nearly $5, leaving her slightly above the $15 to $25 average household payment per quarter. "That's not too bad by itself, but when your telephone rates are going up, and also the gas and electric... when you add it all up, it hurts."

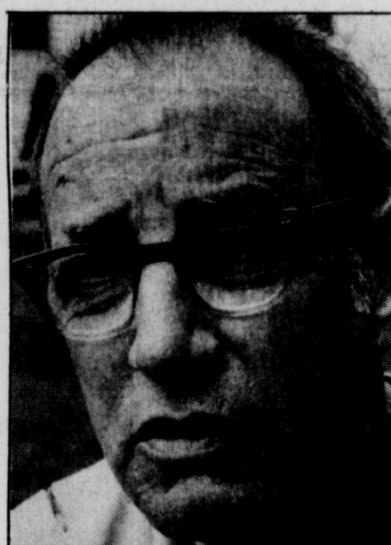

Frank Grant, 3 Mary's Ave., was a typical satisfied customer: "The water here is excellent. I think they are justified in asking for the increase. It's the only one I can remember in quite a while."

The increase, effective in the third-quarter billing, was the first sought by the commissioners in three years. The last increase was 18 per cent.

General inflation and a policy of paying for capital improvements out of the operating budget rather than by special bond issue were the main reasons for the hike, said Chester A. Baltz Jr., president of the commissioners.

"We've been able to hold our ground about three years at a time. That's pretty good," Baltz said.

Tony J. Peone, a small businessman who owns two houses in Kingston, hadn't even noticed his bills had gone up: "I didn't pay attention. Everything else is going up."

GRANT: A satisfied customer

John Simmons, 69 Henry St., "couldn't really say" what could be done to keep water bills down, but he observed that "it's getting hard to live. People ought to get together and see about this. The people gotta do something."

A satisfied customer who found the rate hike "no big thing," Robert E. Houghtaling, 107 Pine Grove Ave., still felt the water commissioners should be subject to control of the Common Council as a matter of general policy.

"All city agencies, really, should come under the Common Council, who we vote for," Houghtaling said.

MARKET BASKET Food Price Averages Close to Last Week's

KINGSTON — The cost of feeding a family of four in Kingston for the week ending July 9 showed no perceptible change from the previous week's tabulations, the Ulster County Consumer Information Service branch of the district attorney's office announced recently.

The 41-item market basket cost $65.99 for the week. The same foods were priced at $65.98 for the week ending July 2.

The price index is based on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Moderate Cost Family Food Plan, and lists the various amounts of foods which should be consumed in order to provide a nutritious diet for a family of four.

Grain products (seven items) went up 7¢ from the previous week; meat and fish (nine items) were up 20¢; dairy products remained the same while fresh fruit and vegetables went down 31¢. Canned and frozen fruit and vegetables (seven items) went up only 1¢, while beverages (four items) went up 4¢.

Market basket information is based on a survey of at least three chain supermarkets in the Kingston area.

Man Lost on Minnewaska

LAKE MINNEWASKA — State police, Palisades Park Rangers and rangers from the Department of Environmental Conservation were still searching this morning for a Brooklyn man missing since early Sunday afternoon.

Police say Michael Singer, 38, of Brooklyn walked with his wife Martha and another companion from Lake Min-newaska to Lake Awosting Sunday morning. His wife and companion took the road back while Singer took a trail. That was the last they saw of him.

Singer, reportedly in good physical condition, was wearing only a tee shirt, dungarees and sneakers. Police say he is lost in rattlesnake country.

Rock Without Name; Mercy Drive Launched

KINGSTON — Ulster County's rock needs a name. The county's recently acquired 20-ton hunk of Gardiner granite, temporarily squatting at the county's quarry off Hurley Avenue, has no name registered with American Rock Club (possibly an indication of mongrel origin) and Freeman investigators have been unable to locate any close relatives.

We are sure our readers are more than ready to help. This rock is prepared to sit in front of the renovated Kingston courthouse bearing an historical plaque in all kinds of weather from now until taxes come down, and asks nothing in return.

The Daily Freeman will give $10 for the best name submitted by a reader this week.

The rules are simple. Send your name for the rock and your own name and address on a postcard. Address them to: City Desk, The Daily Freeman, 79 Hurley Ave., Kingston, 12401. The editor (Tom Geyer) and the city editor (Wade Burkhardt) will be the judges. The winning name becomes solely the property of the rock.

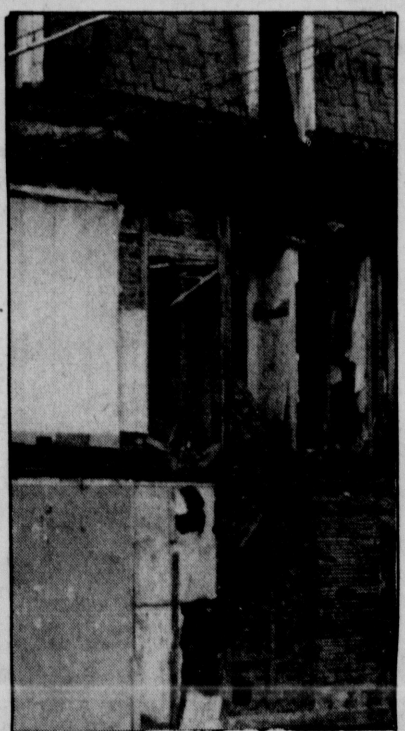

In case of a tie, the city editor's choice wins an all-expense paid, one-way bus ride to Port Ewen.

Saugerties Neighborhood Is Sliding Toward a Slum

By TIM SCHUSTER
Freeman Staff

SAUGERTIES — Parts of downtown Saugerties are a mess and getting worse. "Nobody gives a damn!" said one longtime resident of Saugerties' downtown.

228 Partition St.

"The flowers are beautiful, but they should clean it up first."

She was speaking of the growing number of dilapidated, dirty and burned-out structures and trashy yards that dot the network of small streets off lower Partition Street.

The people who have lived their lives in this neighborhood are concerned with its slide toward a slum. Never a rich man's neighborhood, the area has been slipping steadily downhill for the past 10 years, they say.

They didn't want to be named. As one woman explained it, "We live and work here. We don't need the publicity."

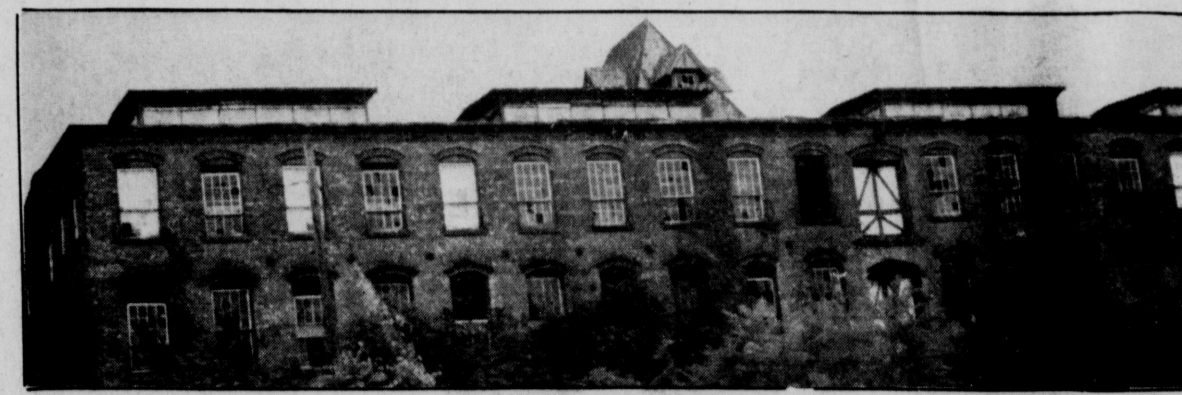

Some official action on the village level has been promised to deal with dilapidated buildings. This sometimes requires prolonged legal proceedings.

But it is the garbage and trash that offends those used to keeping their yards and homes attractive.

"We're basically concerned with cleaning up those dirty holes," said one woman. "A lot of people aren't taking care of their properties."

The character of the area has changed over the past 10 years. One person saw the problem as absentee landlords who rent to tenants who pile plastic bags in hallways, in kitchens, in basements, and in yards. The dogs and rats come and rip the bags apart, leaving behind a mess that no one seems inclined to clean up.

"There are ordinances to take care of this," said one person. "Nobody is enforcing them. There are a bunch of jellyfish on the board. They don't want to step on toes. Nobody gives a damn."

Old Diamond Mill

The village has no ordinance mandating steel trash containers. Once garbage starts piling up in a yard, everyone starts adding to the pile.

Declining property maintenance is contagious, they felt. Some people saw it this way: "That sort of thing spreads... The whole neighborhood is deteriorating into a depressed area... You get one slob and its contagious... I feel sorry for those who try to keep their property up."

Why has the area changed?
"There are a lot of new people in the downtown area," commented one person.

"There are a bunch of slobs. The landlords don't care; the tenants take over. We used to have families that cared."

One person has a building up for sale on lower Partition Street. It is immaculate. Across the street is a burned out hulk of a building. The third floor has been condemned.

"What are they going to do? Tear off the third floor and leave two floors of rubble?" was the question. Property values decline in such a situation no matter how much individual effort has gone into your own building, the prospective seller said.

A nearby building is owned by Chase Manhattan Bank. An aluminum recycling center was once started there, but not kept up. People started dumping cans and bags of garbage in the yard and didn't stop. Nobody took the debris to the dump.

"Jim Gage (the mayor) sent them down twice to get the garbage, but that was it," said a neighbor.

There was a bad fire on Partition Street two years ago in this section. "They haven't done anything since then," claimed a resident. "I'm ashamed of Saugerties when I come into town. And I was born here."

There is an anti-litter ordinance, we were told.

"But no ordinances are being enforced down here. You can even park the wrong way on a street. The lack of enforcement has been going on for a few years," said one irate resident. "Ten years ago it didn't look like this. Every year it's getting worse. You shouldn't have to."

Gearhart Body To Return

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — The U.S. embassy has begun arrangements to bring home the body of a 34-year-old Vietnam veteran executed with three British mercenaries by an Angolan firing squad.

Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., who was enroute to Luanda when Daniel Gearhart was executed Saturday, said contact with the Angolan government was initiated at the request of Gearhart's widow in Kensington, Md.

"She expressed a wish that the body be returned and the Angolans have said this would be permitted," Mathias said Sunday.

(In London, the British Foreign Office said it had instructed British diplomats in Angola to arrange for the return of the bodies of the three Britons if requested by their families.)

The executions were carried out as Mathias waited in Lisbon for a visa to fly to Luanda to plead for Gearhart's life. His one remaining hope was that he might accompany the body home to Gearhart's widow and four children for burial.

Gearhart claimed he never fired a shot in Angola and was captured less than four days after he entered the country.

Although the United States has no diplomatic relations with Angola, the senator said he hoped arrangements to ship Gearhart's body home could be completed rapidly.

An Angolan information ministry official contacted by telephone said the Angolan government had no objections to the bodies' being sent home. He said they would be retained for eight days to give the families time to make arrangements.

Passes Critical Stage

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Pat Nixon, buoyed by a visit from her family, a gardenia plucked from her garden and cards and letters from around the world, today was reported past the critical stage in her fight for recovery from a paralyzing stroke.

But her doctors cautioned that the condition of the wife of former President Richard Nixon still was serious and that she was "not yet out of the woods."

Her family physician, Dr. John Lungren, and consulting neurologist Dr. Jack Mosier scheduled a medical briefing today at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

"The critical stage is over," Lungren said in a brief statement issued Sunday. "But Mrs. Nixon is not yet out of the woods. She is progressing very nicely."

Mrs. Nixon was suffering from a slight paralysis on her left side, but she was receiving therapy in twice-a-day walks in her hospital room with assistance. Her speech, slightly slurred as a result of the stroke, was reported improving.

Mrs. Nixon was transferred Saturday to the same room her husband, Richard Nixon, occupied when he was stricken with phlebitis and almost died 21 months ago.

Nixon, accompanied by his daughters Julie and Tricia in a 4½ hour visit to the hospital Sunday, said the room held "unpleasant memories for me."

Clark

Mrs. Agnes Chrzastek Clark of Brabant Road died Sunday at the Benedictine Hospital. Born in Kingston, she was the daughter of the late Joseph and Mary Golema Chrzastek. Surviving are: her husband, Philip; two daughters: Mrs. Arnold (Lucille) Cookston and Mrs. Albert (Barbara) Schmidt; a sister, Mrs. James (Helen) Fuoco; three brothers: John, Peter and Steve Chrzastek two grandchildren. The funeral will be held from the Gilpatrick-Murphy Funeral Home, 176 Broadway, Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. thence to St. Mary's Church where at 10 a.m. a Mass of Christian Burial will be offered. Interment in St. Mary's Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

MINARD — entered into rest July 11, 1976 Howard W. Minard of 162 Wall Street. Husband of Leila Burger Minard. The funeral will be held from the Jensen & Deegan Funeral Home, Inc., 15 Down St. on Wednesday at 11 a.m. with the Rev. John W. Mongin officiating. Interment in Lloyd Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

POTTER — Katherine of 277 Albany Ave. on July 11, 1976. Funeral arrangements will be announced by the Frank H. Simpson Funeral Home.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my husband and our father, Thomas J. Wolf, Sr., who passed away fourteen years ago, July 11, 1962. It only takes a little space To write how much we miss you. But it will take the rest of our life To forget the day we lost you.

CB Aids Birth

MANCHESTER, Conn. (UPI) — Gary Vaughn knew he was going to be speeding, so he called up state police on his car's Citizens Band radio and informed him of his plans.

"10-4," came the answer from the "smokies," indicating there was no problem.

Vaughn, 26, and his wife Doreen, 23, were headed for New Britain General Hospital, where 30 minutes later Mrs. Vaughn gave birth to Holli Marie.

The Vaughns, of Southington, were attending a party in Manchester when Mrs. Vaughn began having labor pains. Vaughn broadcast his predicament over his CB radio as they headed for the hospital.

"I had CBers all the way from East Hartford either moving over or leading the way," he said. "We had a few

Teeth Protection

HOUSTON (UPI) — Scientists are finding ways to prevent cancer patients receiving head and neck radiation from losing their teeth to cavities, according to a University of Texas dental researcher.

Dr. Samuel Dreizen said saliva plays a significant role in the control of mouth bacteria and in the protection of teeth against cavities. He said patients given radiotherapy usually develop cavities when the major salivary glands are included in the radiation field.

To prevent that, researchers are working with fluoride treatments to protect teeth, Dreizen said.

"But in the end, I was able to pull out of it, and so that perhaps perks up her spirit a bit."

"It may be a lucky room. With the proper care combined with her determination, I think that she is passing through the crisis and maybe has passed through it ... Time will tell."

Nixon, who chatted with reporters for about 10 minutes before entering the hospital, clutched a single white flower and a parcel filled with cards and letters as he left his limousine.

"I think she'll especially like this," Nixon said, pointing to the flower in his hand. "This is a fresh gardenia from the plant that was just outside of her bedroom that we picked this morning. This is my flower this morning."

Nixon said the cards and letters he carried were "not only from famous people like emperors and kings and secretaries of states, but also from people she has never met."

"It's quite touching that people from all over this country and in other countries are thinking of her at this time."

POLICE BEAT

Woman Arrested in Assault Case

KINGSTON—A Kingston woman was arrested early this morning for disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and second degree assault for allegedly kicking and biting a Kingston policeman.

Patrolman Wayne Freer, called to the scene of a family dispute on the corner of Broadway and Henry Street says he found Helene Brodhead, 19, 636 Broadway involved in a fight with her husband. Freer was arresting Mrs. Brodhead when he said she began biting and kicking him, finally hitting him on the head with a mail box.

Freer was treated at Benedictine Hospital for cuts and bruises and given a tetanus shot. Mrs. Freer will appear in city court Monday morning.

Seek Robbery Suspects

New Paltz Police report an armed robbery at the 7-11 store on Route 32 in New Paltz. Police say they are looking for a white male between 19 and 21, 5 feet 6 inches tall, medium build, wearing a brown or gray shirt, a light jacket, and dark pants; and a white female between 18 and 21, slim, long black hair parted in the middle, and wearing a blue long-sleeved blouse.

The male subject reportedly entered the store alone wearing a multi-colored ski mask and carrying a .22 or .25 calibre revolver. He forced an employee of the store into a bathroom at the rear of the store. Prior to entering the bathroom the employee saw the female subject standing near the store's cash register.

The subjects' means of escape was not seen.

Kingston Man Critical

A Kingston man is in critical condition in the intensive care unit at Benedictine Hospital after a one-car crash in Rosendale Saturday afternoon.

Hurley State Police say that Michael Thomas, 18, 34 Thompson Street in Kingston was travelling on School Lane in Rosendale when he lost control of his car, went off the left shoulder of road, slid down an embankment and struck a tree.

A passenger in the car, Archie McMillan, 20, Star Route in Rosendale, was treated and released for a fractured hand and lacerations of both arms.

State Aids Station Operator

NEW YORK (UPI) — State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz says the state has gone to bat for a Queens Mobil service station operator put out of business by what Lefkowitz claims were antitrust practices.

Lefkowitz said Saturday he had filed a brief in the State Court of Appeals alleging the operator's lease was not renewed because he failed to purchase and sell only Mobil tires, batteries, and accessories.

Lefkowitz charged that the practice, described in the case of dealer Paul Rubinfeld, violates antitrust laws. He said Mobil instituted an eviction proceeding in retaliation for Rubinfeld's refusal to comply with certain company business practices which, Lefkowitz charged, violate federal and state antitrust laws.

Rubinfeld, who has run the station for 17 years, testified at his trial that Mobil sought to force him to purchase Mobil products at the exclusion of other brands, under threats the oil company would not renew his lease if he failed to comply. While a lower court found in Rubinfeld's favor, the company successfully appealed the case to the Appellate Division.

The attorney general's brief argued that a finding supporting Rubinfeld would prevent a landlord from evicting a tenant for the sole reason of penal-

Six Attica Guards Hurt In Melee

ATTICA (UPI) — Six Attica Correctional Facility guards were injured late Sunday night in what authorities described as a "minor" disturbance involving about 200 inmates.

Prison officials said the guards were stabbed and beaten in the disturbance. Five of the six were admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital in Batavia, while the other was released following treatment.

The disturbance began about 10 p.m. when an inmate reportedly stabbed a guard, triggering a confrontation with other guards who came to his rescue.

About 200 prisoners at the maximum security prison occupied two prison yards for about four hours. Officials said the inmates were finally coaxed back into their cells. The two yards held by the prisoners were also the scene of the nation's bloodiest prison riot nearly five years ago, when 43 persons lost their lives.

Off-duty guards with riot equipment were called in, but officials said no force was used.

State police and area sheriff's deputies were on stand-by alert, but were not called to the prison.

State Department of Corrections officials left Albany for this rural Wyoming County community shortly after the disturbance broke out. Deputy Commissioner William Quick was scheduled to release a statement on the incident later today at the prison.

Admitted to St. Jerome's were Brian Sweeney, 34, of Attica, in fair condition with multiple blunt injuries; Richard Schiener, 34, of Buffalo, in fair condition with multiple stab wounds to the chest; James Kirk, 33, of Buffalo, in satisfactory condition with various injuries and being held for observation; William Bowers, 34, of Elmira, in fair condition with injuries to the chest and left thumb; Byron Ball, 25, of Warsaw, being held for observation with a groin injury.

The sixth guard, James Mann, 33, of Elmira, was released from St. Jerome's following treatment for a groin injury.

•REPS

Much of the convention gossip centers on who Carter will choose as his running mate. He's meeting today with Sen. Adlai Stevenson III of Illinois and Sen. Frank Church of Idaho.

Sen. Edmund Muskie's chances for the vice presidential nomination got a boost this morning with the publication of a Pat Caddell poll taken for Carter as reported in today's Boston Globe. The Caddell poll indicates that only Muskie of Carter's seven possible vice presidential choices can firm up Carter's soft support among eastern ethnic voters.

"It's hard to judge how a running mate will do in Ulster County," said Hinchey when informed of the poll. "There are some ethnic factors in Kingston and I suppose Muskie's as good as anybody."

Cleanup Program

DETROIT (UPI) — More than 150,000 volunteers from approximately 1,200 community groups have helped Detroit shed seven million pounds of accumulated trash and debris as part of this year's annual spring cleanup program that covered a 70-square-mile section of the city.

Detroit's Environmental Protection and Maintenance Department sent 412 trucks on special pickups throughout the city, while the National Guard provided 25 trucks with guardsmen to remove debris that was too bulky or heavy for sanitation workers.

The Founding Fathers would be astounded to learn that 150,041,000 Americans will be eligible to vote in the forthcoming presidential election. To vote in the early days of our nation, a man had to "have a stake in society." He had to own property or prove he paid taxes. And a man had to be "free, white and 21" to have a say in choosing the new nation's leaders. The World Almanac reports.

As The Convention Opens...

NEW YORK (UPI) — Democrats convene tonight for a four-day festival of love and newfound harmony climaxing when they give their presidential nomination to Jimmy Carter, a shrewd newcomer from the Deep South and a stranger to most of them.

Hours before Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss gavels the party's 37th national convention to order at 8 p.m. EDT in Madison Square Garden, the only suspense centered on Carter's choice of a running mate.

The former Georgia governor said only that "so far as I know," his candidate for the vice presidential nominee would come from among seven members of Congress. (See story below)

Carter, who said Sunday he had changed his mind three or four times about his favorites, promises to observe tradition and withhold announcement of his decision until after he is nominated late Wednesday night. The convention will ratify his choice Thursday afternoon during the final session.

Additional delegate votes continued to shift into Carter's column as the convention opening approached. By late Sunday night, a running UPI tabulation showed Carter had 1,952 votes — nearly two-thirds of the 3,008 convention total and far more than the 1,505 majority needed for nomination.

Running second — as he did in most of the primaries — was Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona with less than 350 votes. Udall says his name probably will be placed in nomination to satisfy his supporters, but he likely will withdraw immediately or allow his votes to shift to Carter before the first ballot ends.

Schedule For Tonight

There was a chance that Gov. Edmund Brown of California and Ellen McCormack, the antiabortion candidate, also will have their names placed in nomination, but it was expected that Carter would be nominated by acclamation before the Wednesday night session is over.

Before giving Carter the nomination — and their hopes for reclaiming the White House after a lono decade of bitter party strife — the Democrats present for opening night on prime time television tonight a pair of keynote speakers heavy with symbolism.

They are Glenn, the Ohio senator who was the first astronaut to orbit earth, and Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., the first black woman elected to Congress from the South.

And to underscore the unity theme, the 5,034 convention delegates and alternates also hear welcoming speeches by New York City's Jewish mayor, the state's Irish-American governor and woman lieutenant governor, and the Democratic National Committee's black vice chairman.

Not only was suspense virtually lacking, but only one squabble threatened to mar the uncharacteristically placid Democratic conclave — a far cry from the rancorous McGovern convention of 1972, the violence of 1968 in Chicago or the last convention to be held in New York, a two-week Democratic marathon in 1924 that took 103 ballots to nominate John W. Davis.

The sole controversy centered on women's rights, at a convention where women make up 34 per cent of the delegates.

After meeting with 75 ranking party women leaders Sunday, Carter said he would seek a compromise to a women's proposal that would require an even sexual balance of delegates to the 1980 convention.

During an hour-long interview Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," Carter agreed with Democratic chairman Strauss that "there is a problem about Catholic votes" in his appeal to the public.

But he added, "I don't think we can characterize Catholic voters as any kind of a bloc and I think we can deal with them on the issues."

"I KILL FOR CASH" reads the sign of an antiabortion picket during a demonstration of thousands of antiabortion protesters led by presidential candidate Ellen McCormack, marching near the Democratic Convention Center Sunday. Mrs. McCormack, a housewife and mother who campaigned almost solely on the anti-abortion issue and demands repeal of abortion law, told the demonstrators, "We who march here today do so because of our conviction that there is no person too young, too old or too handicapped to count."

... Seven Are in Running for Second

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jimmy Carter, clearly the apple of this city's eye on the opening day of the Democratic National Convention, prepared to finish today his seven personal interviews for a running mate.

He acknowledged "maybe three" topped his list. At least two of the seven had factors that perhaps could result in their elimination from the contest.

Carter interviewed Rep. Pete Rodino, 67, of New Jersey, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee's 1974 impeachment inquiry, and acknowledged that "age is a factor, yes." He said Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota was taking "minimal medication" for mild hypertension.

Carter said, however, that he had found no financial or physical problems that would eliminate any of the seven.

Carter was to speak today with the final two — Sens. Frank Church of Idaho, who defeated him in two late primaries, and Adlai Stevenson III of Illinois, whose great-grandfather was vice president and whose father was the Democratic standard bearer in 1952 and 1956.

Earlier he interviewed

three other senators, Edmund Muskie of Maine, John Glenn of Ohio and Henry Jackson of Washington in addition to Mondale.

"I'd say, of these seven, there are maybe three that are at the top of my list," Carter said during TV network interviews.

"I haven't made known in the slightest my preference to my wife or my top staff members or anyone else," he said. "Cross my heart, I have an open mind about it."

During the day he also revealed that black Congressman Andrew Young of Atlanta, his closest friend among public officials, would give a seconding address for his nomination.

He said he opposed a quota system that would insure 50 per cent female representation among the delegates at the 1980 national convention, but was "perfectly willing as head of the party" to work towards such representation.

Carter opened the day bowed in prayer at a chapel service at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, and ended it with two massive, noisy parties at Rockefeller Plaza and Pier 88.

Between times, Carter, his wife Rosalynn and their daughter, Amy, 8, walked up Fifth Avenue in a crush of reporters, photographers and passersby. One shouted, "Who's your vice president, Jimmy?" He answered with a smile, "Haven't decided. Interested?"

Another person attempted to give him a religious tract. Stopped by the Secret Service, he shouted, "Keep the faith, Jimmy!" Carter replied, "I will."

Pickets Precede Opening

NEW YORK (UPI) — The opening today of the Democratic national convention, expected to be a five-day tribute to Jimmy Carter, was preceded by two rallies designed to coincide with the political show — but not choreographed to please its star.

Right-to-life activists and supporters of gay rights staged separate rallies Sunday at Madison Square Garden, the convention site, to demand repeal of laws which they say stifle their respective causes.

Neither demonstration drew as many participants as its organizers had expected.

Police estimated about 8,000 antiabortion supporters gathered in Central Park to hear presidential candidate Ellen McCormack, who has campaigned almost exclusively on the right to life issue and has five delegates to show for her efforts.

"It may take us many years to win our struggle against the powerful judges and the powerful legislators who have decided that it is convenient to allow one million unborn children to die every year," said Mrs. McCormack, a mother of three from Merrick, L.I.

Referring to the Constitutional guarantees of Americans, Mrs. McCormack said, "An inalienable right cannot be taken away by Jimmy Carter."

State Workers Help in Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) — The State Health Department moved today to help struck hospitals and nursing homes cope with patient care as Gov. Hugh Carey called for arbitration to resolve the six-day walkout.

Dr. J. Warren Toff, the department's associate commissioner for New York City Health Services, said in a memo Sunday that 50 State Health Department Central Office professionals will "assist with patient care in the struck hospitals and nursing homes" beginning today.

"Every effort is being made to deploy State Health Department staff where needed to prevent mishaps to patients," Toff said.

He said that while "patient care has not been adversely affected" by virtue of volunteers and non-strikers helping out, "The normal work week will drain off the volunteer population."

Toff said the "most critical problem" at present is garbage accumulation, with city sanitationmen refusing to cross picket lines unless a struck facility is certified by the city Health Department as a health hazard.

Meanwhile, the two sides held joint talks Sunday — the first such negotiation since the strike began — but a union spokesman said no progress resulted and no time was set for new discussions.

Interviewed on television Sunday, Carey said that arbitration appeared to be the only way to resolve a strike by some 40,000 workers at 57 hospitals and nursing homes in the metropolitan area.

"The parties should sit down and work out the processes and standards that could lead to arbitration to break this impasse," the governor declared.

But Carey reiterated his position that the state cannot increase Medicaid reimbursements to the health care facilities to provide them with additional income to meet union demands.

Carey was interviewed on WABC-TV's "Eyewitness News Conference."

William J. Abelow, executive vice president of the League of Voluntary Hospitals, said it will continue to oppose arbitration, declaring, "It is our belief that arbitration is not the answer in this question because, as the governor very clearly pointed out, there is no new state money going to be available. An arbitrator can only decide what the union gets and the arbitrator cannot in any way determine what the hospital will get to pay for that."

A spokesman for the striking District 1199, National Union of Hospital and Health Care Employees, responded, "We say again, if the hospital management will accept our proposal to submit any and all issues to binding arbitration, the strike can be ended in a matter of hours."

The State Health Department said a survey Sunday by its monitors at 29 struck private hospitals showed an occupancy of 66 per cent of their total licensed capacity. A survey of 11 struck nursing homes showed them to be at 52 per cent of total licensed capacity as of Sunday.

On Saturday, the strike, called Wednesday at 33 private, non-profit hospitals, spread to 10 city hospitals having affiliation agreements with the private facilities and to 14 nursing homes.

The strikers include x-ray technicians, orderlies and nurse's aides. No doctors and only a few registered nurses are represented by the union. The main issue is the union's demand for a cost-of-living wage increase.

STAFF'S CHANCE

Help The Public Attend

About 5 p.m. the other day, a man rushed breathlessly into a 4 p.m. meeting of Ulster Town Board saying he had just found out that a meeting was being held to decide whether to put the question of zoning to a public referendum.

Why, he wanted to know, does the town board hold meetings on such vital issues at 4 in the afternoon "when no one can get there?"

He took exception to the fact that the board often meets at an hour when most people are still working at their jobs or parents are caring for children and preparing dinner.

Board members assured him it was a matter of convenience to them rather than an attempt at secrecy.

But, one wonders.

In the past 18 months, Ulster Town Board has held its regular monthly meetings at 7:30 and 8 p.m.

It has also held 49 "special" meetings randomly between 1 and 4 p.m. and in almost all instances, with no notice of the meeting regardless of the time.

Minutes indicate that during some of the special meetings, important issues and decisions were made on such things as the proposal to buy one million gallons of water a day from the City of Kingston, the appointments of a town justice and town attorney, for which there were many candidates and the expenditure of many thousands of dollars in connection with the sewer project.

But, those minutes were NOT read at regular board meetings.

Granted most members of town boards must and do put in long hours of dedicated service attending to the multitude of problems facing municipalities today. Ulster is no exception.

Granted too, it is occasionally necessary to call-unannounced special meetings to deal with emergencies or to cope with personnel matters.

But one must question the advisability of consistently carrying on the town's business and passing important legislation without informing the taxpayer and the press of its intention to do so.

Intersection Is Badly Marked

Dear Editor:

Recently I was stopped by a deputy sheriff for driving in the wrong lane at the intersection of North Front Street and Washington Avenue heading out of the city. Since the pavement markings were fairly new, the deputy merely issued a warning. Since then, I have been carefully observing the pavement markings, staying in the right hand land until I cross the North Front Street intersection.

I call attention to this incident and this area because I have yet to see another driver follow the markings correctly. The result is that when it is necessary for me to move from the right into the left lane in the next block to drive out Hurley Avenue, if cars of my left drive straight instead of turning into Joys Lane, they cause a hazardous situation.

Perhaps signs should be posted to indicate that "left lane must turn left." Otherwise, if the deputies are conscientious enough to enforce the law on one occasion, they should be posted at that intersection to make sure the traffic rules are adhered to all the time. Why bother to follow the traffic rules otherwise if you tend to create a potential accident by doing so?

Respectfully,

Return to Old City Hall

Dear Editor: Almost every week I read something in the Freeman regarding the old Kingston City Hall. The latest is that money to remodel the entire building is not available. I also noticed, according to the Freeman, that the new Kingston City Hall is overcrowded. Kingston should solve several problems with one simple solution. Remodel the first floor of the old City Hall with the money available from state and federal sources. Leave the upper floors as they are now. When the work is completed, move the mayor's office, the City Council chambers, the fire and police department administrative offices and most of the various city boards back to the old City Hall. In this way, all of Kingston's relics of the past with nothing much upstairs will be in one place. The only foreseeable problem with this plan is one of image. The original move by the city government from a high place of distinction at the center of town to one of the lowest, most empty places in the city, was very appropriate.

Sincerely,

Flabbergasted At Job Study

Dear Editor:

I'm a nurse's aide employed at the Ulster County Infirmary. Recently, I had the opportunity, as did all county employees, to read and review the job study and evaluation conducted by the Kingsley Corp. I'm only thankful I was given the chance to vote to reject this incredibly useless study for which the county paid approximately $18,000.

First of all, the nurse's aides at the infirmary are all classified as hospital aides. This is incorrect. I don't work in a hospital where short-term acute nursing care is done. I work at the infirmary where extended care is offered to the chronically ill. These concepts are entirely different and so is the work.

I was flabbergasted as I read on. Two of the requirements for the position of hospital aide are: an ability to perform housekeeping tasks and (are you ready?) a New York State operators license. Now for the hazards of the job: according to Mr. Kingsley there are two — strains and traffic accidents!!! It appears that he sees us as running up and down the halls of the infirmary with a dust cloth (perhaps in a Volkswagen) trying to avoid head-on collisions.

Further inaccuracies include: that we administer prescribed medications (this happens to be illegal and is only done by licensed professionals at the infirmary); okay, here is a good one — that our weight lifting load is 40 pounds. This means that when I lift a patient into bed, I'd be leaving approximately two-thirds of her in the chair.

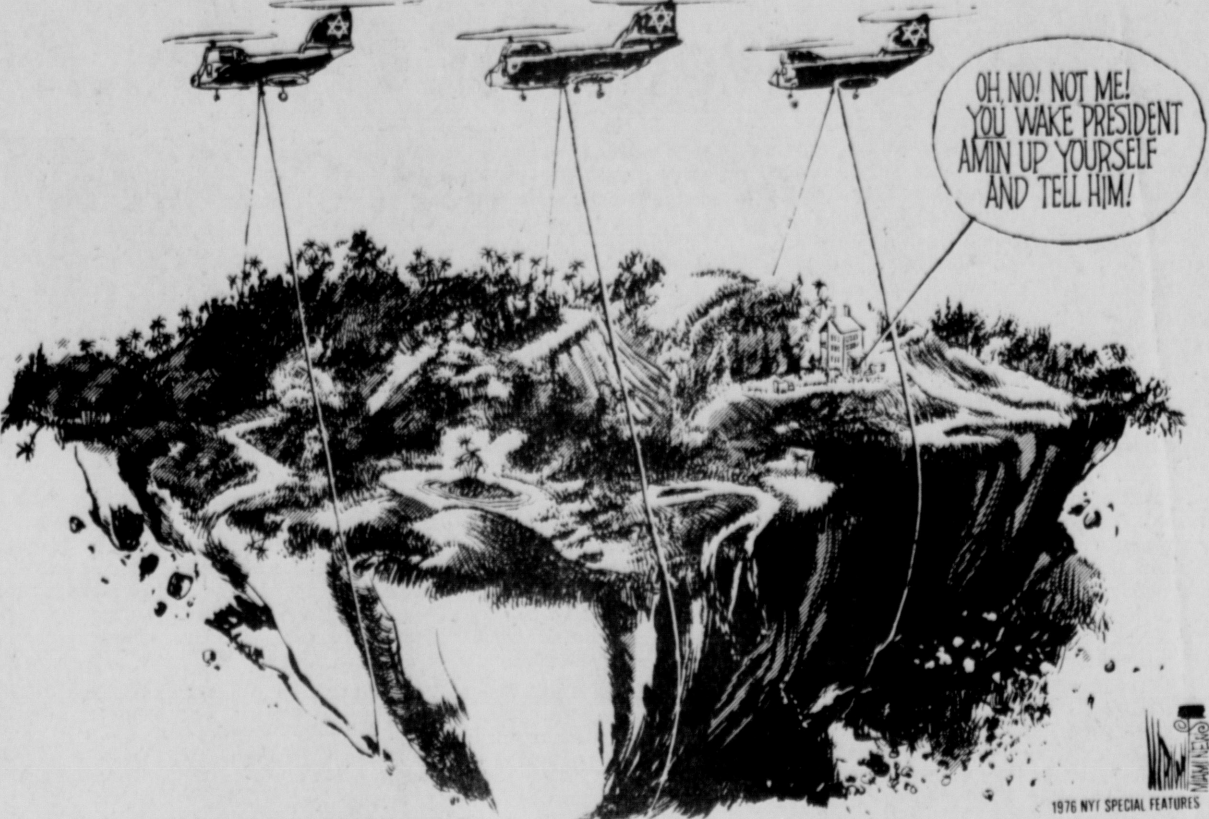

Mr. Quimby of CSEA told us that we could not have copies of our own job study, so I can only comment on the aspects that stand out in my memory.

However, the real truths were never mentioned. The back-breaking lifting, the exposure to contamination and communicable disease, the possibility of serious injury either due to conditions or the patient directly, the tremendous responsibility and the emotional drain.

Ulster County paid $18,000 for a job study that is degrading, inaccurate in its judgements, incorrect in its facts, and valueless in its function.

I only hope that the patients themselves and their families do not consider us all to be the morons that CSEA and the county legislators have made us appear to be in black and white.

Taking Aim At Ralph Nader

WASHINGTON - After reading the new book about Ralph Nader, conservatives may decide that the liberal journalism of investigations has turned to eating the flesh of its own species. (Me & Ralph: Is Nader Unsafe for America? by David Sanford, The New Republic Book Co., Washington, D.C., $7.95.) David Sanford, its author, is the managing editor of The New Republic and as such he is as much a certificated liberal as a Walter Mondale or a Jake Javits, although there are those who say the magazine Walter Lippmann found has drifted far rightward.

Nevertheless, some of us who're ordinarily accused of leftward tilt might ask ourselves if we've been doing the same kind of job on those we disagree with that Sanford does on Nader. If we have, you can begin to understand why the bowels fly loose at the country club at the suggestion there's a journalist skulking around the gates, noting who is going home with the wrong wife or husband.

Sanford makes it clear from the onset he will do Nader in, if he can, but ought he use such means to discredit our only major public figure who doesn't have to pray on TV to prove he's honest? Let's quote:

"Lately other associates of Nader have maintained to reporters that Ralph is dating. They do not say whom. After her husband was killed Ethel Kennedy occasionally had Ralph in for dinner. Morrison McCormick, a resident of Georgetown, says that Ralph sometimes works late in what neighbors on Thirty-fourth Street, NW, refer to as 'the mystery house' - a dwelling occupied by a young woman who keeps her blinds drawn, has nothing to do with neighbors and who (McCormick assumed) is in Nader's hire. Some mornings she and Ralph can be seen quietly leaving the house the back way and getting into a car - a car she, not Ralph, always drives - parked on Volta Place."

This small shameful moment in journalism is prefaced by the remark that: "One of the least defensible intrusions upon Nader's privacy has been the interest that writers... have taken in his sex life..." First you deplore it and then you do it.

What can one say except, "Shades of Lizzie Ray!" Boudoir journalism is the Washington fashion even under the colophon of The New Republic, a publication that may not have always been right, but was, at one time, always cerebral.

Imagine attacking Nader by writing: "...he rode in Kopkind's convertible and didn't even buckle his seat belt." Sanford isn't the only eastern lib journalist who lives to catch people in inconsistencies. The penchant is as nearly universal as it is imbecilic.

At this very moment you can wager that an unknown but large number of salivating newsmen are examining every recorded word of Jiminy Peanut to catch him in inconsistent statements. They'll succeed because the consistency contemporary news carnivores seek is to be found only in the madhouse. So he didn't buckle his seat belt, eh? There are private detectives working for large news-gathering organizations in Washington who've caught dentists drinking Coca-Cola and nutritionists eating Big Macs.

Some inconsistencies on the part of public figures, be they in language or act, are important. It takes thought and judgment to distinguish them from the inconsequential. To explain the important inconsistencies and contradictions demands expository writing, and that's a higher order of skill than marking down when people may have violated their Boy Scout oath.

Nader is open to attack on many substantive issues, but you can't do that if you don't understand the issues and are unable to write about them with clarity. Nader, for example, did not endorse no-fault auto insurance. Never mind that a lot of us who did now wish we hadn't. If Sanford thought Nader was wrong, he should have addressed himself to the merits of the case. He didn't. Instead

It Was One Heck of A Honeymoon

The sentimentalist asks for one more honeymoon. One more, and then one more. He knew that the erosion of time makes a husband look more like the father of his wife, but Milton A. Goldstandt enjoyed it. He was 80.

Whatever mark Goldstandt aspired to make is already chiseled in stone. He is an affluent financial consultant in Hallandale, Florida, a bald, molasses-skinned smiley who asks nothing more of life than health.

He flew his "Dorrie," an attractive gray-haired woman, to Las Vegas. Milt doesn't gamble. Dorrie does. She will bet on blackjack, a horse or bluff a hand of poker.

The remarkable feature of the honeymoon is that each indulges the other. Quietly, he stuffed her purse full of money. Silently, she helped him on with his elastic stockings, which control his phlebitis. She packed the infrared lamp which subdues chronic sinusitis.

He's a kisser. Milt embraced Dorrie at Las Vegas airport and palmed a few quarters. The machine clunked twice and dumped a hat full of coins in a tray.

Goldstandt wouldn't put his girl in a taxi. He hired a big black limousine. "This," he assured her, "is going to be one heck of a honeymoon. Besides, tomorrow is my 80th birthday."

They lived it up at The Dunes. He took a nap. She won $35 at blackjack. In the evening, they sat on a small porch, squinting at the chocolate mountains which form the dessert dish for Las Vegas.

The chief of service, Bob Barrossa, heard about the occasion. He snitched the news to Jean Magowan, public relations expert at The Dunes. She called Jim Brann at the Union Plaza, and others.

Within a few hours, the Goldstandts were overwhelmed with invitations. The city with the heart of sand opened its doors to the hand-holders.

Dining became an endurance contest. They saw the Casino de Paris show through a big leafy salad and a New York steak. At the Hilton, they applauded Liberace as a piano wire flew him back and forth across the stage, chirping, "Mary Poppins, eat your heart out."

Golf is Goldstandt's hobby. He had to rest up for nine holes each morning at The Dunes. The starter hooked him up with an attractive 21-year-old named Betsy McWilley. Milton, attired in gold slacks and shirt, put on his courtly manner.

The girl hits 260 yards from the men's tees. Gamblers back her for bets of $10,000 against scratch players. Milt hit the ball 210 down the fairway and dropped his condescending fatherly attitude.

He called her "Miss McWilley." She called him "Milt" and was on the green in two on a 525-yard par five. After nine humiliating holes, he invited her to lunch with his wife and told her of the times he played the game with Walter Hagen.

She grinned and said, "Who's that?" He shook hands and bade her adieu and explored Las Vegas from a taxi. At the new Union Plaza Hotel, Goldstandt was surprised to find that an arthritic Jewish woman played the slot machines and had just won an airplane standing in the lobby.

He walked into Stony's hockshop and said, "How's business?" Stony shrugged. "How should it be?" The hockshop is 45 years old. Long ago, the losers were cowboys. They hocked the saddles off their horses.

Today it's guitars, cameras, gems and watches. Japanese gamblers are mathematicians. Chinese gamblers giggle when they go broke. Latins implore Our Lady of Guadalupe to please watch the dice.

In the middle of the night, Goldstandt made a pilgrimage to the bathroom and stuffed more money in Dorrie's purse. She began to think she was winning. They ate breakfast one-handed, hanging on to each other with the other.

The week flew on noisy wings. "Never had a honeymoon as good as this one," he said. Dorrie packed. "You had a pretty good birthday too," she said. He nodded. "Yes, indeed. Want to do it again in three months?"

Dorrie chuckled. She would think about it. They flew home. The magic, like a twilight sun, began to fade into pink and yellow ribbons.

At the apartment, Goldstandt put an arm around an elderly lady and kissed her. She is his mother-in-law. "There are times," he whispered apologetically, "when married people should be alone."

Have Demos Found New Roosevelt?

NEW YORK — Beneath the surface harmony, as the Democrats assemble here to nominate Jimmy Carter, run conflicting currents of apprehension and hope.

The apprehension arises from both the nature of the victory and the character of the man who won it. Jimmy Carter overwhelmed the Democratic party by bypassing, even opposing, its traditional bastions. His campaign effort was directed by an old Annapolis classmate here, a born-again church brother there and a local maverick or an enthusiastic kid over yonder.

It was an effort that began in 1972 in the middle of his term as governor of Georgia. He gathered his tight little circle of advisers around him to discuss their next conquest. With an audacity that was breathtaking, they set their sights upon the White House.

They pursued the presidency with a doggedness that sent Carter to Florida 62 times before he entered the Democratic primary there. The strategy was to score a series of rapid, early victories and let the momentum carry them on to the nomination. Carter confidantes tell us that they concentrated their total effort on the first primaries, that they had no plans beyond the Pennsylvania primary.

Carter conquered by indirection. After four years of ingratiating himself with the public, he remains a frustratingly elusive suitor to Democratic professionals and ideologists alike who require the familiar pledges of the flesh and spirit — which he resists giving in full measure.

When Carter waxes effusive, it is about the Holy Spirit rather than such traditional objects of Democratic veneration as economic planning, the evisceration of oil companies and the redistribution of income.

He has embraced his party's predilections just enough to keep his primary opponents from putting him in a box. The feeling persists that his heart isn't in it and that a winnowing of Democratic shibboleths is ahead. The Carter personality is also a cause of concern.

He is aloof and inaccessible even to those who are given access. He has also acquired a palace guard before he has the palace. Even more disturbing to some, those who have his ear speak with accents not of ivy but of magnolia.

There is a disgruntlement, too, about a Carter mean streak beneath the surface amiability, a hardness beneath the engaging sincerity, a political purpose behind the Billy Graham sermonettes. One Democratic professional, who has come to know Carter, told us: "He's tough as a warehouse rat."

But there was a note of admiration in the old pro's voice. For despite the ambiguities and the remoteness, Carter also offers the Democrats a new hope. They see in him an unexpected leader possessing political skills unseen since the great architect of Democratic supremacy, Franklin D. Roosevelt, burst into American politics.

Instead of mean and elusive, they see Carter as tough and prudent. They see a tactician who outplanned, outmaneuvered, outlegged and outlasted successive waves of opponents, a strategist who won his victories in a way that made possible the unifying of the party and the creation of an electoral coalition of historic significance.

These hopefuls feel that Carter, by his aloofness from the old Democratic powers and panaceas, has given the party a needed facelift in the nick of time. Had the Democrats been caught in a traditional conservative vs. liberal contest, it is suggested, they figured to take a shellacking.

But the advent of Carter has blurred the party's vulnerability without surrendering its basic goals, has held together the old constituencies while ushering in new ones. Reconciled southerners and evangelical Christians — groups which only yesterday were rather wary of the party of Hubert Humpfrey and George McGovern — are attracted to Carter.

To many, Carter's campaign as a Southerner who embraced the memory of Martin Luther King Jr., and Carter's crushing but gentle defeat of George Wallace in the South, constituted a political masterpiece. They believe it has, without sacrifice of party principles, saved the South for the Democratic party.

There is another aspiration, half-defined, floating around Madison Square Garden. The nomination victory, won essentially without obligation to the old power centers and special interest groups, opens up a chance for Carter to become a truly national leader, a no-sayer to the predators and parasites, a spokesman for the unorganized and reticent.

There is a dawning hope among the convening Democrats that Jimmy Carter, by the direct link to the people he forged in 20 primaries, by his reaffirmation of submerged but potent values, by defeating without estranging his opponents, by burying the old rancors and recreating his party as a truly national instrument, is laying the basis for the restoration of the moral authority of the American government.

Those who know Carter say he is fully aware of his opportunity to revive the flagging faith in the American system, to end the national deadlock and to rescue the people from the mire of cynicism.

If he should be elected, he has told associates, he would go into the White House as a man of simplicity, a man who believes in God and isn't afraid to say so.

He would try to bring trust and integrity back to the White House, he has said.

Maybe all this is just a Democratic pipe dream, but maybe it isn't.

Kingston Hospital Initiates Family Practice Residency

Program Aimed at Bringing Qualified Physicians into Area

By CHAZY DOWALIBY
Freeman Staff

KINGSTON — An innovative program aimed at bringing family doctors into the Kingston area has been given the go-ahead by the Kingston Hospital Board of Trustees. The Hospital has announced the establishment of a Family Practice Residency Program which will bring qualified medical school graduates into the county for three year residency training to become what used to be called "general practitioners".

The program, slated to begin July 1, 1978, will make Kingston Hospital the first such teaching facility in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

For local residents the new concept will mean higher quality, more available medical care from a doctor familiar with each patient, his family and their needs.

One of the prime movers in the development of the plan is Dr. E.H. Reppert, director of educational services at the hospital, who is quick to point out the dramatic need for family practice M.D.s in this region.

"Kingston and Benedictine Hospitals have between 12 and 14 attending physicians in this service. Their average age is 58 years. We haven't had a new practitioner in the area in 10 years and 30 to 40 per cent of the population doesn't have a family physician and probably doesn't know how to find one."

To emphasize his already strong statement Dr. Reppert notes that two local family doctors have already retired in the two and a half years it took to develop the residency program.

Working with a local committee which included Dr. Walter Levy, head of the family practice unit at Kingston, Dr. Reppert has laid the groundwork for this new approach to residency training.

"We will differ from the usual program by using the vertical rather than the horizontal approach to training," says Dr. Reppert.

What this means is that residents will see their patients in a setting resembling a family practitioners office, instead of a hospital room.

In fact, patients will be assigned individual doctors who will treat all of their needs on a continuing basis, so that one family will have its "own doctor" familiar with the background and medical history of each family member.

"Residents in the three year program will spend about 75 per cent of their first year in the hospital. By their third year we hope they'll be spending 75 to 80 per cent of their time in the family practice module."

The "module," as Dr. Reppert refers to it, will be a separate facility set up much like any other "doctors building". The site of the module is still flexible and may either be a part of the new Kingston Hospital complex, or in an existing hospital building not now operative.

Funds to pay for the new program will come in part from the operation of the family practice itself.

Patients will be charged for office visits and, in the necessity of hospitalization, part of that money will also revert back to the program.

Dr. Reppert also hopes to raise additional funds through state and federal grant applications and from the usual hospital fund drives.

Although the program will initiate at Kingston Hospital Dr. Reppert has been assured the interest and support of Benedictine Hospital and hopes that the residency concept will spread to other medical facilities in the Mid-Hudson Valley. Ultimate goal of such development would be the set-up of a clinical campus medical school where third and fourth year students would train in various specialties at facilities in Ulster, Dutchess and Orange counties.

A director for the Kingston program has been chosen but Dr. Reppert declined to disclose the name at this time, stating only that the man is a local practitioner who will begin his duties sometime in October of this year.

As the program stands, four residents will begin training in 1978, with four more added each year until a total of 12 doctors are in residence at any one time.

It is generally accepted that 50 to 60 percent of doctors settle in the areas in which they took their residency," explains Dr. Reppert. "By opening up the Kingston Family Practice Residency program we hope to draw more qualified family physicians into our area, and improve the quality of available medical care at the same time."

While the program will be affiliated with New York Medical College, application from graduates across the country will be accepted.

Even though much of the administrative work on the program has already been planned, one crucial factor still hangs in the balance, according to Dr. Reppert.

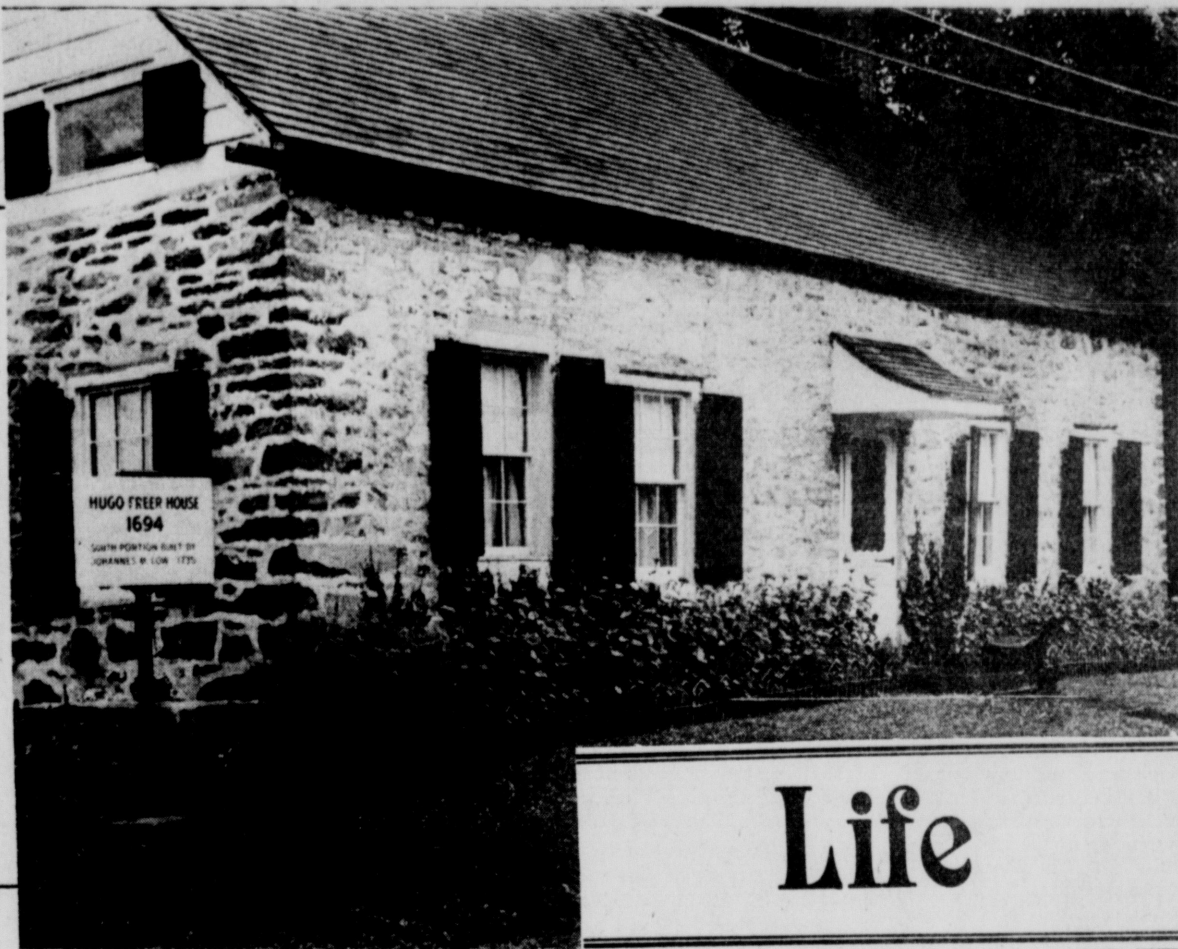

"We can't succeed without support and acceptance from the community. Residents in training is a new concept for this area although it has been widely used elsewhere for years, and we will need a lot of support from the community in accepting this type of care."

What the doctor hopes will happen is that patients who become accustomed to their resident doctor over several years will have the option of continuing to see that same physician, after he has set up private practice in the community.

"We will encourage our doctors to go to the outlying regions where we're in dire need of family practitioners," says Dr. Reppert, who also adds his hope that the program will serve its purpose by bringing better medicine to local residents through a joint community, hospital effort.

Visit the Oldest Street In America on Heritage Day

NEW PALTZ—New Paltz boasts one of the nation's proudest National Historic Landmarks: Huguenot Street, the oldest street in America, dating back to 1678. Lovely stone houses, built by the founders of New Paltz, line this street and are open daily to the public.

Those who want an extra treat this Bicentennial year are invited to return to 1776 and visit Huguenot Street on Heritage Day, formerly Stone House Day, Aug. 7.

As visitors walk down the quaint boulevard, smiling ladies in authentic costumes will usher them through the stone houses, pointing out such unique architectural features as medieval jambless fireplaces, and mow doors, used for placing provisions in the attic from the outside.

Arts and crafts of the period will be displayed and demonstrated at various locations on the street. A Bicentennial spinner will spin flax into lines. Mrs. Thurlow Weed will conduct a quilting bee. Blacksmithing, candlemaking, chair caning and silversmithing are among the other activities to be shown.

This year, as a unique treat, the descendants of each of the Huguenot families will sponsor a special display inside each of the stone houses. There will be an early stone ware collection at the Bevier-Elting house. There will be an aroma of homemade bread and butter as well as other homemade delights.

The New York Second Regiment will be encamped at the

Wallace Phillips Enjoys 100th Birthday Celebration

RHINEBECK—Wallace Phillips, a native and lifelong resident of Dutchess County, celebrated his 100th birthday, Saturday, June 26, with a special party in his honor at the Skilled Nursing Facility, Northern Dutchess Hospital. Known as Wally, he is the first resident of SNF to attain the centennial mark. He has been a resident at the facility since its opening in 1972.

Born in Red Hook where his family farmed, Wallace Phillips was one of four children. He attended local schools and graduated from the eighth grade. After farming for several years, he continued his education at Cornell where he completed an agricultural and horticultural course.

He worked for 20 years on what was then known as the Potts Farm in Pitcher Lane, Red Hook. He observed that farming was more than just planting and remembered acting as his own veterinarian on many occasions.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips were married for 66 years. His late wife was Mary Eliza Ingalls, a resident of Elizaville before their marriage. In their later years they resided with their daughter, Myrtle Phillips Von Helms of Poughkeepsie. Prior to residing at the Skilled Nursing Facility, he lived for many years in Rhinecliff with his daughter, Pauline Phillips, a retired R.N. He also is the father of a son, Kenneth Phillips of Nevada; and has several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

No longer ambulatory, he does enjoy exceptionally good health. His only explanation for his longevity, "I started taking care of myself and have worked since I was 15!"

Immunization Clinics Will Be Conducted

KINGSTON—Clinics for immunization against polio, whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, measles and German measles and mumps will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department, Thursday, July 15, at the Ellenville Health Center, 102 Canal St.,

Ellenville, under the direction of Mrs. Millie VanDemark; and Friday, July 16, at the Tumor Clinic Building, 400 Broadway, Kingston, 10 to 11 a.m., with Mrs. Judy Murray. Services are available for age three months to 21 years.

Opera Set for Tuesday

NEW PALTZ—Sylvia Anderson of Poughkeepsie will be singing the title role in the revival of the first American Indian opera, "Winona," in the showcase production at the McKenna Theater, SUNY at New Paltz, Tuesday, July 13, 8:30 p.m. A Vassar scholarship winner and graduate of the Peabody Institute Conservatory, she has previously sung the lead of Mimi in "La Boheme" with the Mid-Hudson Opera Theater.

This showcase production of "Winona," based on Indian legend, by composer Alberto Bimboni and librettist Perry Williams, is being produced by the Sullivan County Council for the Arts to stimulate an interest in an exciting American work.

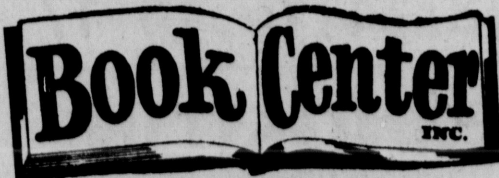

Singing with Miss Anderson will be Carl Fredericksen, nationally known composer; Tony Angelo, former newscaster; and Rolf Gorlan of the Metropolitan Opera Studio.

Jump Suits...the Brand X Of the Fashion Industry

If you ever hear that I jumped into a jump suit, don't believe it. I was pushed.

This has to be the Brand X of the fashion industry.

There are only six women in this country who look well in jump suits. Five of them are terminal and the other was sired by a Xerox machine.

Out of sheer curiosity, I was rummaging through a rack of them when a saleswoman approached and asked, "Which size are you? 12? 14? 16?"

"Yes," I said.

Which? she pursued.

"All three. My bust is a 12, my waist a 14, and my hips 16."

"Try the 14," she said dryly.

"The fitting room is behind better dresses."

a large room with 16 mirrors on the wall, a rack in the center to hang discards and a woman by the door to make sure you didn't wear out any more than you wore in.

A fitting room to me has always been like a confessional — where my body and my contrition take up the entire room. There is no room for anyone else. I looked around. All eyes seemed to be focused on one woman. She weighed about six pounds and was trying on a jump suit . . . one of the six women mentioned above. It slid on easily, up over her hips and onto her arms. I winced as she distributed the cloth left over around her waist.

I looked at the crowd who could not take their eyes off her. I had seen that look of resentment and pain on only one other occasion. It was a Charlton Heston movie just before the door slid back between the Christians and the lions.

Inching closer, I whispered, "Lady, you better get out of here before they tear you to shreds."

It was my turn. For 15 minutes, I tugged and inched my way into the jump suit and looked into the mirror. The chest was disguised as a back, the stomach strained at the buttons, the legs were numb without circulation and the hems swirled around the floor.

"How do you . . ."

"You get a carton of water pills with every suit," offered the salesperson.

I didn't buy the jump suit, but what the heck. For awhile seven women forgot about the Panama Canal.

DEAR ABBY

Liberated Woman Doesn't Wait For the Man to Make First Move

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to BORED ON MY HONEYMOON did nothing but perpetuate the male-performance-oriented approach to sex. You said people might think there is something wrong with the husband if his wife spent all her time writing thank-you notes on their honeymoon. Why put all the pressure on the male in sexual relations, while the woman sits back and waits for his move? I get the same thing from the girls I take out. They all call themselves "liberated," but do you think they'd ever initiate anything? No! I've got to kiss them first and make all the first moves. Then they're supposed to say, "No," when I go too far.

Who made up the rules for this game anyway?—SINGLE MALE

DEAR SINGLE: You're either playing with an old set of rules or some very old players. The truly liberated woman doesn't wait for the man to make the first move or say, "No,"—if he's appealing.

The honeymoon scene is another matter. If the bride spends most of her time writing thank-you notes, it's assumed she has no choice.

DEAR ABBY: A reader submitted "Lectori Salutem" as a practical non-sexist salutation for a business letter, explaining that it meant, "Hail to the reader!"

You replied "Hail no! Most Americans have enough trouble with English!"

Abby, if in your view Americans are that incompetent, why not open all correspondence with, "Hi, Dummies!"?

—CORRY'S DAUGHTER.

DEAR DAUGHTER: I don't consider myself a "dummy," but since I've never studied Latin, "Lectori Salutem" would be Greek to me.

DEAR ABBY: I was a widow and he was a widower. We were both lonely and decided that marriage would be a better way of living for both of us.

I have my own income and Herbert has his, but we do share living expenses, so there's no problem there.

On my birthday Herbert bought me a bicycle. I was thrilled with it because it was the first gift he ever gave me.

I ride the bicycle occasionally, but apparently I don't ride it enough to suit Herbert, because he keeps threatening to sell it if I don't ride it more.

Please comment on this,

Abby. I am 67 and Herbert is 77.—HURT IN FLORIDA.

DEAR HURT: Perhaps it's Herbert's way of trying to get you to exercise more—for your own good. However, regardless of his motivations, when he gave you the bicycle it became your property, and he has no right to sell anything that is yours.

Taiwanese People Are Angered, Not Shocked

TAIPEI (UPI) — People in Taiwan were angered but not shocked at the decision of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) to give in to Candian demands and exclude the Republic of China (ROC) from the Olympic games. Sports leaders and officials, however, refrained from making comments, saying they were still waiting for confirmation from ROC team delegates in Montreal. "There is no justice and principles any more in the world, but only power politics," said Ma Pei-Chin, a 50-year-old middle school sports teacher. "If the International Olympic Committee could hold on to their stand, the Canadian government would have to back down; because they have already put in so much money preparing for the games." Many praised the ROC Olympic Committee's refusal to seek compromise by changing its name to Taiwan and march behind a flag bearing the Olympic rings as requested by Canada. "It is a pity we are unable to attend the games," said Tai Lung-Shen a university professor. "But it would be far more worse if we lose our national dignity by dropping our national name and flag." Some news editorials seem to anticipate that the IOC would give in to political pressure. "The chances of ROC participation are dwindling, opening of the games is only a week away," said an editorial of the China News last Saturday. "The Montreal Olympic Games without the Republic of China would be the beginning of the end for nonpolitical athletic competition the world over. "If the free countries are so gold medal-hungry they cannot see this, the Olympics might as well pass into oblivion. The Games will not be worth preserving." Political observers here said Taiwan's expulsion from the Montreal Games is another indication that Communist China is intensifying its effort to isolate Taiwan from the world community. "Communist China is tightening its ring to smother Taiwan," said one observer. "What they intend to do is to make Taiwan a non-state. I guess it is all too naive to expect others to uphold the principles for you. You can only depend on yourself and fight for yourself."

Jones Takes Formula5000

WATKINS GLEN -- A rain-soaked track at Watkins Glen made for hazardous driving conditions Sunday — but that didn't seem to bother Alan Jones, who zoomed off with first place in the Formula 5000 auto race. Jones, who began the race from a third place ranking, posted an average speed in his Theodore Racing March of 101.08 mph in the final heat. Al Unser finished second in a Vel's-parmelli American Racing Lola. Third was Australian Warwick Brown, driving a Bay Racing Lola. Twenty four cars began the field, and all but 13 were forced out during the 30-lap 101.3 mile contest. With the threat of rain, all but two cars started on rain tires. Spins were numerous, but no serious damage or injuries were reported. The race was the third of nine Formula 5000 contests scheduled by the Sports Car Club of America and the United States Auto Club. Brian Redman won the first stop on the circuit at Pocono International Raceway and Alan Jones won the second race at Mosport Park, Canada. The winner picked up 36 points, giving Jones 76 points toward the championship, followed by Brian Redman, who placed sixth, with 44 points. Al Unser in his first Formula 5000 race picked up 24 points for his second place finish. The winner also got $15,000 prize money, a quarter of the race's $60,000 purse. Winners of the first and second heats also got $1,250 apiece.

Carner and Palmer in Open Playoff Today

SPRINGFIELD, Pa. (UPI) — Three ladies competed today in an 18-hole playoff for the U.S. Women's Open championship— Sandra Palmer, JoAnne Carner and Lady Luck. Both Palmer and Carner, who battled each other back and forth Sunday to finish with 72 hole totals of 292, eight over par, mentioned luck a lot when they talked about their final round. Carner, the second leading money winner on the LPGA tour this year and the longest hitter, sank a five-foot putt on the 17th hole to go one up on Palmer, playing in the group behind her. Along came Sandra to the par-5, 438-yard hole and dropped in a two-footer for a birdie and stay tied. "I just got lucky," said Palmer, the defending champion. "I really knew I had to make a birdie after JoAnne did. I had a 3-iron to the green. I don't know how it ever stayed on the green." Carner made a routine par on the 18th hole, also a par 5, to finish with a two-over 73. She then stood along the green and watched Palmer come in and leave herself 40 feet away from the pin with her third shot. Her first putt was short, leaving a tough, five-foot downhill putt that broke to the right. She dropped it in for a round of 75 and forced the playoff, the first in the Open since 1964. "I was glad I was in and she (Palmer) had to par in. It's just Lady Luck if she birdies," Carner said. "When Sandy lined up that second putt and started shaking her head. I knew it was going to go in. I'd rather play an 18 hole putt than sudden death. That's just Lady Luck." Jane Bialock, who dropped out of con-

Rankin Makes LPGA History

SPRINGFIELD, Pa. (UPI) — While the galleries followed the fortunes of the leaders in the U.S. Women's Open, Judy Rankin quietly sank a three-foot putt before a few well-wishers on No. 9 to make LPGA history. With that putt, Rankin finished with a round of 74 and a 72-hole total of 23-over-par 307. But, more important, the $1,229 she pocketed Sunday made her the first woman in the history of golf to go over $100,000 in earnings for a single year. Rankin, who started out on the back nine after thunderstorms delayed the start of play, bogeyed the first three holes, but then settled down as she shot for the magic $100,000 figure. "That's all I had left to play for after my bad play this week," said Rankin, who surprisingly shot a pair of 79s in the tournament. "There was nothing else to try for, except maybe finishing 12 strokes behind instead of 16." But even at her best, the 31-year-old Texan said there was no way she was going to master the hilly Rolling Green Golf Club course—no matter how hard she tried.

Judy Rankin

"Today (Sunday) was as good as I could've played this course," she said. "This is as long a course as I've ever played competitively. If I had played very well, there is no way I could've broken par bership and retain their seats for life. The current list includes four princes, a sultan, a grand duke, a raja and a liberal assortment of European dukes, counts and lords. Philip O. Krumm, the U.S. Olympic Committee president and one of three men representing the 136 National Olympic Committee's on the IOC's Tripartite Commission, however, holds out a glimmer of hope. "There still is the possibility the Republic of China could compete 'under government. This is a loss of Olympic ideals." The Canadian government, which has diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China, was only prepared to permit entry of the Taipei delegation if the team called itself Taiwan and did not insist on flying its national flag or playing its national anthem. The IOC and the Canadian government, the first to challenge the IOC's authority, worked out a compromise on Saturday whereby the Taiwanese team

The Soviets signed a letter saying they would admit any team in good standing to the country, as prescribed by IOC rules, regardless of whether diplomatic relations existed between the countries. The Canadian government signed a similar letter in 1970. Killanin warned that if a similar situation were to arise again, he would recommend cancellation of the Games. "Had I known about Canada's attitude 12 months ago, I would have immediately recommended withdrawal of the Games." An External Affairs spokesman said in Ottawa, "Canada has not violated any commitment to the IOC." The spokesman said, "There is nothing preventing the Taiwanese team from entering the country and participating in the Games if it accepts the 'Olympic symbols' only rule." A Taiwanese spokesman said, "There is no chance of us turning the other cheek." More political debate awaits the Congress, although it will be in-house this time. Tanzania and Mauritius withdrew from the Games to protest New Zealand's participation because its national Rugby Union football team is touring South Africa. An IOC spokesman said, "there is no chance of New Zealand being expelled from the Games. After all, rugby is not an Olympic sport." But after the events of Sunday, anything is possible.

SPORTS TODAY

protest' or as 'Taiwan' or as 'independents under the Olympic banner.'" Krumm, while admitting he faced an almost hopeless task in his bid to mediate the dispute, said he would try to get the Taiwanese to reverse their stand. Discussing the decision, a Taiwanese spokesman said, "We were taken by complete surprise. After the verbal support we had received from international sports leaders, we never believed the Executive would go against us. "We were so sure of victory, we did not make any contingency plans." Lawrence S. Ting, the delegation leader, said, "Lord Killanin completely gave in to terms laid down by the Canadian could compete if it used "Olympic, not national symbols." This was unacceptable to the Taiwanese. "I admit we've had a very heavy blow from this political interference. I hope we'll never be put in such a damnable position again," said Killanin. Sports leaders had insisted the IOC not back down, because if it did, the Olympic Games as we know them may be a part of history. The next Olympic are scheduled at Moscow in 1980. The Soviets refused to play Chile in a World Cup soccer match in 1974, while only last week Soviet tennis officials said they would refuse to play Chile if the teams were paired in the 1976 Davis Cup draw.

Figueroa Has an Ethnic Goal

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ed Figueroa, off to the best start of his career, has a season goal which revolves around ethnic pride. "I'd like to win 20 games because it would make me the first Puerto Rican 20-game winner," the 27-year-old Yankee right-hander said Sunday after hurling a three-hit, 5-0 shutout over the Chicago White Sox before a Jacket Day crowd of 53,160. Figueroa's victory leaves him halfway toward his goal, with a 10-6 record, including three shutouts. Last year he won 16 and lost 13 with the California Angels, a second-division club. He and All-Star outfielder Mickey Rivers were acquired during the off-season for Bobby Bonds. Is he surprised by the Yankees' success? "No, I could tell in spring training that we had pitching and good hitting, so the big lead (9½ games) doesn't surprise me," he said. Figueroa was supported by Oscar Gamble's towering two-run homer. The second-inning blast, his eighth, was one of the longest home runs ever hit in Yankee Stadium, landing in the last few rows of the right field bleachers. No one has ever hit a fair ball out of Yankee Stadium. Rivers added a two-run double. Gamble, who stood watching at the plate for 30 seconds after belting his tape-measure job, said: "Every now and then I get a hold of one." It was a scene right out of that glorious, beer-soaked pennant year of 1957. Hank Aaron stood there grandly, basking in the cheers of some 28,000 Milwaukee fans after another dramatic game-winning home run.

Even if the uniform, the team and the situation were different, the delirious Milwaukee fans sensed the significance of Aaron's one-out, 10th-inning homer which gave the hometown Brewers a 5-4 victory over the Texas Rangers and a sweep of Sunday's doubleheader. So, too, did baseball's all-time home run king. "The home run I hit in 1957 against the St. Louis Cardinals, which won the pennant was my biggest thrill here," said Aaron. "But I'd have to say this one ranks second." Aaron's homer, his ninth of the season and 754th lifetime, came after the Brewers won the first game, 6-3, behind the four-hit pitching of Jim Slaton and then rallied to tie the nightcap in the ninth inning on run-scoring singles by Bernie Carbo and Robin Yount. "I heard on the radio the fans were still out there cheering for me," said Aaron, who will be missing his first All Star Game in 22 years. "You can't imagine what a great feeling that was. They've always been great to me here. But I've got a homer or two left even though for seven years some people have been saying I'm through. Still, this is my last year."

Brewers manager Alex Grammas, whose club has now won seven of eight games going into the All Star break after a depressing April, May and June, was even more excited than Aaron. "When the fans called him back," said Grammas, "I had to go out there with him. You don't get to see too many moments like that and, when you do, you've got to take advantage of it." The Brewers, still last in the AL East with a 34-44 won-lost mark, also came from behind to win the opener with a five-run rally in the seventh inning, which gave Slaton to his 10th win of the year. "You've got to be happy when you sweep a five-game series from a second place ballclub," said the elated Grammas. Elsewhere in the American League Boston put away Minnesota, 6-4; Detroit edged Kansas City, 6-5; Oakland drubbed Cleveland, 9-3, and Baltimore stopped California, 31.

Red Sox 6, Twins 4 Fred Lynn belted a solo homer and Denny Doyle knocked in a pair of runs with a third inning single as the Red Sox climbed back to .500. Ferguson Jenkins, 8-8, went 8 1/3 innings for the victory and was replaced by Jim Willoughby when Craig Kucick hit a two-run single for Minnesota in the ninth. Tigers 6, Royals 5 Rusty Staub grounded a twoout single up the middle to score John Wockenfuss from third base in the 12th inning enabling Detroit to slow Kansas City's runaway effort over second place Texas in the AL West. With the score tied 5-5, Wockenfuss began the 12th against loser Steve Mingori with a walk and advanced on a sacrifice and an infield groundout. A's 9, Indians 3 Major league stolen base king Billy North swiped second base in the first inning to set up one run and drove in two others as the A's completed a three-game sweep of the Indians. North, who scored three times, singled home two runs in the second with two out. Paul Mitchell, 5-5, was the winner with 3 2-3 innings of shutout relief from Paul Lindblad. Orioles 3, Angels 1 Reggie Jackson drilled a two-run first inning homer and Terry Crowley singled home Ken Singleton with an insurance run in the eighth, enabling the Orioles to best Angel strikeout ace Nolan Ryan. Ryan, 7-10, fanned 12 and went the distance, spacing nine hits. Ex-Yankee Dave Pagan, 2-3, went 7 2-3 innings to get the win for Baltimore.

Montanez Finds A Way As Braves Edge Mets

ATLANTA (UPI) — Atlanta Braves Manager Dave Bristol says if there's a way to win a game, Willie Montanez will find it. "Willie will find a way. We've found that out," Bristol said Sunday after the Braves defeated the New York Mets 9-8 with the help of a three-run double from Montanez in the eighth inning. Montanez, acquired by the Braves earlier this season in a trade with the San Francisco Giants, ended the game with six runs batted in, three of them on the eighth-inning double, and one each on a pair of singles. He has been on a hitting tear since he came to Atlanta, batting safely in 25-of-28 games. Going into Sunday's game, he was batting .318 for the season. "I guess I'm right at the top of my career right now," Montanez said. "There were two outs and I was just trying to get a hit. I had a good pitch and I hit it. "I'm swinging the bat good right now. I'm hitting it where I want to hit it. I usually make them throw a strike and after that I go to work."

Astros scored shutout victories. Ed Halicki, a 6-foot-7 sidearming fastballer who appeared to be on the threshold of greatness when he pitched a nohitter against the New York Mets last season, hurled a twohitter in San Francisco's 2-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs. It completed a renaissance of sorts for Halicki, counted on by manager Bill Rigney to be one of the mainstays of a heralded pitching staff that was supposed to help the Giants challenge Cincinnati for supremacy in the West. Instead, Halicki lost seven of his first eight decisions and Rigney threatened to send him to the minors unless things changed quickly. "Earlier in the season I didn't have good stuff," Halicki said after raising his record to 8-11. "Coach Frank Funk helped me shorten my stride, worked on my slider and I built up my confidence. I don't worry what happened the last time out."

Philis 3, Padres 0 Greg Luzinski broke up a scoreless pitching duel with a three-run double in the sixth inning to help Jim Kaat gain his ninth victory and Philadelphia maintain its 10-game lead over Pittsburgh in the NL East. Luzinski's blow followed an infield single by Dave Cash and bunt singles by Larry Bowa and Mike Schmidt. Kaat allowed nine hits in pitching his 29th career shutout. Pirates 8, Reds 5 Pedro Borbon hit Tommy Helms on the left elbow with the bases loaded to force home the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning and pinch-hitter Rennie Stennett followed with a two-run double to pace Pittsburgh. Despite the loss, the Reds take a six-game lead into the All-Star break. Don Gullett made his first start for Cincinnati since June 20 and pitched six innings. Dodgers 9, Cards 6 Reggie Smith highlighted a seven-run, seventh inning with a three-run homer, his third in as many games against his former teammates, as Los Angeles wiped out a five-run deficit. Bill Buckner had a two-run double in the inning. St. Louis took a 5-0 lead on a solo homer by Keith Hernandez, a three-run homer by ex-Dodger Willie Crawford and a solo homer by Bake McBride. Don Sutton picked up his ninth victory with three innings of one-run relief.

The Mets gave starter Jon Matlack a 4-1 lead after six innings on a two-run homer by Ron Hodges in the second and a two-run single by Matlack in the sixth. But the Braves drove Matlack from the game with a five-run seventh inning, highlighted by two-run singles by Tom Paciorek and Montanez. After the Mets scored four runs off reliever Mike Marshall in the eighth to take an 8-6 lead, the Braves came back in their half of the inning with three runs on a pinch-double by Dave May, a walk, an error and Montanez' double. Bruce Dal Canton, 3-1, was the winner for Atlanta. "We won 40 games going into the All-Star break and I hope our next 40 games aren't this hard," Bristol said. "But that Willie will find a way."

Lister Is Winner In Quad Cities Open

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (UPI) — John Lister's "fantastic" putting and calculated risks swept him to victory Sunday in the $100,000 Quad Cities Open and earned his biggest paycheck in five seasons on the pro tour.

Lister, the 29-year-old New Zealand, battered the 6,305-yard Oakwood Country Club course for a four-round total of 288, 16-under-par, with rounds of 68, 68, 65 and 67 to beat Fuzzy Zoeller by two strokes. He is the first foreign born player to win on the PGA tour this year.

Lister's final four-round round paved the path for his $20,000 payoff.

Lister sank a 13-foot putt on the par-five, 500-yard 13th hole for an eagle. He shot birdies on the sixth, seventh and 11th, but he needed a 20-foot putt at No. 7 and a 14-footer at No. 11.

"I was due a good putting round and today was it," Lister said. "My putting was fantastic, especially through the first five holes when I was nervous. I think the birdies at six and seven were the turning point for me."

Lister, who once carded a 30-under-par tournament in New Zealand, said he was not playing a defensive game.

"I was attacking, but it was cautious, not foolhardy," he said.

Zoeller, the 24-year-old Hoosier from New Albany, said, "I went out charging, but it didn't work." He finished with a 68, three-under, and won $11,400. He said he realized at the 12th tee that Lister was going to be hard to catch.

"I saw John's shot at the (315-yard) 11th," Zoeller said. "It landed in the green and I knew it was going to be a fight for second place for me."

Rex Caldwell finished with a 69 and a tourney total of 272, 12 under, three strokes ahead of George Archer, who ended up with a 70. Tommy McGinnis shot a 71, good for fifth place with a 276 total.

Lister's best previous finish on a PGA tour came in the Memphis Open in May when he finished in 11th for second and won $15,400. His win Sunday pushed his 1976 earnings to more than $44,600. His career earnings through 1975 total $105,700.

Green, Wentz, Houck Cop Orange Speedway Wins

MIDDLETOWN—Two new names popped up in victory lane Saturday night at the Orange County Fair Speedway as Bobby Green of Newburgh and former sportsman champion, won his first career modified victory and Bill Wentz, Jr. took the URC sprint feature. Bobby Houck, of Port Jervis became the second double-winner in the sportsman competition.

Green, starting third in the lineup, finally took the lead from Bobby Bottcher on the fourteenth lap and went on to win in convincing fashion as Bottcher was forced out with engine trouble four laps later.

Most of the close racing in the modified feature came over the positions behind Green.

Charlie Shire took second, his best finish of the year, with Rich Eurich third, Marc Kirschmeier fourth and point leader Johnny Haroll fifth.

Wentz started the sprint feature in the pole position and jumped off to an early lead which he never lost despite two caution flags which bunched the field behind him. Wayne Reutimann pressed the 25-year-old driver from Allentown, Pa., right to the finish but had to settle for second. It was Wentz' second win in six days with the URC.

Houck, who won here on April 24th and had been the point leader much of the season, took the sportsman feature going away.

Kaskel-Siderowf Defeat Butera-Parsons, 9 and 8

MAMARONECK—The team of Howard Kaskel and Dick Siderowf combined for a near-record 9 and 8 win over Aldo Butera and John Parsons in the 40th Anderson Memorial Four-Ball golf tournament Sunday at Winged Foot.

Parsons has entered the Woodstock Open July 19 at Woodstock Country Club. Parsons won the Woodstock Open in 1971 with a four-under 66 and he finished second and third in the two succeeding tourneys.

Prudhomme, Sharp Score In Hot Rod Drag Races

ENGLISHTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — Don Prudhomme of Granada Hills, Calif., maintained his torrid pace in the Funny Car division and Richard Tharp of Houma, La., won his first Top Fuel championship Sunday in the wrap-up to the seventh annual National Hot Rod Association Summer Nationals drag races.

Prudhomme, the winningest driver in NHRA history, increased his career victory total to 18 by winning his sixth straight Funny Car title and his 10th in the last 12 NHRA championship events. He earned $12,650.

Tharp, meanwhile, was winning his very first title and earning $12,250 for himself and car owners Paul Candies and Leonard Hughes. In beating Jeb Allen of Santa Rosa, Calif., in the finals, Tharp produced the top speed of the meet at 244.56 miles per hour.

In Pro Stock, Larry Lombardo of Malvern, Pa., drove the Bill Jenkins Chevy Monza to a victory over Dave Kanners of Troy, Mich.

Winner of the NHRA Gatornationals earlier this year at Gainesville, Fla., Lombardo set a new national record of 8.68 seconds during qualifying for the event. His payday amounted to more than $13,000.

Other winners were Ken Veney of Wadsworth, Ohio, in Pro Comp; Don Carlton of Lenoir, N.C., in Competition; Tony Christian of Arlington Heights, Ill., in Modified; Buddy Ingersoll of Zeigler, Ill., in Super Stock; and Buck Jednak of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., in Stock.

Coach Killed

TEMPLE, Tex. (UPI) — Former track coach J. Eddie Weems, whose teams won 13 Southwest Conference championships, and his wife were killed Sunday in a two-car accident near this central Texas city.

SPORT PARADE

Milton Richman,
UPI Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — There was a time when you could call baseball's annual All-Star game a spectacle and nobody would laugh. It used to be an intensely exciting, eagerly anticipated event that not only fascinated the fans, but also had significant appeal for the players and managers.

That was way back, more than a quarter century ago, when the All-Star game had some meaning, some genuine substance to it, when everybody could relate to Carl Hubbell striking out Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmie Foxx, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin in succession, and to Ted Williams rattling one of Rip Sewell's "eephus" balls five miles downtown for a titanic home run.

Somehow most of the drama has disappeared from the All-Star game, and with it, much of the interest as well.

Baseball's beautiful people, the very best performers it has to offer, will be showcased for the whole nation to ogle at in tomorrow night's All-Star contest here, but about the only ones left who take the game even half-seriously any more are the fans. Certainly the players don't, nor do any of the managers who aren't directly involved.

"To me, it's a great big nothing," says Billy Martin, the Yankee's manager. "It doesn't prove a damn thing. All it amounts to is the two league presidents trying to outdo each other."

"The All-Star game doesn't represent a team effort. It's only a bunch of individuals pushing their own ability, and the guy who pushes least is the pitcher. He's got nothing to gain by pushing. If you're out there pitching for the All-Stars Tuesday night and you know you're gonna have to start for your own team Thursday, are you gonna bust your back?"

Years ago, yes. Today, no. That's why All-Star games today aren't what they were years ago.

Billy Martin won't be here for tomorrow night's All-Star game. Neither will the majority of other managers, most of whom will be back home relaxing.

Martin never cared to take part in the All-Star game during his active career, most of which he spent playing second base for the Yankees under the late Casey Stengel.

"Casey would always say 'who wants to go?'" Martin remembers. "Some of the guys like Gil MacDougald, Bill Skowron and a couple of the others who hadn't been picked would say they'd like to go, but I never wanted to."

"Nellie Fox always beat me out for the All-Star game. I'd finish second to him all the time. It didn't bother me. I always admired him. He was a helluva competitor."

Finally, Stengel made Martin go to an All-Star game in 1956.

"Casey said to me, 'you never been to one. You gotta go,'" Martin remembers. "So I went to Washington and sat on the bench most of the game. I got to hit only once and grounded out to Roy McMillan, my buddy."

Although the All-Star game has little or no appeal at all for Billy Martin, he concedes it's still a fine vehicle for the fans because it's like a big holiday outing for them.

He says it's also a great thing for the players' pension fund, which derives revenue from the All-Star game, and for such All-Star first-timers as the Twins' Butch Wynegar and his own Mickey Rivers.

"For them, it's super," says Martin. "Everyone ought to be in an All-Star game at least once."

Rivers is only one of six Yankees on the American League squad. The others are pitchers Jim "Catfish" Hunter and Sparky Lyle, catcher Thurman Munson, first baseman Chris Chambliss and pitching coach Bob Lemon, serving as honorary captain of the American Leaguers. Lemon is to be inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown next month.

Rookie second baseman Willie Randolph also was to have represented the Yankees in the game, but he was scratched by a knee injury.

With the Yankees 9-1/2 games up in the American League East, Billy Martin could be managing the All-Stars this time next year. "If I ever manage in an All-Star game, I'll manage the only way I know and that's to win. But I still say the All-Star game is a great big nothing. It doesn't prove that one league is better than the other, only the World Series proves that."

Fidrych Gets Nod For American League

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — It's the kind of pairing that Arch Ward had in mind for his "dream game" when he founded the All-Star contest in 1933 as part of the Chicago World's Fair.

Randy Jones versus Mark Fidrych.

What better matchup could there be than baseball's two most exciting pitchers and biggest gate attractions of the season showing their stuff to the guys in the "other league" before the President of the United States and the largest All-Star Game crowd in more than two decades?

That confrontation became official Sunday when Darrell Johnson, manager of the American League, named the colorful 21-year-old Fidrych to start against the National League in the 47th mid-summer classic Tuesday night at Veteran's Stadium.

Jones, the winningest pitcher in the majors with 16 victories, had previously been named by manager Sparky Anderson to start for the National League.

All-Star Game rules prohibit a starting pitcher from going more than three innings and chances are neither pitcher will have a dramatic effect on the game's final outcome. But no matter. It's an intriguing matchup and it's the kind of thing the All-Star game is supposed to be about.

In getting the nomination, Fidrych will become only the second rookie in history to start an All-Star game. The first was Dave Stenhouse of Washington, who started the second All-Star game of the 1962 season. Unfortunately, that proved to be the high point of Stenhouse's career. After posting a 10-4 record with a 2.73 earned run average for the first half of the 1962 season, Stenhouse finished the year with an 11-12 record. Two years later he was gone from the major leagues.

Even if he doesn't get a batter out, though, Fidrych is bound to please the crowd, which is expected to number more than 60,000 and include a host of notable dignitaries, including President Ford. A hyperactive youngster who talks out loud to the baseball and runs around the infield congratulating teammates for good plays, "The Big Bird", as he is called, has succeeded in drawing large crowds wherever he has pitched this season. His

Jones, too, has been something of a curiosity but not because of any emotional behavior. The 26-year-old southpaw, who has been attracting from 10 to 15,000 more fans to the park whenever he pitches, is considered unique because he wins without being able to throw a major league fastball. He is a sinkerball specialist who seldom walks a batter and while his pitches look delectable, batters have trouble connecting solidly. In one game against Cincinnati this year, All-Star Pete Rose, a switchhitter, got up left-handed against Jones because he was having so much trouble with him from the right-hand side of the plate.

The selection of Fidrych to start for the AL will undoubtedly take some of the heat off Johnson, who has been the target of the critics for some of his selections to the team. Baltimore's Jim Palmer, the AL's top winner, was bypassed by Johnson as were Oakland's Sal Bando, the league's leading home run hitter, and Milwaukee's Henry Aaron, baseball's all-time home run king. Palmer was especially critical of Johnson, calling the Red Sox' skipper "an idiot."

The AL, which has lost 13 of the last 14 All-Star contests, will start Rod Carew of Minnesota at first, Bobby Grich of Baltimore at second, Toby Harrah of Texas at shortstop, George Brett of Kansas City at third, Thurman Munson of New York behind the plate and Ron LeFlore and Rusty Staub of Detroit and Fred Lynn of Boston in the outfield.

The world champion Cincinnati Reds dominate the NL squad. The Reds will have Rose, second baseman Joe Morgan, shortstop Dave Concepcion, catcher Johnny Bench and outfielder George Foster in the starting lineup. In addition Cincinnati's Tony Perez, a first baseman, and Ken Griffey, an outfielder, were added to the squad by Anderson, giving Cincinnati seven representatives on the squad.

First baseman Steve Garvey of Los Angeles, outfielder Dave Kingman of New York and outfielder Greg Luzinski of Philadelphia complete the NL starting unit.

Colwell-Johnson Post PBA Doubles Win

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Paul Colwell and Don Johnson defeated Steve Neff and Eddie Ressler, 447-414, for the championship in the first Professional Bowlers Association Doubles Classic.

The victory, in which the two share the $10,000 first prize, capped a three-game barrage for the duo. For Johnson, Las Vegas, Nev., the victory moved him into a tie with Dick Weber, St. Louis, Mo., for first on the all-time PBA title list with 25. For Colwell, Tucson, Ariz., it was his eighth PBA crown and second in three weeks.

Johnson joked about the win afterwards, obviously pleased.

"I carried us all week and Paul carried us today," he quipped.

TROTGING TO VICTORY

France's Equileo (5), owned by French actor Alain Delon and driven by Bernard Froger, surges ahead to win the Roosevelt International Trot Saturday night at Roosevelt Raceway. Favored Bellino II (foreground), also of France, was second and Meadow Bright (4) of the United States was third. The winner paid $40.60.

Under-16 Battle Shapes Up In Mid-Hudson Soccer League

KINGSTON—A battle is shaping up in the under-16 division of the Mid-Hudson Soccer League. Kingston Sports Club tightened up the race with two victories last week to raise its record to 2-1. Its only loss came to the leaders, 3-0 Kingston Chrysler-Plymouth, earlier in the season.

Sports Club defeated Potter's 2-1 behind goals by Terry Malloy and Todd Miller. Walter Straib scored for Potter's. Sports Club then handed a 3-1 loss to Saugerties Athletic Association as Malloy, Greg Rose and Steve Norman tallied. Bob Miller was the goalie in both games for the victors.

Kingston Chrysler-Plymouth roughed up Sunshine Castle 5-2 with goals from Frank Spadafora (John Ossmer assist), Jay Quest, John Rheinhardt (two goals), assists by Greg Manuel and Larry Friedman) and Lou Vendetti (unassisted). Eddie Barnowski was goalie, and he allowed unassisted goals by Sunshine's Lou Biscardi and Steve Tichardt.

Yallum's remained unbeaten in the under-10 division with its third consecutive win, 3-1 over Rhinebeck Little Indians. Greg Amato (two goals) and Guy Kraston (one goal, two assists) paced the win, with David McMichael in the nets.

Dawkins' also remained unbeaten in the under-18 group (2-0-1) but had to settle for a scoreless tie with Chick Dalton Memorial. Dawkins' goalie

Jeff Venditti scored both goals to lead Port Ewen to a 2-0 win over Rhinebeck Studio 10 Stars in the under-14 division. In other games: Under-12, Rhinebeck Braves 2, Kingston Travel 0; Saugerties Bluestone 1, Saugerties Air Corps 1 (tie); under-14, Goodwill Travel 4, Oscar's Tapers 0; under-18, Brumen Motors 3, Hanstein, Berardi and Lawles 1; Rhinebeck Rotary Dolphins 4, Saugerties West Penn 1.

City Parks Softball Opens

KINGSTON — The city parks softball program for boys and girls began last week with action in both the Junior and Senior Divisions.

In the circuit, Forsyth topped Hasbrouck, 8-6, Brigham beat Hutton, 8-7, and Block edged Loughran, 4-3. In Senior games, Hasbrouck turned back Forsyth, 5-3, Hutton blanked Brigham, 9-0, and Block bombed Loughran, 20-4.

Nastase Defeats Orantes

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (UPI) — Ilie Nastase's power tennis game and the wind were just too much for Manuel Orantes Sunday in the first Grand Slam of Tennis.

The pressure applied by the globe-trotting Romanian in the $150,000 tournament and the tricky winds gave Nastase a 6-4, 6-3, straight sets victory over Orantes and the $75,000 first prize.

Nastase conceded the wind made it more difficult for him to play his normal game, but Orantes had more trouble with the wind and handling the Masters champion's driving serves.

Orantes, who earned $40,000, said the wind, clocked one time at 10 knots in the area, caused the ball to "move much more than usual" on the composition court, requiring extra concentration.

Nastase, who flew in from Hawaii Friday night where he had nine $60,000 Wimbledon matches, said the large purse drove him to victory.

"I seemed eager because big money makes you eager," Nastase said. "It's good money for a weekend's work. It's four times what you can get at Wimbledon."

Orantes, who tried to combat Nastase's power game with finesse, said he missed several shots at the net because he was unnerved by Nastase's quickness.

Nastase, exuding confidence in the second set, bantered with the crowd as he broke the 1975 U.S. Open champion's service in the fourth game to take a 3-1 lead. Orantes' placement shots frequently missed their mark.

In the consolation match, Jimmy Connors, who was replaced ailing Bjorn Borg, downed 1975 Wimbledon Champion Arthur Ashe 6-4, 7-6, to take third place and $20,000. Ashe received $15,000.

Connors failed to break Ashe's service in both sets until the ninth game and was behind 3-0 before he won his first game in the second set.

The second set ended with a 12-point tiebreaker in which Connors fell behind 4-1 before bouncing back to win 9-7 and take the match.

NL Umpire Behind Plate

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harry Wendelstedt, a 10-year National League umpire, will be behind the plate for the July 13 All-Star game at Philadelphia.

Wendelstedt worked in the 1968 mid-summer classic as well as the 1969 World Series. He appeared in the 1970 and 1972 championship series.

The remainder of the umpiring crew includes the American League's Jerry Neudecker at first base, Don Denkinger at third and Jim Evans in right field.

Racing Report To Force Changes

ALBANY (UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey says a State Investigation Commission report critical of the state's Racing and Wagering Board will be used to make changes to "bring a new standard of performance" to the board.

"The people of New York are not being served adequately by the present board," Carey said after receiving the report, which recommended changes in the racing board's responsibility in regulating racing and a reorganization of its present administrative procedures.

The SIC document was the commission's second study of the board. It also examined the financial condition of the New York Racing Association and said the group, which runs Saratoga, Aqueduct and Belmont race tracks, has inadequate cash to meet debt obligations and the cost of major plant improvements.

The earlier report had examined the intricate network of legal and financial arrangements between the state's major harness race tracks and related businesses. SIC Chairman David Brown said the arrangements had resulted in the funneling of millions of dollars of racing income from harness tracks to other business entities.

Carey ordered the investigation in December after receiving information from the state Budget Division that the Racing and Wagering Board was lax in its surveillance of the financial affairs of the harness tracks.

MONTICELLO (UPI) — Currituck Star beat Mike Success by a length and a half in 2:00 4-5 Sunday to win the $8,500 featured pace at Monticello.

Driven by Ben Webster, the winner paid $5.80, $3.80, and $3.00. Owl was third.

A 3-1 daily double, Chief Pincher and Lt. Collins, paid $28.60.

Advance Sale Begins For Monticello-OTB

MONTICELLO—Sale of 2,300 reserved seats for the July 25th, second annual $300,000 Monticello-OTB Classic has begun in the track admissions office.

Elimination trials to pare down the field for the Classic II, harness racing's richest event will take place on July 18.

In the inaugural year of the event, Silk Stockings swept the field in a world record time of 1:57 3/5, an achievement that led to the recognition of the filly as the leading pacer of 1975.

Stokes' Game Set for Kutsher's

MONTICELLO—The 18th annual Maurice Stokes Benefit Basketball Game has been scheduled for Tuesday evening August 10 at Kutsher's Country Club Arnold "Red" Auerbach, President and General Manager of the Boston Celtics, announced today in his role as President of the Maurice Stokes Foundation.

Auerbach, the winningest coach in basketball history, will head one of the teams of NBA all-stars featured in the benefit. The opposing club will be under the direction of Herb Brown, coach of the Detroit Pistons.

During Stokes' lifetime more than $100,000 was raised from the game to help defray his medical expenses after he was taken with encephalitis late in the 1958 season. Since his death in 1970, the money raised at the benefit has been used to aid former NBA players who have required financial assistance due to illness or disability.

During the past year the Foundation has sustained three ex-NBA players who competed prior to the benefit plan which now covers the professionals.

KINGSTON — The Bankers Trust Wrens dominated both halves of play in the Jaycee Little League this year and finished as the loop's undefeated champions after 20 consecutive victories.

The Kingston Trust Eagles wrapped up the runnerup spot with a 14-6 overall record.

Charles Ramsey Corporation

Crows took third with a 12-8

mark, Koening Insurance Jays

and the J & G Drywall Hawks deadlocked for fourth at 5-15, and the Rylance Printing Owls were sixth with a 4-16 slate.

Turner, Sherlock Capture Key Powerboat Races

KINGSTON — Kingston drivers Tom Turner and John Sherlock were winners of recent power boat races in Rhode Island and Iowa.

Turner, driving his Mercury-powered tunnel boat in the S.J. class, captured boat heats of the New England divisionals in Providence to win first place.

Sherlock, driving his Mercury-powered tuel boat in the S.J. class was first in the first heat and second in the next heat to capture an overall runnerup position in the National Invitation championship at Clinton, Iowa.

All drivers from the Kingston area will be in Valleyfield, Ont., Canada, this week for the world title races to be held in conjunction with the Olympic games.

Smith Is Wary About Competition

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The U.S. Olympic basketball team has completed its schedule against American professional squads, but coach Dean Smith is still casting a wary eye at its Montreal competition.

"We've been improving, but I hope we'll be better at this time next Sunday night than we were tonight," the North Carolina coach said Sunday night after the Olympians outraced the Philadelphia 76ers, 115-91, before a packed house at Temple University's McGonigle Hall.

The Olympic team, 8-2 in its exhibition series, now moves into international competition, facing the Canadian team Tuesday night at Plattsburgh, N.Y., before the scheduled start of the Olympics next week.

But, for all the talent possessed by his team of collegians, Smith said there is still room for improvement.

"In these international games, we want the other team to adjust to us, rather than us adjusting to them," he said. "We consider ourselves one of the top-level (Olympic) teams, but this year it goes six or seven deep. I hope we're still reaching a peak."

"This (the 76ers) was the quickest team we've come up against," he said. "Maybe that's why there was a problem tonight."

The 76ers, playing without all-stars George McGinnis, Billy Cunningham and Doug Collins, had a run-and-gun offense working all night, but could not overtake the early advantage built up by the Olympians, led by Notre Dame's Adrian Dantley.

Dantley finished with 26 points, muscling his way inside for most of his nine field

"Sure I read the ad. Best car in the world for under $3,500 and all that. But you know what did it to me. Pulling onto the expressway and taking off like a shot."

You'd think people would buy an economy car for its economy. But not with the Rabbit. In fact 70% of the people who bought Rabbits said it was the test drive that finally convinced them. Imagine that. An overall economy car people buy because of the way it drives. Maybe it was the unique suspension system. Or the front-wheel drive. Or the acceleration that got them. We don't know. But we do know if you're out to buy a car you should at least test drive a Rabbit before you make up your mind. It's a lot better than listening to your neighbor praise his Rabbit, while you kick yourself for not even giving it a chance.

The Rabbit. You got to drive it to believe it.

Amin Calls Israeli Raid Good Military Operation

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Ugandan President Idi Amin, praising the Israeli raid on Entebbe airport as a "very good" military operation, says he has severed his ties with Arab guerrilla groups, an Israeli newspaper reported.

The newspaper Ma'ariv said Sunday Amin made the remarks in a telephone call Friday to his former military adviser, reserve Col. Baruch Bar Lev.

"Not as a politician but as a professional army man, I must tell you that the (Israeli army) action was very good," Amin was quoted as saying. "Your commando is very good."

Amin reportedly said he has cut off relations with the guerrilla organizations because of complications arising from the Entebbe hijack drama.

"I don't want anything to do with them," he told Bar Lev, according to Ma'ariv. "You can tell (Premier Yitzhak) Rabin and the Israeli government that I have cut off relations with them and I am going to announce this to the press." Some of the hostages charged Amin had openly collaborated with the pro-Palestinian guerrillas after they forced the hijacked Air France jet to fly to Entebbe.

The Israeli commandos rescued more than 100 persons from the guerrillas in Entebbe July 3, killing seven of the 10 guerrillas involved in the operation as well as an estimated 20 Ugandan soldiers. Three hostages and an Israeli commando also died in the raid.

Israel and Uganda at one point maintained close relations and during this time Bar Lev was a military adviser to Amin. He made a number of phone calls to Amin to negotiate the release of the hostages during the week preceding the Israeli raid.

Dr. Maurice Assael, an Israeli psychiatrist quoted last week in a newspaper story as saying Amin suffered from brain damage as a result of an advanced case of syphilis, Sunday said the report contained "some kind of exaggeration."

Assael refused further comment. In the original report, he said the former heavyweight boxer was "very sick — and not just mentally."

Yediot Aharonoth correspondent Dov Atzmon, who wrote the story, said he stood by his report.

"The medical observations cited in the story were corroborated by Dr. Assael," he said.

Grandstand Collapse Injures 65

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (UPI) — Authorities say a "deteriorated foundation" caused the collapse of a grandstand at the Ontario County Fair Saturday night, which injured about 65 persons.

Sheriff's deputies dismantled the wooden bleacher Sunday to determine what caused it to give way and send scores of persons hurtling to the ground just before a stock car race was to begin.

Only four of the injured remained hospitalized today and each of them was in satisfactory condition. The other injured persons were treated for abrasions, sprains and contusions and released from four area hospitals.

As many as 1,800 persons were jammed into the 200-foot long grandstand when the bleacher suddenly collapsed, officials said.

"There was mass confusion, very much screaming, yelling in pain," said John Isaac, photographer for the Canandaigua Speedway, where the races were being held as part of the fair.

The fair, slated to end Saturday night, was closed after the accident.

About a dozen ambulances rushed the injured to four area hospitals. F.F. Thompson Hospital in Canandaigua received most of the injured and was placed on "disaster" status.

Remaining at the hospital today were Gertrude Shoemaker, 67, of Clifton Springs, and Doris Seager, 30, of Honey Falls.

Being treated for a compound fracture at Rochester's Highland Hospital was Janet Steil, 39, of Canandaigua. The other person remaining hospitalized was Margaret DeRuyter, 29, of Geneva, who was being treated at Geneva General Hospital.

Cop Convicted

BOUNTIFUL, Utah (UPI) — A four-man jury has convicted former Utah Highway Patrol Superintendent Roy Helm of drunken driving.

It was Helm's second trial on charges that he was drunk when he rolled his private car near a Davis County Freeway exit last November. The first trial in February ended in a hung jury. The former patrol superintendent, fired last December for bringing disrepute to the force, told the jurors he was not drunk when he had the accident Nov. 2, but lost control of his car when reached down to pick something off the floor.

Steel Imports On Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Iron and Steel Institute says imports of foreign steel rose sharply in May, but through the first five months of this year still lagged 15.7 per cent behind the same period in 1975.

Foreign steel imports in May, for which latest figures were available, totaled just over one million tons, up nearly 150,000 tons from May of last year.

The biggest increase, the institute said, was in carbon steel.

Stainless steel imports rose 18.4 per cent to 16,000 tons, up from 14,000 tons in May of 1975, and a 1,500 ton increase from April of this year.

The May totals brought imports for the first five months of the year to just over five million tons, a drop of 15.7 per cent for the comparable period last year.

The United States' steel trade deficit in May reached 265,000 tons, bringing the 1976 five-month total to just over one million tons, a decline of 24 per cent from the same period in 1975.

Strike News Is Mixed

By UPI
More than 12,000 electrical workers went on strike against Westinghouse today while some 42,000 others kept working under contract extensions. Auto workers ended a crippling strike at a key Chrysler engine plant.

Gov. Hugh Carey of New York called for arbitration of a six-day hospital strike in New York City. The state Health Department offered to help with patient care in struck hospitals and nursing homes.

The International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, representing about 12,500 Westinghouse employees, went on strike at several Westinghouse plants.

The International Union of Electrical Workers, the United Electrical Workers of America and the Federation of Westinghouse Independent Salaries Unions agreed to day-to-day contract extensions, averting a nationwide walkout which had been scheduled for 12:01 a.m. today.

A spokesman for the IBEW said the union had many issues "that were best resolved following this pattern (striking). Some issues unique to the IBEW contributed to that decision."

A company spokesman said contract negotiations would resume later today.

Your Horoscope

By Jeane Dixon

TUESDAY, JULY 13

Your birthday today: You now set forth on a self-improvement campaign, fully using all you've learned so far, vigorously seeking further know-how. You're more on your own this year, turning down any help that comes with strings attached. Relationships fare well or poorly according to the natures of those you deal with. Today's natives rise above early circumstances while retaining idealistic visions from childhood.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Let new relations grow into firmer cooperation by sharing both rewards and responsibilities. Those you love need reassurance: action, not just words.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Make live and let live your motto today. Finishing jobs ahead of time pays extra dividends. Installation of new household conveniences is favored.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Leave center stage to others while you explore technicalities, consult experts, organize plans. Money gets away casually: tactfully turn away sales pitches.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Continue on lines you marked out for yourself yesterday. Bring in interested people with more to contribute. Group resources are more easily distributed.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Your impulse is to open your wallet to help solve problems that aren't yours. Think twice. Errors come to light: correct those which can still be changed.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It's better that few people know your personal plans or their cost. Don't enlighten anyone. Simply make confidential changes by pitching in on your own.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): By preferring what is pleasant, you're tempted to put off something that needs doing. Mix both easy and tough. Clear up a mystery, but let the old story stand.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Review current enterprises with an eye to filling gaps, bringing about more of a balance. You've enough going on already without adding further sidelines.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Optimistic moods are natural responses to today's influences. Your difficulty is to do work you've promised. Catch up records; present vouchers and bills.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Pursuit of the logical leads you to face an inner conflict, hopefully resolve some aspect of it permanently. Routine is still worth doing.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You are near peak of a cycle that helps you promote new ideas, present your side. New projects must wait if you've old work to complete. Improve!

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Try to minimize costs in time and energy as well as money and materials. Old records hold clues to current dilemmas. Ingenuity brings privacy for meditation.

Jean Adams TEEN FORUM

By Jean Adams, Ph.D.

ONE DAY: (Q.) I am a fairly good-looking 13-year-old. Last week I visited the school I will be going to next year. I met this really nice guy named Larry. He is 17. He showed me around, then we sat on the front steps of the school. All we did was hold hands. Then I got on the bus to come home.

I sat on the floor beside the driver. He's 17 and we used to like each other. He held my hand and then put his arm around me. I still care for him a lot so I let him. The people on the bus saw us. They told everybody. After just one day I have a reputation. What can I do? —Quick in Alabama.

(A.) You can make future days, of which there will be many, less like that one day.

What did you do that was a mistake? You held hands in public, inviting all to look, with a boy you had just met. Then you invited another boy to caress you by sitting in a forbidden spot beside him. You also endangered his life, your life and the lives of the others on the bus.

This multiple breaking of the rules of everyday conduct gave the people who saw you the impression that you are too permissive and also reckless. In the future, be more careful about whom you hold hands with, and where, and in what circumstances.

ACNE: (Q.) I know a lot of teen-agers get acne, but I have more than anybody I know. I went to a dermatologist, but after a while the medication didn't work. I am 15. If I am nervous the acne gets worse. I think I will have it all my life. Please help me. —Awful Complexion in Connecticut.

(A.) A physician or a dermatologist can't guarantee to cure you with one visit or one prescription. Because one medication didn't work, you have decided nothing will. That is not being sensible.

Go back to your dermatologist. Tell him all you have told me. Answer truthfully any questions he asks. Then work with him — patiently and cooperatively — as he works to improve your complexion. The time and money it takes will be worth it.

team-of-four with international match-point scoring. South was pretty sure that he could wrap up seven hearts. His problem was to get to play hearts when his not vulnerable opponents held the spade suit.

Oswald: "His bid of just five hearts was a calculated risk. He would have looked mighty silly if East-West had let him play there."

Jim: "Strangely enough, five hearts making seven would have been a score of 710. At the other table North and South slam-banged into seven hearts and East-West took the save at seven spades. The defense collected just four tricks to score a mere 700."

Oswald: "I don't like to take away credit from South's virtuous bidding performance, but I feel that if East had been really alert he would still have bid seven spades rather than risk letting his opponents score their vulnerable grand slam."

make a complaint for the police to take care of a violation."

One person interviewed said that someone had left a full sized mattress leaning against a store across the street from Montano's Shoe Store on upper Partition Street for six weeks before it was moved.

"The taxpayers in Saugerties are being taken by the street department," was one opinion.

A. Michael Schovel, village zoning enforcement officer, has given the village board a list of buildings he considers hazardous. They will be inspected by village engineers before further action. This route in the past has been followed with less than spectacular results. With no fire code in the village, a building must be declared structurally unsafe before it can be removed.

Multiple Dwelling Officer Richard Jackson has given the board a list of recent inspections of apartment buildings with violations listed. He promised to have the entire village inspected as soon as possible.

There are those who think the final solution must lie with the residents themselves. "After all," said one disgusted person, "what kind of animal fouls its own nest?"

Some findings of the Schovel report:

- 228 Partition Street. Building partially burned. Bricks falling out of first story walls. Accessible to the public.
- Buildings corner of Dock and Partition streets. Bricks falling out, weeds and brush, accessible to the public.
- Buildings on Partition and McDonald streets. First story boarded up, second story open.
- Nine Ann Street, corner E. Bridge Street. Bricks falling out, weeds and brush, building hazardous.
- Old Diamond Mill. Forty foot walls about to collapse. Very hazardous.
- Old chicken factory E. Bridge Street. Walls unsafe. Hazardous to the public.
- Building next to 9 Ann St. Bricks falling out of foundation. Accessible to the public.

- 24 and 25 Allen St. Brick structure completely open to the public. Trash in front of building.
- Campbell House West Bridge Street. Burned out and boarded up. Not hazardous to public.
- Rathburn Building on Livingston Street. Building deteriorating. Termed hazardous fire trap.

Some recent multiple dwelling reports:

- 24-26 Allen Street, two story brick and frame with exposed rear cellar. Violations include garbage in and around house, no door in front, roof unsafe, floor boards taken up, no plumbing fixtures, heavy vegetation around house, not liveable.
- 172 Partition Street, three story frame, business and apartments. Violations include garbage stacked at side of house and attached rear room containing gallons of paints, thinners and painting supplies with hole in roof. (This complaint was said to be partially remedied.)

Refugee Camp Reported Taken

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Christian and Syrian troops pounded left-wing and Palestinian forces across north Lebanon and Beirut today. A right-wing broadcast claimed the Christians had captured the Palestinian refugee camp of Tal Zaatar, ending a 20-day siege.

Palestinian spokesmen denied the rightist claim and said the camp's defenders had "successfully repelled" new Christian attacks.

But Palestinian officials said privately the camp's fall was "imminent and inevitable."

The Christians, apparently driving for superiority on the battlefield before today's emergency meeting of Arab League foreign ministers in Cairo, launched a series of attacks Sunday on the camp and on left-wing positions around Tripoli, 51 miles north of Beirut.

In the north, they pushed the leftists back to the port city's outskirts, trapping them between right-wing columns to the south and Syrian artillery forces reportedly shelling Palestinian camps to the north.

The Phalangist radio report said Tal Zaatar fell Sunday afternoon after a half-hour, house-to-house battle amid the flattened ruins of the camp's wood and tin shacks.

The sketchy report said rightist forces had taken prisoners but did not say how many. Nor did it indicate what became of the 280 seriously wounded persons Red Cross officials said were trapped inside the camp hospital.

Western newsmen were unable to reach the area to confirm the Phalangist account.

Right-wing gunmen in Beirut's eastern, Christian sector fired rockets and tracer bullets into the air, lighting up the night sky to celebrate the reports of the camp's fall.

At the same time, leftists in the western, Moslem-held sector set off their own fireworks over an apparently unfounded report of a coup in Damascus.

The Palestinian news agency Wafa said "Palestinian intelligence channels in Damascus" reported eight Syrian officers had killed Syrian President Hafez Assad in a coup attempt, but later retracted the story.

The American embassy and Palestinian, right-wing and leftwing sources said they had heard nothing of the alleged coup, but the rumor set off impromptu celebrations all across the leftist zone.

"The war is over, the war is over," one Palestinian guerrilla shouted, firing machine gun bursts into the air.

The gunmen's celebration quickly died down when fighting resumed.

Missing Woman Found

BRATTLEBORO, Vt (UPI) — Margaret White, 70, of Brookline, Mass., was resting comfortably today in a local hospital after being lost for five days in the woods and steep hills of nearby Marlboro.

Missing since last Monday, Mrs. White was found Saturday morning in a wooded area of Hogback Mountain in Marlboro after a nearby innkeeper heard her calls from about a half mile away.

For Mrs. White, a summer resident of Marlboro, her five days and nights in the rugged terrain were an ordeal. She survived with the help of temperatures that didn't fall below the 50s at night and with the aid of two nights of heavy rain which provided her with drinking water.

Her husband, Robert, a noted psychologist now retired from Harvard University, said Sunday Mrs. White got her drinking water by lying on her back and catching rain in her open mouth.

He said the short sleeve summer dress she wore got soaked by rain at night, but dried quickly in the daytime.

Mrs. White was reported missing Monday after she failed to return to her Horse Hill Road summer cottage from a shopping trip.

Police found her car Tuesday night stuck in mud on a remote road about two miles from her home. They immediately began a search with the help of volunteers.

Search parties, including 500 volunteers, took turns combing the forest. However, they were unsuccessful and hope of finding Mrs. White had all but been abandoned by Thursday.

From the day we started Good Deal Checking, people stopped paying monthly maintenance charges. They also stopped paying a charge for each check they used. No matter how many checks they wrote. That's a good deal.
To get that, people keep at least $200 in their checking account. Or $200 in a savings account, which earns the highest interest allowable. That's a good deal, too.

Thunderstorms
Kill 3 in State

BATAVIA — Severe thunderstorms in New York took the lives of three persons Sunday, as torrential rains and high winds caused widespread destruction in several areas of the state.

Police said a lightning bolt killed two persons as they watched a softball game in Kibbe Park in Batavia. A third person sitting with them under a tree was critically injured.

And a Toronto, Canada man traveling with his family on a sailboat on the Mohawk River was killed when lightning hit him Sunday evening.

His Image Staff

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dropping his television adviser and dividing powers held by his senior aide, President Ford shook up his image-making staff in preparation for battling Ronald Reagan and perhaps Jimmy Carter.

Out went television adviser Robert Mead, blamed by presidential press secretary Ron Nessen for spilling last week's nationwide telecast of Ford's White House dinner for Queen Elizabeth.

Counselor Robert Hartmann, with Ford since his days in Congress, lost control of all written presidential statements but will still supervise speech writing.

Boston Offers
Queenly Welcome

BOSTON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip spent the last day of their Bicentennial state visit to the United States touring Revolutionary War sites and stressing the friendship between America and Britain.

Boston gave the royal couple one of the most lavish and colorful receptions of their six-day visit.

Lefty Asks PSC
About Utility Costs

ALBANY (UPI) — Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz says he has petitioned the Public Service Commission to spell out when gas and electric utilities should be allowed to charge expenses for advertising and charitable contributions to consumers.

Lefkowitz said Sunday his petition asks the PSC to draw up regulations clarifying which expenses should be paid for from utility rates and which should be met by shareholders — or restricted in the public interest.

The petition notes that Con Edison, LILCO and other utilities have included the cost of publicity on controversial topics, such as the advantages of nuclear power plants, in their rate base.

The Attorney General noted in his petition: "The consumer is, in effect, paying from his own pocket to publicize the company's point of view on a highly controversial issue in which he may be in total disagreement" — such as offshore oil drilling or the importation of liquefied natural gas.

Ulster Delegates Face Major Questions at Convention

By Steven Asher
Freeman Staff

NEW YORK — Mary Ann Fallek, New Paltz, will begin today to resolve two major questions facing her as an Ulster County delegate to the Democratic National Convention: will she vote to nominate Morris Udall Wednesday night, and will she vote on an unresolved controversy on women's rights?

The National Organization for Women and other women's groups are demanding that the call for the 1980 convention include the proviso that half the delegates be women. This year about a third of the delegates are women.

Ms. Fallek, who met with the women's caucus yesterday, is still undecided on the quota proposal, which the nominee-in-waiting, Jimmy Carter, opposes. Manhattan Rep. Bella Abzug, now in a tight, four-way race for the Democratic senatorial nomination in New York, tried to persuade the caucus to accept a Carter-supported compromise resolution abandoning talk of a 50 per cent quota.

"There has been intense communication between the Carter people and the women's caucus," Ms. Fallek confirmed, adding that she was still undecided on the issue.

Karen DeCrow, president of the National Organization for Women, persuaded the caucus yesterday to take up the issue as its first order of business today, Ms. Fallek reported.

For Ulster County's other delegate, Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, D-101st Dist., life at the convention has been much simpler so far. He's a committed Carter delegate and in favor of the Carter-supported compromise. "I'm not excited about quotas," he said.

Hinchey will attend a caucus of New York Carter delegates this morning and join Ms. Fallek for a state caucus this afternoon.

The Udall delegates from New York and other northeastern states met Sunday to resolve the question of whether they will have the chance to vote for their candidate, Rep. Morris Udall.

"At the caucus, the Udall people there were asked their opinion. They would definitely like to see Udall named for the nomination—that's the general feeling," Ms. Fallek said.

"I spoke to Udall last night at the Roosevelt, and I said I would like the chance to vote for him, and he said I would. But that's only one of several options being considered," she added.

"No final Udall caucus is planned for today."

Seven Youths Arrested For Post-Grad Vandalism

HIGHLAND — A 12-day investigation by State Trooper John J. Hayes of the Highland State Police barracks has resulted in 32 misdemeanor charges and 10 felony charges against seven youths in connection with an alleged spree of rock-throwing in the Town of New Paltz and the Village of Highland.

Police say Hayes and Trooper Richard Burdine, on a routine check of a vehicle on June 28, arrested the driver for drunken driving. A description of the vehicle linked the occupants with the spree of rock-throwing incidents, according to witnesses.

The investigation brought the arrest of the driver and six passengers in the car for five counts of criminal mischief and one count of assault each.

Police say the group had apparently been celebrating their graduation from high school when they decided to go to the home of one of their former teachers in the Town of New Paltz. There, police charge, they threw a large rock through a picture window which landed on a color television set and damaged furniture. The teacher was watching television at the time.

From the New Paltz, police say, the group proceeded to Highland where they allegedly threw rocks at the Brabatas Cleaners, the Sugarbowl Restaurant and an automobile, damaging and breaking windows in the stores and causing dents and scratches to the vehicle.

The group continued driving around the area of routes 44 and 55, police say, when they came upon a pedestrian hitchhiker, whereupon they allegedly pelted him with rocks. The hitchhiker suffered cuts and bruises.

On Route 55 the group allegedly stopped at the end of a driveway and threw stones at a parked station wagon, smashing the windows and denting the vehicle.

Police say the same group also was involved in minor incidents of tipping over trash cans and scattering rubbish for which no charges were lodged.

The names of those arrested are being withheld pending possible youthful offender treatment. All were initially arraigned in Town of Lloyd court on Friday and will reappear July 30. All have been released in the custody of their parents pending final disposition of the case.

MARKET BASKET Food Price Averages Close to Last Week's

KINGSTON — The cost of feeding a family of four in Kingston for the week ending July 9 showed no perceptible change from the previous week's tabulations, the Ulster County Consumer Information Service branch of the district attorney's office announced recently.

The 41-item market basket cost $65.99 for the week. The same foods were priced at $65.98 for the week ending July 2.

The price index is based on the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Moderate Cost Family Food Plan, and lists the various amounts of foods which should be consumed in order to provide a nutritious diet for a family of four.

Grain products (seven items) went up 7¢ from the previous week; meat and fish (nine items) were up 20¢; dairy products remained the same while fresh fruit and vegetables went down 31¢. Canned and frozen fruit and vegetables (seven items) went up only 1¢, while beverages (four items) went up 4¢.

Market basket information is based on a survey of at least three chain supermarkets in the Kingston area.

Water Rate Rise Displeasing But Nobody Has Better Answer

STRUBEL: Very disgusted, but...

that water rates are set by an autonomous board, without the need for public hearing.

"I'm very disgusted," said Margaret Strubel, who has watched her water bill at 156 Tremper Ave. nearly double in the past decade. "But I really don't know what they could have done to keep costs down."

Mrs. Strubel's bill went up nearly $5, leaving her slightly above the $15 to $25 average household payment per quarter.

"That's not too bad by itself, but when your telephone rates are going up, and also the gas and electric... when you add it all up, it hurts."

Frank Grant, 3 Mary's Ave., was a typical satisfied customer: "The water here is excellent. I think they are justified in asking for the increase. It's the only one I can remember in quite a while."

The increase, effective in the third-quarter billing, was the first sought by the commissioners in three years. The last increase was 18 per cent.

General inflation and a policy of paying for capital improvements out of the operating budget rather than by special bond issue were the main reasons for the hike, said Chester A. Baltz Jr., president of the commissioners.

"We've been able to hold our ground about three years at a time. That's pretty good," Baltz said.

Tony J. Peone, a small businessman who owns two houses in Kingston, hadn't even noticed his bills had gone up: "I didn't pay attention. Everything else is going up."

GRANT: A satisfied customer

John Simmons, 69 Henry St., "couldn't really say" what could be done to keep water bills down, but he observed that "it's getting hard to live. People ought to get together and see about this. The people gotta do something."

A satisfied customer who found the rate hike "no big thing," Robert E. Houghtaling, 107 Pine Grove Ave., still felt the water commissioners should be subject to control of the Common Council as a matter of general policy.

"All city agencies, really, should come under the Common Council, who we vote for," Houghtaling said.

Rock Without Name; Mercy Drive Launched

KINGSTON — Ulster County's rock needs a name. The county's recently acquired 20-ton hunk of Gardiner granite, temporarily squatting at the county's quarry off Hurley Avenue, has no name registered with American Rock Club (possibly an indication of mongrel origin) and Freeman investigators have been unable to locate any close relatives.

We are sure our readers are more than ready to help. This rock is prepared to sit in front of the renovated Kingston courthouse bearing an historical plaque in all kinds of weather from now until taxes come down, and asks nothing in return.

The Daily Freeman will give $10 for the best name submitted by a reader this week.

The rules are simple. Send your name for the rock and your own name and address on a postcard. Address them to: City Desk, The Daily Freeman, 79 Hurley Ave., Kingston, 12401. The editor (Tom Geyer) and the city editor (Wade Burkhardt) will be the judges. The winning name becomes solely the property of the rock.

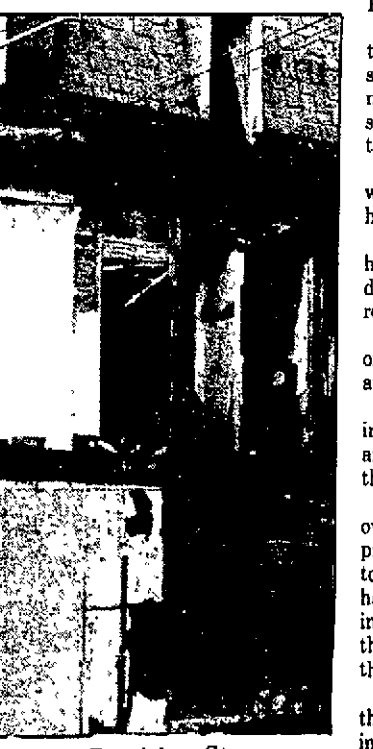

In case of a tie, the city editor's choice wins an all-expense paid, one-way bus ride to Port Ewen.

Saugerties Neighborhood Is Sliding Toward a Slum

By TIM SCHUSTER
Freeman Staff

SAUGERTIES — Parts of downtown Saugerties are a mess and getting worse. "Nobody gives a damn!" said one longtime resident of Saugerties' downtown.

228 Partition St.

"The flowers are beautiful, but they should clean it up first."

She was speaking of the growing number of dilapidated, dirty and burned-out structures and trashy yards that dot the network of small streets off lower Partition Street.

The people who have lived their lives in this neighborhood are concerned with its slide toward a slum. Never a rich man's neighborhood, the area has been slipping steadily downhill for the past 10 years, they say.

They didn't want to be named. As one woman explained it, "We live and work here. We don't need the publicity."

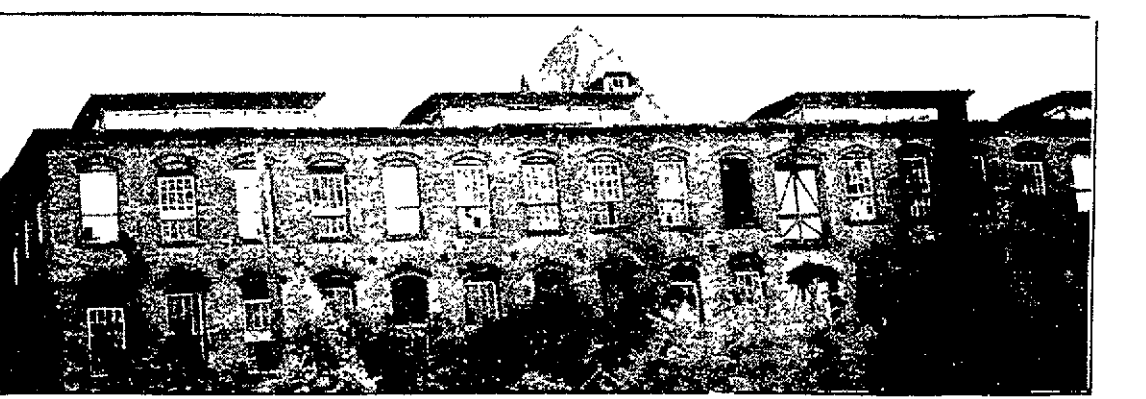

Some official action on the village level has been promised to deal with dilapidated buildings. This sometimes requires prolonged legal proceedings.

But it is the garbage and trash that offends those used to keeping their yards and homes attractive.

"We're basically concerned with cleaning up those dirty holes," said one woman. "A lot of people aren't taking care of their properties."

The character of the area has changed over the past 10 years. One person saw the problem as absentee landlords who rent to tenants who pile plastic bags in hallways, in kitchens, in basements, and in yards. The dogs and rats come and rip the bags apart, leaving behind a mess that no one seems inclined to clean up.

"There are ordinances to take care of this," said one person. "Nobody is enforcing them. There are a bunch of jellyfish on the board. They don't want to step on toes. Nobody gives a damn."

The village has no ordinance mandating steel trash containers. Once garbage starts piling up in a yard, everyone starts adding to the pile.

Declining property maintenance is contagious, they felt. Some people saw it this way: "That sort of thing spreads... The whole neighborhood is deteriorating into a depressed area... You get one slob and its contagious... I feel sorry for those who try to keep their property up."

Why has the area changed?

"There are a lot of new people in the downtown area," commented one person. "There are a bunch of slob. The landlords don't care; the tenants take over. We used to have families that cared."

One person has a building up for sale on lower Partition Street. It is immaculate. Across the street is a burned out hulk of a building. The third floor has been condemned.

"What are they going to do? Tear off the third floor and leave two floors of rubble?" was the question. Property values decline in such a situation no matter how much individual effort has gone into your own building, the prospective seller said.

A nearby building is owned by Chase Manhattan Bank. An aluminum recycling center was once started there, but not kept up. People started dumping cans and bags of garbage in the yard and didn't stop. Nobody took the debris to the dump.

"Jim Gage (the mayor) sent them down twice to get the garbage, but that was it," said a neighbor.

There was a bad fire on Partition Street two years ago in this section. "They haven't done anything since then," claimed a resident. "I'm ashamed of Saugerties when I come into town. And I was born here."

There is an anti-litter ordinance, we were told.

"But no ordinances are being enforced down here. You can even park the wrong way on a street. The lack of enforcement has been going on for a few years," said one irate resident. "Ten years ago it didn't look like this. Every year it's getting worse. You shouldn't have to (See SLUM, page 16)

Gearhart Body To Return

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — The U.S. embassy has begun arrangements to bring home the body of a 34-year-old Vietnam veteran executed with three British mercenaries by an Angolan firing squad.

Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., who was enroute to Luanda when Daniel Gearhart was executed Saturday, said contact with the Angolan government was initiated at the request of Gearhart's widow in Kensington, Md.

"She expressed a wish that the body be returned and the Angolans have said this would be permitted," Mathias said Sunday.

(In London, the British Foreign Office said it had instructed British diplomats in Angola to arrange for the return of the bodies of the three Britons if requested by their families.)

The executions were carried out as Mathias waited in Lisbon for a visa to fly to Luanda to plead for Gearhart's life. His one remaining hope was that he might accompany the body home to Gearhart's widow and four children for burial.

Gearhart claimed he never fired a shot in Angola and was captured less than four days after he entered the country.

Although the United States has no diplomatic relations with Angola, the senator said he hoped arrangements to ship Gearhart's body home could be completed rapidly.

An Angolan information ministry official contacted by telephone said the Angolan government had no objections to the bodies' being sent home. He said they would be retained for eight days to give the families time to make arrangements.

Passes Critical Stage

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Pat Nixon, buoyed by a visit from her family, a gardenia plucked from her garden and cards and letters from around the world, today was reported past the critical stage in her fight for recovery from a paralyzing stroke.

But her doctors cautioned that the condition of the wife of former President Richard Nixon still was serious and that she was "not yet out of the woods."

Her family physician, Dr. John Lungren, and consulting neurologist Dr. Jack Mosier scheduled a medical briefing today at Long Beach Memorial Hospital.

"The critical stage is over," Lungren said in a brief statement issued Sunday. "But Mrs. Nixon is not yet out of the woods. She is progressing very nicely."

Mrs. Nixon was suffering from a slight paralysis on her left side, but she was receiving therapy in twice-a-day walks in her hospital room with assistance. Her speech, slightly slurred as a result of the stroke, was reported improving.

Mrs. Nixon was transferred Saturday to the same room her husband, Richard Nixon, occupied when he was stricken with phlebitis and almost died 21 months ago.

Nixon, accompanied by his daughters Julie and Tricia in a 4½ hour visit to the hospital Sunday, said the room held "unpleasant memories for me."

"But in the end, I was able to pull out of it, and so that perhaps perks up her spirit a bit."

"It may be a lucky room. With the proper care combined with her determination. I think that she is passing through the crisis and maybe has passed through it ... Time will tell."

Nixon, who chatted with reporters for about 10 minutes before entering the hospital, clutched a single white flower and a parcel filled with cards and letters as he left his limousine.

"I think she'll especially like this," Nixon said, pointing to the flower in his hand. "This is a fresh gardenia from the plant that was just outside of her bedroom that we picked this morning. This is my flower this morning."

Nixon said the cards and letters he carried were "not only from famous people like emperors and kings and secretaries of states, but also from people she has never met."

"It's quite touching that people from all over this country and in other countries are thinking of her at this time."

CB Aids Birth

MANCHESTER, Conn. (UPI) — Gary Vaughn knew he was going to be speeding, so he called up state police on his car's Citizens Band radio and informed him of his plans.

"10-4," came the answer from the "smokies," indicating there was no problem.

Vaughn, 26, and his wife Doreen, 23, were headed for New Britain General Hospital, where 30 minutes later Mrs. Vaughn gave birth to Holli Marie.

The Vaughns, of Southington, were attending a party in Manchester when Mrs. Vaughn began having labor pains. Vaughn broadcast his predicament over his CB radio as they headed for the hospital.

"I had CBers all the way from East Hartford either moving over or leading the way," he said. "We had a few smokies (state troopers) call us and they gave us clearance all the way."

"They were trying to find us but we were going too fast for them to catch up," said Vaughn.

POLICE BEAT

Woman Arrested in Assault Case

KINGSTON—A Kingston woman was arrested early this morning for disorderly conduct, resisting arrest and second degree assault for allegedly kicking and biting a Kingston policeman.

Patrolman Wayne Freer, called to the scene of a family dispute on the corner of Broadway and Henry Street says he found Helene Brodhead, 19, 636 Broadway involved in a fight with her husband. Freer was arresting Mrs. Brodhead when he said she began biting and kicking him, finally hitting him on the head with a mail box.

Freer was treated at Benedictine Hospital for cuts and bruises and given a tetanus shot. Mrs. Freer will appear in city court Monday morning.

Seek Robbery Suspects

New Paltz Police report an armed robbery at the 7-11 store on Route 32 in New

Paltz. Police say they are looking for a white male between 19 and 21, 5 feet 6 inches tall, medium build, wearing a brown or gray shirt, a light jacket, and dark pants; and a white female between 18 and 21, slim, long black hair parted in the middle, and wearing a blue long-sleeved blouse.

The male subject reportedly entered the store alone wearing a multi-colored ski mask and carrying a .22 or .25 calibre revolver. He forced an employee of the store into a bathroom at the rear of the store. Prior to entering the bathroom the employee saw the female subject standing near the store's cash register.

The subjects' means of escape was not seen.

Kingston Man Critical

A Kingston man is in critical condition in the intensive care unit at Benedictine Hospital after a one-car crash in Rosendale Saturday afternoon.

Hurley State Police say that Michael Thomas, 18, 34 Thompkins Street in Kingston was travelling on School Lane in Rosendale when he lost control of his car, went off the left shoulder of road, slid down an embankment and struck a tree.

A passenger in the car, Archie McMillan, 20, Star Route in Rosendale, was treated and released for a fractured hand and lacerations of both arms.

State Aids Station Operator

NEW YORK (UPI) — State Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz says the state has gone to bat for a Queens Mobil service station operator put out of business by what Lefkowitz claims were antitrust practices.

Lefkowitz said Saturday he had filed a brief in the State Court of Appeals alleging the operator's lease was not renewed because he failed to purchase and sell only Mobil tires, batteries, and accessories.

Lefkowitz charged that the practice, described in the case of dealer Paul Rubinfeld, violates antitrust laws. He said Mobil instituted an eviction proceeding in retaliation for Rubinfeld's refusal to comply with certain company business practices which, Lefkowitz charged, violate federal and state antitrust laws.

Rubinfeld, who has run the station for 17 years, testified at his trial that Mobil sought to force him to purchase Mobil products at the exclusion of other brands, under threats the oil company would not renew his lease if he failed to comply. While a lower court found in Rubinfeld's favor, the company successfully appealed the case to the Appellate Division.

The attorney general's brief argued that a finding supporting Rubinfeld would prevent a landlord from evicting a tenant for the sole reason of penalizing him for refusing to cooperate in an antitrust violation. Lefkowitz argued such a finding would not prevent eviction for any other legitimate reason.

Lefkowitz said two assistant attorneys general from his office's Anti-Monopolies Bureau are handling the matter.

Six Attica Guards Hurt In Melee

ATTICA (UPI) — Six Attica Correctional Facility guards were injured late Sunday night in what authorities described as a "minor" disturbance involving about 200 inmates.

Prison officials said the guards were stabbed and beaten in the disturbance. Five of the six were admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital in Batavia, while the the other was released following treatment.

The disturbance began about 10 p.m. when an inmate reportedly stabbed a guard, triggering a confrontation with other guards who came to his rescue.

About 200 prisoners at the maximum security prison occupied two prison yards for about four hours. Officials said the inmates were finally coaxed back into their cells. The two yards held by the prisoners were also the scene of the nation's bloodiest prison riot nearly five years ago, when 43 persons lost their lives.

Off-duty guards with riot equipment were called in, but officials said no force was used.

State police and area sheriff's deputies, were on stand-by alert, but were not called to the prison.

State Department of Corrections officials left Albany for this rural Wyoming County community shortly after the disturbance broke out. Deputy Commissioner William Quick was scheduled to release a statement on the incident later today at the prison.

Admitted to St. Jerome's were Brian Sweeney, 34, of Attica, in fair condition with multiple blunt injuries; Richard Schiener, 34, of Buffalo, in fair condition with multiple stab wounds to the chest; James Kirk, 33, of Buffalo, in satisfactory condition with various injuries and being held for observation; William Bowers, 34, of Elmira, in fair condition with injuries to the chest and left thumb; Byron Ball, 25, of Warsaw, being held for observation with a groin injury.

The sixth guard, James Mann, 33, of Elmira, was released from St. Jerome's following treatment for a groin injury.

•REPS

Much of the convention gossip centers on who Carter will choose as his running mate. He's meeting today with Sen. Adlai Stevenson III of Illinois and Sen. Frank Church of Idaho.

Sen. Edmund Muskie's chances for the vice presidential nomination got a boost this morning with the publication of a Pat Caddell poll taken for Carter as reported in today's Boston Globe. The Caddell poll indicates that only Muskie of Carter's seven possible vice presidential choices can firm up Carter's soft support among eastern ethnic voters.

"It's hard to judge how a running mate will do in Ulster County," said Hinchey when informed of the poll. "There are some ethnic factors in Kingston and I suppose Muskie's as good as anybody."

Cleanup Program

DETROIT (UPI) — More than 150,000 volunteers from approximately 1,200 community groups have helped Detroit shed seven million pounds of accumulated trash and debris as part of this year's annual spring cleanup program that covered a 70-square-mile section of the city. Detroit's Environmental Protection and Maintenance Department sent 412 trucks on special pickups throughout the city, while the National Guard provided 25 trucks with guardsmen to remove debris that was too bulky or heavy for sanitation workers.

The Founding Fathers would be astounded to learn that 150,041,000 Americans will be eligible to vote in the forthcoming presidential election. To vote in the early days of our nation, a man had to "have a stake in society." He had to own property or prove he paid taxes. And a man had to be "free, white and 21" to have a say in choosing the new nation's leaders. The World Almanac reports.

As The Convention Opens...

NEW YORK (UPI) — Democrats convene tonight for a four-day festival of love and newfound harmony climaxing when they give their presidential nomination to Jimmy Carter, a shrewd newcomer from the Deep South and a stranger to most of them.

Hours before Democratic National Chairman Robert S. Strauss gavel the party's 37th national convention to order at 8 p.m. EDT in Madison Square Garden, the only suspense centered on Carter's choice of a running mate.

The former Georgia governor said only that "so far as I know," his candidate for the vice presidential nominee would come from among seven members of Congress. (See story below)

Carter, who said Sunday he had changed his mind three or four times about his favorites, promises to observe tradition and withhold announcement of his decision until after he is nominated late Wednesday night. The convention will ratify his choice Thursday afternoon during the final session.

Additional delegate votes continued to shift into Carter's column as the convention opening approached. By late Sunday night, a running UPI tabulation showed Carter had 1,952 votes — nearly two-thirds of the 3,008 convention total and far more than the 1,505 majority needed for nomination.

Running second — as he did in most of the primaries — was Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona with less than 350 votes. Udall says his name probably will be placed in nomination to satisfy his supporters, but he likely will withdraw immediately or allow his votes to shift to Carter before the first ballot ends.

Schedule For Tonight

There was a chance that Gov. Edmund Brown of California and Ellen McCormack, the antiabortion candidate, also will have their names placed in nomination, but it was expected that Carter would be nominated by acclamation before the Wednesday night session is over.

Before giving Carter the nomination — and their hopes for reclaiming the White House after a lono decade of bitter party strife — the Democrats present for opening night on prime time television tonight a pair of keynote speakers heavy with symbolism.

They are Glenn, the Ohio senator who was the first astronaut to orbit earth, and Rep. Barbara Jordan, D-Tex., the first black woman elected to Congress from the South.

And to underscore the unity theme, the 5,034 convention delegates and alternates also hear welcoming speeches by New York City's Jewish mayor, the state's Irish-American governor and woman lieutenant governor, and the Democratic National Committee's black vice chairman.

Not only was suspense virtually lacking, but only one squabble threatened to mar the uncharacteristically placid Democratic conclave — a far cry from the rancorous McGovern convention of 1972, the violence of 1968 in Chicago or the fast convention to be held in New York, a two-week Democratic marathon in 1924 that took 103 ballots to nominate John W. Davis.

The sole controversy centered on women's rights, at a convention where women make up 34 per cent of the delegates.

After meeting with 75 ranking party women leaders Sunday, Carter said he would seek a compromise to a women's proposal that would require an even sexual balance of delegates to the 1980 convention.

During an hour-long interview Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press," Carter agreed with Democratic chairman Strauss that "there is a problem about Catholic votes" in his appeal to the public.

But he added, "I don't think we can characterize Catholic voters as any kind of a bloc and I think we can deal with them on the issues."

... Seven Are in Running for Second

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jimmy Carter, clearly the apple of this city's eye on the opening day of the Democratic National Convention, prepared to finish today his seven personal interviews for a running mate.

He acknowledged "maybe three" topped his list. At least two of the seven had factors that perhaps could result in their elimination from the contest.

Carter interviewed Rep. Pete Rodino, 67, of New Jersey, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee's 1974 impeachment inquiry, and acknowledged that "age is a factor, yes." He said Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota was taking "minimal medication" for mild hypertension.

Carter said, however, that he had found no financial or physical problems that would eliminate any of the seven.

Carter was to speak today with the final two — Sens. Frank Church of Idaho, who defeated him in two late primaries, and Adlai Stevenson III of Illinois, whose great-grandfather was vice president and whose father was the Democratic standard bearer in 1952 and 1956.

Earlier he interviewed

three other senators, Edmund Muskie of Maine, John Glenn of Ohio and Henry Jackson of Washington in addition to Mondale.

"I'd say, of these seven, there are maybe three that are at the top of my list," Carter said during TV network interviews.

"I haven't made known in the slightest my preference to my wife or my top staff members or anyone else," he said. "Cross my heart, I have an open mind about it."

During the day he also revealed that black Congressman Andrew Young of Atlanta, his closest friend among public officials, would give a seconding address for his nomination.

He said he opposed a quota system that would insure 50 per cent female representation among the delegates at the 1980 national convention, but was "perfectly willing as head of the party" to work towards such representation.

Carter opened the day bowed in prayer at a chapel service at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, and ended it with two massive, noisy parties at Rockefeller Plaza and Pier 88.

Between times, Carter, his wife Rosalynn and their daughter, Amy, 8, walked up Fifth Avenue in a crush of reporters, photographers and passersby. One shouted, "Who's your vice president, Jimmy?" He answered with a smile.

"Haven't decided. Interested?"

Pickets Precede Opening

NEW YORK (UPI) — The opening today of the Democratic national convention, expected to be a five-day tribute to Jimmy Carter, was preceded by two rallies designed to coincide with the political show — but not choreographed to please its star.

Right-to-life activists and supporters of gay rights staged separate rallies Sunday at Madison Square Garden, the convention site, to demand repeal of laws which they say stifle their respective causes.

Neither demonstration drew as many participants as its organizers had expected.

Police estimated about 8,000 antiabortion supporters gathered in Central Park to hear presidential candidate Ellen McCormack, who has campaigned almost exclusively on the right to life issue and has five delegates to show for her efforts.

"It may take us many years to win our struggle against the powerful judges and the powerful legislators who have decided that it is convenient to allow one million unborn children to die every year," said Mrs. McCormack, a mother of three from Merrick, L.I.

State Workers Help in Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) — The State Health Department moved today to help struck hospitals and nursing homes cope with patient care as Gov. Hugh Carey called for arbitration to resolve the six-day walkout.

Dr. J. Warren Toff, the department's associate commissioner for New York City Health Services, said in a memo Sunday that 50 State Health Department Central Office professionals will "assist with patient care in the struck hospitals and nursing homes" beginning today.

"Every effort is being made to deploy State Health Department staff where needed to prevent mishaps to patients," Toff said.

He said that while "patient care has not been adversely affected" by virtue of volunteers and non-strikers helping out, "The normal work week will drain off the volunteer population."

Toff said the "most critical problem" at present is garbage accumulation, with city sanitationmen refusing to cross picket lines unless a struck facility is certified by the city Health Department as a health hazard.

Meanwhile, the two sides held joint talks Sunday — the first such negotiation since the strike began — but a union spokesman said no progress resulted and no time was set for new discussions.

Interviewed on television Sunday, Carey said that arbitration appeared to be the only way to resolve a strike by some 40,000 workers at 57 hospitals and nursing homes in the metropolitan area.

"The parties should sit down and work out the processes and standards that could lead to arbitration to break this impasse," the governor declared.

But Carey reiterated his position that the state cannot increase Medicaid reimbursements to the health care facilities to provide them with additional income to meet union demands.

Carey was interviewed on WABC-TV's "Eyewitness News Conference."

William J. Abelow, executive vice president of the League of Voluntary Hospitals, said it will continue to oppose arbitration, declaring "It is our belief that arbitration is not the answer in this question because, as the governor very clearly pointed out, there is no new state money going to be available. An arbitrator can only decide what the union gets and the arbitrator cannot in any way determine what the hospital will get to pay for that."

A spokesman for the striking District 1199, National Union of Hospital and Health Care Employees, responded, "We say again, if the hospital management will accept our proposal to submit any and all issues to binding arbitration the strike can be ended in a matter of hours."

The State Health Department said a survey Sunday by its monitors at 29 struck private hospitals showed an occupancy of 66 per cent of their total licensed capacity. A survey of 11 struck nursing homes showed them at 57 per cent of total licensed capacity as of Sunday.

On Saturday, the strike called Wednesday at private, non-profit hospitals spread to 10 city hospitals having affiliation agreements with the private facilities and nursing homes.

The strikers included technicians, orderlies and nurse's aides. No doctors and only a few registered nurses are represented by the union. The main issue is the union's demand for a cost-of-living increase.

The Founding Fathers would be astounded to learn that 150,041,000 Americans will be eligible to vote in the forthcoming presidential election. To vote in the early days of our nation, a man had to "have a stake in society." He had to own property or prove he paid taxes. And a man had to be "free, white and 21" to have a say in choosing the new nation's leaders. The World Almanac reports.

STAFF'S CHANCE

Help The Public Attend

About 5 p.m. the other day, a man rushed breathlessly into a 4 p.m. meeting of Ulster Town Board saying he had just found out that a meeting was being held to decide whether to put the question of zoning to a public referendum.

Why, he wanted to know, does the town board hold meetings on such vital issues at 4 in the afternoon "when no one can get there?"

He took exception to the fact that the board often meets at an hour when most people are still working at their jobs or parents are caring for children and preparing dinner.

Board members assured him it was a matter of convenience to them rather than an attempt at secrecy.

But, one wonders.

In the past 18 months, Ulster Town Board has held its regular monthly meetings at 7:30 and 8 p.m.

It has also held 49 "special" meetings randomly between 1 and 4 p.m. and in almost all instances, with no notice of the meeting regardless of the time.

Minutes indicate that during some of the special meetings, important issues and decisions were made on such things as the proposal to buy one million gallons of water a day from the City of Kingston, the appointments of a town justice and town attorney, for which there were many candidates and the expenditure of many thousands of dollars in connection with the sewer project.

But, those minutes were NOT read at regular board meetings.

Granted most members of town boards must and do put in long hours of dedicated service attending to the multitude of problems facing municipalities today. Ulster is no exception.

Granted too, it is occasionally necessary to call-unannounced special meetings to deal with emergencies or to cope with personnel matters.

But one must question the advisability of consistently carrying on the town's business and passing important legislation without informing the taxpayer and the press of its intention to do so.

Intersection Is Badly Marked

Dear Editor:

Recently I was stopped by a deputy sheriff for driving in the wrong lane at the intersection of North Front Street and Washington Avenue heading out of the city. Since the pavement markings were fairly new, the deputy merely issued a warning. Since then, I have been carefully observing the pavement markings, staying in the right hand land until I cross the North Front Street intersection.

I call attention to this incident and this area because I have yet to see another driver follow the markings correctly. The result is that when it is necessary for me to move from the right into the left lane in the next block to drive out Hurley Avenue, if cars of my left drive straight instead of turning into Joys Lane, they cause a hazardous situation.

Perhaps signs should be posted to indicate that "left lane must turn left." Otherwise, if the deputies are conscientious enough to enforce the law on one occasion, they should be posted at that intersection to make sure the traffic rules are adhered to all the time. Why bother to follow the traffic rules otherwise if you tend to create a potential accident by doing so?

Respectfully,

Return to Old City Hall

Dear Editor: Almost every week I read something in the Freeman regarding the old Kingston City Hall. The latest is that money to remodel the entire building is not available. I also noticed, according to the Freeman, that the new Kingston City Hall is overcrowded. Kingston should solve several problems with one simple solution. Remodel the first floor of the old City Hall with the money available from state and federal sources. Leave the upper floors as they are now. When the work is completed, move the mayor's office, the City Council chambers, the fire and police department administrative offices and most of the various city boards back to the old City Hall. In this way, all of Kingston's relics of the past with nothing much upstairs will be in one place. The only foreseeable problem with this plan is one of image. The original move by the city government from a high place of distinction at the center of town to one of the lowest, most empty places in the city, was very appropriate.

Sincerely,

Flabbergasted At Job Study

Dear Editor:

I'm a nurse's aide employed at the Ulster County Infirmary. Recently, I had the opportunity, as did all county employees, to read and review the job study and evaluation conducted by the Kingsley Corp. I'm only thankful I was given the chance to vote to reject this incredibly useless study for which the county paid approximately $18,000.

First of all, the nurse's aides at the infirmary are all classified as hospital aides. This is incorrect. I don't work in a hospital where short-term acute nursing care is done. I work at the infirmary where extended care is offered to the chronically ill. These concepts are entirely different and so is the work.

I was flabbergasted as I read on. Two of the requirements for the position of hospital aide are: an ability to perform housekeeping tasks and (are you ready?) a New York State operators license. Now for the hazards of the job: according to Mr. Kingsley there are two — strains and traffic accidents!!! It appears that he sees us as running up and down the halls of the infirmary with a dust cloth (perhaps in a Volkswagen) trying to avoid head-on collisions.

Further inaccuracies include: that we administer prescribed medications (this happens to be illegal and is only done by licensed professionals at the infirmary); okay, here is a good one — that our weight lifting load is 40 pounds. This means that when I lift a patient into bed, I'd be leaving approximately two-thirds of her in the chair.

Mr. Quimby of CSEA told us that we could not have copies of our own job study, so I can only comment on the aspects that stand out in my memory.

However, the real truths were never mentioned. The back-breaking lifting, the exposure to contamination and communicable disease, the possibility of serious injury either due to conditions or the patient directly, the tremendous responsibility and the emotional drain.

Ulster County paid $18,000 for a job study that is degrading, inaccurate in its judgements, incorrect in its facts, and valueless in its function.

I only hope that the patients themselves and their families do not consider us all to be the morons that CSEA and the county legislators have made us appear to be in black and white.

Taking Aim At Ralph Nader

WASHINGTON — After reading the new book about Ralph Nader, conservatives may decide that the liberal journalism of investigations has turned to eating the flesh of its own species. (Me & Ralph: Is Nader Unsafe for America? by David Sanford, The New Republic Book Co., Washington, D.C., $7.95.) David Sanford, its author, is the managing editor of The New Republic and as such he is as much a certificated liberal as a Walter Mondale or a Jake Javits, although there are those who say the magazine Walter Lippmann found has drifted far rightward.

Nevertheless, some of us who're ordinarily accused of leftward tilt might ask ourselves if we've been doing the same kind of job on those we disagree with that Sanford does on Nader. If we have, you can begin to understand why the bowels fly loose at the country club at the suggestion there's a journalist skulking around the gates, noting who is going home with the wrong wife or husband.

Sanford makes it clear from the onset he will do Nader in, if he can, but ought he use such means to discredit our only major public figure who doesn't have to pray on TV to prove he's honest? Let's quote:

"Lately other associates of Nader have maintained to reporters that Ralph is dating. They do not say whom. After her husband was killed Ethel Kennedy occasionally had Ralph in for dinner. Morrison McCormick, a resident of Georgetown, says that Ralph sometimes works late in what neighbors on Thirty-fourth Street, NW, refer to as 'the mystery house' — a dwelling occupied by a young woman who keeps her blinds drawn, has nothing to do with neighbors and who (McCormick assumed) is in Nader's hire. Some mornings she and Ralph can be seen quietly leaving the house the back way and getting into a car — a car she, not Ralph, always drives — parked on Volta Place."

This small shameful moment in journalism is prefaced by the remark that: "One of the least defensible intrusions upon Nader's privacy has been the interest that writers... have taken in his sex life..." First you deplore it and then you do it.

What can one say except, "Shades of Lizzie Ray!" Boudoir journalism is the Washington fashion even under the colophon of The New Republic, a publication that may not have always been right, but was, at one time, always cerebral.

Imagine attacking Nader by writing: "... he rode in Koppind's convertible and didn't even buckle his seat belt." Sanford isn't the only eastern lib journalist who lives to catch people in inconsistencies. The penchant is as nearly universal as it is imbecilic.

At this very moment you can wager that an unknown but large number of salivating newsmen are examining every recorded word of Jimmy Peanut to catch him in inconsistent statements. They'll succeed because the consistency contemporary news carnivores seek is to be found only in the madhouse. So he didn't buckle his seat belt, eh? There are private detectives working for large news-gathering organizations in Washington who've caught dentists drinking Coca-Cola and nutritionists eating Big Macs.

Some inconsistencies on the part of public figures, be they in language or act, are important. It takes thought and judgment to distinguish them from the inconsequential. To explain the important inconsistencies and contradictions demands expository writing, and that's a higher order of skill than marking down when people may have violated their Boy Scout oath.

Nader is open to attack on many substantive issues, but you can't do that if you don't understand the issues and are unable to write about them with clarity. Nader, for example, did not endorse no-fault auto insurance. Never mind that a lot of us who did now wish we hadn't. If Sanford thought Nader was wrong, he should have addressed himself to the merits of the case. He didn't. Instead naturally, he first says Nader wouldn't ever be influenced by a gift of money, and then leaves us with the gross little hint that maybe Nader was swayed by a donation from the Trial Lawyers Association.

Ralph has his faults as a person, and since he's such a powerful one it's legitimate to write about them. After all, this is a man considered to be more powerful than most congressmen or cabinet officers, a man who is often mentioned as a possible president. To know how he treats his staff, to learn that he's a bit of a Lyndon Johnson who'll call 'em at midnight and work 'em half to death is more than mere prying. What's not legitimate is imputing immorality to those who have not been given the grace to agree with us. That's what Sanford has done to Nader, and what a lot of journalists do to a lot of public figures.

In this case it's a blessing from Nader's point of view. If he's guilty of everything this writer of persnickety hate accuses him of — hypochondria, owning a few shares of Ford Motor Company stock — he's better than his reputation. The book's a blessing for The New Republic also. They may have found a new market for themselves in adult book stores.

It Was One Heck of A Honeymoon

The sentimentalist asks for one more honeymoon. One more, and then one more. He knew that the erosion of time makes a husband look more like the father of his wife, but Milton A. Goldstandt enjoyed it. He was 30.

Whatever mark Goldstandt aspired to make is already chiseled in stone. He is an affluent financial consultant in Hallandale, Florida, a bald, molasses-skinned smiley who asks nothing more of life than health.

He flew his "Dorrie," an attractive gray-haired woman, to Las Vegas. Milt doesn't gamble. Dorrie does. She will bet on blackjack, a horse or bluff a hand of poker.

The remarkable feature of the honeymoon is that each indulges the other. Quietly, he stuffed her purse full of money. Silently, she helped him on with his elastic stockings, which control his phlebitis. She packed the infrared lamp which subdues chronic sinusitis.

He's a kisser. Milt embraced Dorrie at Las Vegas airport and palmed a few quarters. The machine clunked twice and dumped a hat full of coins in a tray.

Goldstandt wouldn't put his girl in a taxi. He hired a big black limousine. "This," he assured her, "is going to be one heck of a honeymoon. Besides, tomorrow is my 30th birthday."

They lived it up at The Dunes. He took a nap. She won $35 at blackjack. In the evening, they sat on a small porch, squinting at the chocolate mountains which form the dessert dish for Las Vegas.

The chief of service, Bob Barrossa, heard about the occasion. He snatched the news to Jean Magowan, public relations expert at The Dunes. She called Jim Brann at the Union Plaza, and others.

Within a few hours, the Goldstandts were overwhelmed with invitations. The city with the heart of sand opened its doors to the hand-holders.

Dining became an endurance contest. They saw the Casino de Paris show through a big leafy salad and a New York steak. At the Hilton, they applauded Liberace as a piano wire flew him back and forth across the stage, chirping, "Mary Poppins, eat your heart out."

Golf is Goldstandt's hobby. He had to rest up for nine holes each morning at The Dunes. The starter hooked him up with an attractive 21-year-old named Betsy McWilley. Milton, attired in gold slacks and shirt, put on his courtly manner.

The girl hits 260 yards from the men's tees. Gamblers back her for bets of $10,000 against scratch players. Milt hit the ball 210 down the fairway and dropped his condescending fatherly attitude.

He called her "Miss McWilley." She called him "Milt" and was on the green in two on a 525-yard per five. After nine humiliating holes, he invited her to lunch with his wife and told her of the times he played the game with Walter Hagen.

She grinned and said, "Who's that?" He shook hands and bade her adieu and explored Las Vegas from a taxi. At the new Union Plaza Hotel, Goldstandt was surprised to find that an arthritic Jewish woman played the slot machines and had just won an airplane standing in the lobby.

He walked into Stony's hockshop and said, "How's business?" Stony shrugged. "How should it be?" The hockshop is 45 years old. Long ago, the losers were cowboys. They hocked the saddles off their horses.

Today it's guitars, cameras, gems and watches. Japanese gamblers are mathematicians. Chinese gamblers giggle when they go broke. Latins implore Our Lady of Guadalupe to please watch the dice.

In the middle of the night, Goldstandt made a pilgrimage to the bathroom and stuffed more money in Dorrie's purse. She began to think she was winning. They ate breakfast one-handed, hanging on to each other with the other.

The week flew on noisy wings. "Never had a honeymoon as good as this one," he said. Dorrie packed. "You had a pretty good birthday too," she said. He nodded. "Yes, indeed. Want to do it again in three months?"

Dorrie chuckled. She would think about it. They flew home. The magic, like a twilight sun, began to fade into pink and yellow ribbons.

At the apartment, Goldstandt put an arm around an elderly lady and kissed her. She is his mother-in-law. "There are times," he whispered apologetically, "when married people should be alone."

Have Demos Found New Roosevelt?

NEW YORK — Beneath the surface harmony, as the Democrats assemble here to nominate Jimmy Carter, run conflicting currents of apprehension and hope.

The apprehension arises from both the nature of the victory and the character of the man who won it. Jimmy Carter overwhelmed the Democratic party by bypassing, even opposing, its traditional bastions. His campaign effort was directed by an old Annapolis classmate here, a born-again church brother there and a local maverick or an enthusiastic kid over yonder.

It was an effort that began in 1972 in the middle of his term as governor of Georgia. He gathered his tight little circle of advisers around him to discuss their next conquest. With an audacity that was breathtaking, they set their sights upon the White House.

They pursued the presidency with a doggedness that sent Carter to Florida 62 times before he entered the Democratic primary there. The strategy was to score a series of rapid, early victories and let the momentum carry them on to the nomination. Carter confidantes tell us that they concentrated their total effort on the first primaries, that they had no plans beyond the Pennsylvania primary.

Carter conquered by indirection. After four years of ingratiating himself with the public, he remains a frustratingly elusive suitor to Democratic professionals and ideologists alike who require the familiar pledges of the flesh and spirit — which he resists giving in full measure.

When Carter waxes effusive, it is about the Holy Spirit rather than such traditional objects of Democratic veneration as economic planning, the evisceration of oil companies and the redistribution of income.

He has embraced his party's predilections just enough to keep his primary opponents from putting him in a box. The feeling persists that his heart isn't in it and that a winnowing of Democratic shibboleths is ahead. The Carter personality is also a cause of concern.

He is aloof and inaccessible even to those who are given access. He has also acquired a palace guard before he has the palace. Even more disturbing to some, those who have his ear speak with accents not of ivy but of magnolia.

There is a disengagement, too, about a Carter mean streak beneath the surface amiability, a hardness beneath the engaging sincerity, a political purpose behind the Billy Graham sermonettes. One Democratic professional, who has come to know Carter, told us: "He's tough as a warehouse rat."

But there was a note of admiration in the old pro's voice. For despite the ambiguities and the remoteness, Carter also offers the Democrats a new hope. They see in him an unexpected leader possessing political skills unseen since the great architect of Democratic supremacy, Franklin D. Roosevelt, burst into American politics.

Instead of mean and elusive, they see Carter as tough and prudent. They see a tactician who outplanned, outmaneuvered, outlegged and outlasted successive waves of opponents, a strategist who won his victories in a way that made possible the unifying of the party and the creation of an electoral coalition of historic significance.

These hopefuls feel that Carter, by his aloofness from the old Democratic powers and panaceas, has given the party a needed facelift in the nick of time. Had the Democrats been caught in a traditional conservative vs. liberal contest, it is suggested, they figured to take a shellacking.

But the advent of Carter has blurred the party's vulnerability without surrendering its basic goals, has held together the old constituencies while ushering in new ones. Reconciled southerners and evangelical Christians — groups which only yesterday were rather wary of the party of Hubert Humphrey and George McGovern — are attracted to Carter.

To many, Carter's campaign as a Southerner who embraced the memory of Martin Luther King Jr., and Carter's crushing but gentle defeat of George Wallace in the South, constituted a political masterplay. They believe it has, without sacrifice of party principles, saved the South for the Democratic party.

There is another aspiration, half-defined, floating around Madison Square Garden. The nomination victory, won essentially without obligation to the old power centers and special interest groups, opens up a chance for Carter to become a truly national leader, a no-sayer to the predators and parasites, a spokesman for the unorganized and reticent.

There is a dawning hope among the convening Democrats that Jimmy Carter, by the direct link to the people he forged in 20 primaries, by his reaffirmation of submerged but potent values, by defeating without estranging his opponents, by burying the old rancors and recreating his party as a truly national instrument, is laying the basis for the restoration of the moral authority of the American government.

Those who know Carter say he is fully aware of his opportunity to revive the flagging faith in the American system, to end the national deadlock and to rescue the people from the mire of cynicism.

If he should be elected, he has told associates, he would go into the White Mouse as a man of simplicity, a man who believes in God and isn't afraid to say so, yellow ribbons.

He would try to bring trust and integrity back to the White House, he has said.

Program Aimed at Bringing Qualified Physicians into Area

By CHAZY DOWALIBY
Freeman Staff

KINGSTON—An innovative program aimed at bringing family doctors into the Kingston area has been given the go-ahead by the Kingston Hospital Board of Trustees. The Hospital has announced the establishment of a Family Practice Residency Program which will bring qualified medical school graduates into the county for three year residency training to become what used to be called "general practitioners."

The program, slated to begin July 1, 1978, will make Kingston Hospital the first such teaching facility in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

For local residents the new concept will mean higher quality, more available medical care from a doctor familiar with each patient, his family and their needs.

One of the prime movers in the development of the plan is Dr. E.H. Reppert, director of educational services at the hospital, who is quick to point out the dramatic need for family practice M.D.s in this region.

"Kingston and Benedictine Hospitals have between 12 and 14 attending physicians in this service. Their average age is 58 years. We haven't had a new practitioner in the area in 10 years and 30 to 40 per cent of the population doesn't have a family physician and probably doesn't know how to find one."

To emphasize his already strong statement Dr. Reppert notes that two local family doctors have already retired in the two and a half years it took to develop the residency program.

Working with a local committee which included Dr. Walter Levy, head of the family practice unit at Kingston, Dr. Reppert has laid the groundwork for this new approach to residency training.

"We will differ from the usual program by using the vertical rather than the horizontal approach to training," says Dr. Reppert.

What this means is that residents will see their patients in a setting resembling a family practitioners office, instead of a hospital room.

In fact, patients will be assigned individual doctors who will treat all of their needs on a continuing basis, so that one family will have its "own doctor" familiar with the background and medical history of each family member.

"Residents in the three year program will spend about 75 per cent of their first year in the hospital. By their third year we hope they'll be spending 75 to 80 per cent of their time in the family practice module."

The "module," as Dr. Reppert refers to it, will be a separate facility set up much like any other "doctors building". The site of the module is still flexible and may either be a part of the new Kingston Hospital complex, or in an existing hospital building not now operative.

Funds to pay for the new program will come in part from the operation of the family practice itself.

Patients will be charged for office visits and, in the necessity of hospitalization, part of that money will also revert back to the program.

Dr. Reppert also hopes to raise additional funds through state and federal grant applications and from the usual hospital fund drives.

Although the program will initiate at Kingston Hospital Dr. Reppert has been assured the interest and support of Benedictine Hospital and hopes that the residency concept will spread to other medical facilities in the Mid-Hudson Valley. Ultimate goal of such development would be the set-up of a clinical campus medical school where third and fourth year students would train in various specialties at facilities in Ulster, Dutchess and Orange counties.

A director for the Kingston program has been chosen but Dr. Reppert declined to disclose the name at this time, stating only that the man is a local practitioner who will begin his duties sometime in October of this year.

As the program stands, four residents will begin training in 1978, with four more added each year until a total of 12 doctors are in residence at any one time.

It is generally accepted that 50 to 60 per cent of doctors settle in the areas in which they took their residency," explains Dr. Reppert. "By opening up the Kingston Family Practice Residency program we hope to draw more qualified family physicians into our area, and improve the quality of available medical care at the same time."

While the program will be affiliated with New York Medical College, application from graduates across the country will be accepted.

Even though much of the administrative work on the program has already been planned, one crucial factor still hangs in the balance, according to Dr. Reppert.

"We can't succeed without support and acceptance from the community. Residents in training is a new concept for this area although it has been widely used elsewhere for years, and we will need a lot of support from the community in accepting this type of care."

What the doctor hopes will happen is that patients who become accustomed to their resident doctor over several years will have the option of continuing to see that same physician, after he has set up private practice in the community.

"We will encourage our doctors to go to the outlying regions where we're in dire need of family practitioners," says Dr. Reppert, who also adds his hope that the program will serve its purpose by bringing better medicine to local residents through a joint community, hospital effort.

Wallace Phillips Enjoys 100th Birthday Celebration

RHINEBECK—Wallace Phillips, a native and lifelong resident of Dutchess County, celebrated his 100th birthday, Saturday, June 26, with a special party in his honor at the Skilled Nursing Facility, Northern Dutchess Hospital. Known as Wally, he is the first resident of SNF to attain the centennial mark. He has been a resident at the facility since its opening in 1972.

Born in Red Hook where his family farmed, Wallace Phillips was one of four children. He attended local schools and graduated from the eighth grade. After farming for several years, he continued his education at Cornell where he completed an agricultural and horticultural course.

He worked for 20 years on what was then known as the Potts Farm in Pitcher Lane, Red Hook. He observed that farming was more than just planting and remembered acting as his own veterinarian on many occasions.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillips were married for 66 years. His late wife was Mary Eliza Ingalls, a resident of Elizaville before their marriage. In their later years they resided with their daughter, Myrtle Phillips Von Helmsolt of Poughkeepsie. Prior to residing at the Skilled Nursing Facility, he lived for many years in Rhinecliff with his daughter, Pauline Phillips, a retired R.N. He also is the father of a son, Kenneth Phillips of Nevada; and has several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

No longer ambulatory, he does enjoy exceptionally good health. His only explanation for his longevity, "I started taking care of myself and have worked since I was 15!"

Immunization Clinics Will Be Conducted

KINGSTON—Clinics for immunization against polio, whooping cough, diphtheria, tetanus, measles and German measles and mumps will be conducted by the Ulster County Health Department, Thursday, July 15, at the Ellenville Health Center, 102 Canal St.,

Ellenville, under the direction of Mrs. Millie VanDemark; and Friday, July 16, at the Tumor Clinic Building, 400 Broadway, Kingston, 10 to 11 a.m., with Mrs. Judy Murray. Services are available for age three months to 21 years.

Opera Set for Tuesday

NEW PALTZ—Sylvia Anderson of Poughkeepsie will be singing the title role in the revival of the first American Indian opera, "Winona," in the showcase production at the McKenna Theater, SUNY at New Paltz, Tuesday, July 13, 8:30 p.m. A Vassar scholarship winner and graduate of the Peabody Institute Conservatory, she has previously sung the lead of Mimi in "La Boheme" with the Mid-Hudson Opera Theater.

This showcase production of "Winona," based on Indian legend, by composer Alberto Bimboni and librettist Perry Williams, is being produced by the Sullivan County Council for the Arts to stimulate an interest in an exciting American work.

Singing with Miss Anderson will be Carl Fredericson, nationally known composer; Tony Angelo, former news-caster; and Rolf Gorlan of the Metropolitan Opera Studio.

HUGO FREER House, built in 1694, is one of the fine examples of early stone houses on the oldest street in America, Huguenot Street, New Paltz. It will be open on Heritage Day, Aug. 7.

Visit the Oldest Street In America on Heritage Day

NEW PALTZ—New Paltz boasts one of the nation's proudest National Historic Landmarks: Huguenot Street, the oldest street in America, dating back to 1678. Lovely stone houses, built by the founders of New Paltz, line this street and are open daily to the public.

Those who want an extra treat this Bicentennial year are invited to return to 1776 and visit Huguenot Street on Heritage Day, formerly Stone House Day, Aug. 7.

As visitors walk down the quaint boulevard, smiling ladies in authentic costumes will usher them through the stone houses, pointing out such unique architectural features as medieval jambs, fireplaces, and mow doors, used for placing provisions in the attic from the outside.

Arts and crafts of the period will be displayed and demonstrated at various locations on the street. A Bicentennial spinner will spin flax into lines. Mrs. Thurlow Weed will conduct a quilting bee. Blacksmithing, candlemaking, chair caning and silversmithing are among the other activities to be shown.

This year, as a unique treat, the descendants of each of the Huguenot families will sponsor a special display inside each of the stone houses. There will be an early stone ware collection at the Bevier-Elting house. There will be an aroma of homemade bread and butter as well as other homemade delights.

The New York Second Regiment will be encamped at the

Jump Suits...the Brand X Of the Fashion Industry

If you ever hear that I jumped into a jump suit, don't believe it. I was pushed.

This has to be the Brand X of the fashion industry.

There are only six women in this country who look well in jump suits. Five of them are terminal and the other was sired by a Xerox machine.

Out of sheer curiosity, I was rummaging through a rack of them when a saleswoman approached and asked, "Which size are you? 12? 14? 16?"

"Yes," I said.

Which? she pursued.

"All three. My bust is a 12, my waist a 14, and my hips 16."

"Try the 14," she said dryly.

"The fitting room is behind better dresses."

The fitting room was something I had never seen before. It was a community deal . . .

a large room with 16 mirrors on the wall, a rack in the center to hang discarded and a woman by the door to make sure you didn't wear out any more than you wore in.

A fitting room to me has always been like a confessional — where my body and my contrition take up the entire room. There is no room for anyone else. I looked around. All eyes seemed to be focused on one woman. She weighed about six pounds and was trying on a jump suit . . . one of the six women mentioned above. It slid on easily, up over her hips and onto her arms. I winced as she distributed the cloth left over around her waist.

I looked at the crowd who could not take their eyes off her. I had seen that look of resentment and pain on only one other occasion. It was a Charlton Heston movie just before the door slid back between the Christians and the lions.

Inching closer, I whispered, "Lady, you better get out of here before they tear you to shreds."

It was my turn. For 15 minutes, I tugged and inched my way into the jump suit and looked into the mirror. The chest was disguised as a back, the stomach strained at the buttons, the legs were numb without circulation and the hems swirled around the floor.

"How do you . . ."

"You get a carton of water pills with every suit," offered the salesperson.

I didn't buy the jump suit, but what the heck. For awhile seven women forgot about the Panama Canal.

Talk of the Town

Democratic Men Will Meet

KINGSTON—John Hogan, Ulster County Commissioner of Elections, will be the guest speaker at the July meeting of the Kingston Democratic Men's Club tonight at 8 at Kozy Tavern, 224 Foxhall Ave. Following the short business meeting the public is invited to hear Commissioner Hogan. This will be an opportunity to learn the recent changes to the registration and election process.

Christian Women Plan Luncheon

SAUGERTIES—Saugerties-Woodstock Christian Women's Club invites area ladies to attend the monthly luncheon meeting Monday, July 19, 11.30 a.m. at the Flamingo Restaurant, 9W, Saugerties. Reservations may be made by this Wednesday, July 14, with Mrs. Maurice Glover, Saugerties; Mrs. Laurence Brooks, Athens or Mrs. Charles Baechtle of Kingston.

The theme of the meeting will be "Let Freedom Ring." Quilts in a variety of designs will be the special feature presented by Mrs. Marie Genthner. The Saugerties Township Quilt will be on display. Lewis Gaylord will be soloist; Richard Smith, a Saugerties educator, will be the guest speaker for the topic, "A Revolutionary Way of Life."

Saugerties Republicans Will Meet

SAUGERTIES—Town of Saugerties Republican Club will meet at the home of Legislator and Mrs. C. Freeman Lasher, Thursday, July 15, at 6 p.m. This will be a covered dish supper meeting. Thomas Becker, chairman of the scholarship committee, has invited this year's recipient, Mark Whitaker, and his family. Reports will be given by County Legislators C. Freeman Lasher, Charles Scala, Clifford Snyder and Alice Tapp. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Herbert Hommel or Mrs. Eugene Davis.

Chapter Night Planned

KINGSTON—Women of the Moose Chapter 697 will hold a College of Regents Chapter Night Thursday, July 15. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. with special ceremonies to follow. Martha Peterson will receive the Red Tassel; Jane Throneburg, the Red Stole; and Jean Borucinski will be the speaker. College of Regents Committee includes Helen Lambiase, Jane Throneburg, Genevieve DeGraff, Kay Eaton, Ann Peters, Jean Borucinski, Eileen Nickerson and Elsie Nessel.

Luncheon Scheduled

KINGSTON—Munchin' Mates of the Greater Kingston Welcome Wagon Club will hold the second of five summer luncheon meetings Thursday, July 15, at the Quilted Giraffe, New Paltz. Newcomers to the area are invited to join. For information and reservations contact Mrs. Charles Briwa, Kingston.

Seniors Make Plans

WOODSTOCK—The next regular meeting of the Woodstock Senior Citizens Club will be Thursday, July 15, at noon at the Andy Lee Recreation Field. There will be no regular meetings in August. Events scheduled will be the Senior Citizens Alliance Picnic at Ulster Landing Park, July 22, and the Ulster County Fair at New Paltz, Aug. 12. Buses for both events will leave the Village Green at 10:30 a.m. stopping at Bradley Meadows Shopping Center and West Hurley. The bus will return at 2 p.m. Reservations for both bus trips may be made with James McVitty.

UCCC Student Earns Scholarship

STONE RIDGE—Jo Ann M. Cicale of Saugerties, a student at Ulster County Community College, has received a scholarship awarded by the Muroff-Kotler fund. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Amico-Galante, of Tuxedo Park, Mrs. Cicale will use the scholarship to continue her education and earn a four-year degree at the SUNY at New Paltz.

The Muroff-Kotler Fund is a special award given each year to a member of the graduating class, who elects to pursue a program leading to a degree in Liberal Arts and is deemed worthy on the basis of past accomplishments and future promise.

Among the special awards which have been established to recognize achievement, the Muroff-Kotler Fund was the first at Ulster County Community College. This award is derived from income of a fund presented to the college in 1964 by Mr. and Mrs. David Kotler of Kingston and Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Muroff, Scarsdale; in memory of Isadore Muroff and Morris Kotler.

Mrs. Muroff is professor emeritus of visual arts at UCCC.

Liberated Woman Doesn't Wait For the Man to Make First Move

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to BORED ON MY HONEY. MOON did nothing but perpetuate the male-performance-oriented approach to sex. You said people might think there is something wrong with the husband if his wife spent all her time writing thank-you notes on their honeymoon. Why put all the pressure on the male in sexual relations, while the woman sits back and waits for his move?

I get the same thing from the girls I take out. They all call themselves "liberated," but do you think they'd ever initiate anything? No! I've got to kiss them first and make all the first moves. Then they're supposed to say, "No," when I go too far.

Who made up the rules for this game anyway?—SINGLE MALE

DEAR SINGLE: You're either playing with an old set of rules or some very old players. The truly liberated woman doesn't wait for the man to make the first move or say, "No,"—if he's appealing.

The honeymoon scene is another matter. If the bride spends most of her time writing thank-you notes, it's assumed she has no choice.

DEAR ABBY: A reader submitted "Lectori Salutem" as a practical non-sexist salutation for a business letter, explaining that it meant, "Hail to the reader!"

You replied "Hail no! Most Americans have enough trouble with English!"

Abby, if in your view Americans are that incompetent, why not open all correspondence with, "Hi, Dummies!"?

—CORRY'S DAUGHTER.

DEAR DAUGHTER: I don't consider myself a "dummy," but since I've never studied Latin, "Lectori Salutem" would be Greek to me.

DEAR ABBY: I was a widow and he was a widower. We were both lonely and decided that marriage would be a better way of living for both of us.

I have my own income and Herbert has his, but we do share living expenses, so there's no problem there.

On my birthday Herbert bought me a bicycle. I was thrilled with it because it was the first gift he ever gave me.

I ride the bicycle occasionally, but apparently I don't ride it enough to suit Herbert, because he keeps threatening to sell it if I don't ride it more. Please comment on this.

Abby, I am 67 and Herbert is 77.—HURT IN FLORIDA.

DEAR HURT: Perhaps it's Herbert's way of trying to get you to exercise more—for your own good. However, regardless of his motivations, when he gave you the bicycle it became your property, and he has no right to sell anything that is yours.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WANTING A BABY. MONEY NO OBJECT": What you are suggesting is clearly illegal. I recommend that you deal only with an authorized adoption agency.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teenagers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope.

"RIP VAN WINKLE" a two-act play will be presented by the Jefferson Theatre Company at Sunnyside, the 19th Century Romantic estate of American Author Washington Irving, July 21 through Aug. 29, Wednesday through Saturday, 8 p.m., matinees at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday. Left, Reathel Bean as "Rip" stares incredulously at his family, Suzanne Osborne, middle, as "his wife; and Nita Novy as his daughter. Ticket prices include candlelight tours of the home.

Taiwan representatives meet with press.

Taiwanese People Are Angered, Not Shocked

TAIPEI (UPI) — People in Taiwan were angered but not shocked at the decision of the International Olympic Committee (IOC) to give in to Candian demands and exclude the Republic of China (ROC) from the Olympic games. Sports leaders and officials, however, refrained from making comments, saying they were still waiting for confirmation from ROC team delegates in Montreal. "There is no justice and principles any more in the world, but only power politics," said Ma Pei-Chin, a 50-year-old middle school sports teacher. "If the International Olympic Committee could hold on to their stand, the Canadian government would have to back down; because they have already put in so much money preparing for the games."

Many praised the ROC Olympic Committee's refusal to seek compromise by changing its name to Taiwan and march behind a flag bearing the Olympic rings as requested by Canada.

"It is a pity we are unable to attend the games," said Tai Lung-Shen a university professor. "But it would be far more worse if we lose our national dignity by dropping our national name and flag." Some news editorials seem to anticipate that the IOC would give in to political pressure.

"The chances of ROC participation are dwindling, opening of the games is only a week away," said an editorial of the China News last Saturday.

"The Montreal Olympic Games without the Republic of China would be the beginning of the end for nonpolitical athletic competition the world over."

"If the free countries are so gold medal-hungry they cannot see this, the Olympics might as well pass into oblivion. The Games will not be worth preserving."

Political observers here said Taiwan's expulsion from the Montreal Games is another indication that Communist China is intensifying its effort to isolate Taiwan from the world community.

"Communist China is tightening its ring to smother Taiwan," said one observer. "What they intend to do is to make Taiwan a non-state. I guess it is all too naive to expect others to uphold the principles for you. You can only depend on yourself and fight for yourself."

Taiwan Vows to Fight Olympic Ban

MONTREAL (UPI) — The Republic of China team retained its name, its flag and national anthem and got booted out of the Olympic Games. But it promised to fight back.

Five days of non-stop talk ended Sunday when Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, announced the nine-man Executive Board will recommend the exclusion of the Republic of China team when the Games open July 17.

"This is an extremely unfortunate day in Olympic history," said Killanin after the Executive Board bowed to political pressure from the Canadian External Affairs Department.

A Taiwanese spokesman said the team is awaiting orders from Taipei, "but we expect to be told to challenge the Canadian government's decision to bar us entry into the country."

"We cannot get in by air because no U.S. airline will permit us to buy tickets, but we can always hire automobiles."

"We shall not return home without a fight. We shall fight to the bitter end."

The Executive Board's decision has to be ratified at the 78th Congress session of the IOC, which begins its three-day meeting Tuesday. Never in the history of the Olympics, which were revived at Athens in 1896, has the membership voted down a recommendation from the Board.

There are 76 voting members in the IOC.

New members are elected by the membership and retain their seats for life. The current list includes four princes, a sultan, a grand duke, a raja and a liberal assortment of European dukes, counts and lords.

Philip O. Krumm, the U.S. Olympic Committee president and one of three men representing the 136 National Olympic Committee's on the IOC's Tripartite Commission, however, holds out a glimmer of hope.

"There still is the possibility the Republic of China could compete 'under protest' or as 'Taiwan' or as 'independents under the Olympic banner.'"

Krumm, while admitting he faced an almost hopeless task in his bid to mediate the dispute, said he would try to get the Taiwanese to reverse their stand.

Discussing the decision, a Taiwanese spokesman said, "We were taken by complete surprise. After the verbal support we had received from international sports leaders, we never believed the Executive would go against us."

"We were so sure of victory, we did not make any contingency plans."

Lawrence S. Ting, the delegation leader, said, "Lord Killanin completely gave in to terms laid down by the Canadian government. This is a loss of Olympic ideals."

The Canadian government, which has diplomatic relations with the People's Republic of China, was only prepared to permit entry of the Taipei delegation if the team called itself Taiwan and did not insist on flying its national flag or playing its national anthem.

The IOC and the Canadian government, the first to challenge the IOC's authority, worked out a compromise on Saturday whereby the Taiwanese team

The Soviets signed a letter saying they would admit any team in good standing to the country, as prescribed by IOC rules, regardless of whether diplomatic relations existed between the countries.

The Canadian government signed a similar letter in 1970.

Killanin warned that if a similar situation were to arise again, he would recommend cancellation of the Games. "Had I known about Canada's attitude 12 months ago, I would have immediately recommended withdrawal of the Games."

An External Affairs spokesman said in Ottawa, "Canada has not violated any commitment to the IOC."

The spokesman said, "There is nothing preventing the Taiwanese team from entering the country and participating in the Games if it accepts the 'Olympic symbols' only rule."

A Taiwanese spokesman said, "There is no chance of us turning the other cheek."

More political debate awaits the Congress, although it will be in-house this time.

Tanzania and Mauritius withdrew from the Games to protest New Zealand's participation because its national Rugby Union football team is touring South Africa.

An IOC spokesman said, "there is no chance of New Zealand being expelled from the Games. After all, rugby is not an Olympic sport."

But after the events of Sunday, anything is possible.

Figuerola Has an Ethnic Goal

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ed Figuerola, off to the best start of his career, has a season goal which revolves around ethnic pride.

"I'd like to win 20 games because it would make me the first Puerto Rican 20-game winner," the 27-year-old Yankee right-hander said Sunday after hurling a three-hit, 5-0 shutout over the Chicago White Sox before a Jacket Day crowd of 53,160.

Figuerola's victory leaves him halfway toward his goal, with a 10-6 record, including three shutouts. Last year he won 16 and lost 13 with the California Angels, a second-division club. He and All-Star outfielder Mickey Rivers were acquired during the off-season for Bobby Bonds.

Is he surprised by the Yankees' success? "No, I could tell in spring training that we had pitching and good hitting, so the big lead (9½ games) doesn't surprise me," he said.

Figuerola was supported by Oscar Gamble's towering two-run homer. The second-inning blast, his eighth, was one of the longest home runs ever hit in Yankee Stadium, landing in the last few rows of the right field bleachers. No one has ever hit a fair ball out of Yankee Stadium. Rivers added a two-run double.

Gamble, who stood watching at the plate for 30 seconds after belting his tape-measure job, said: "Every now and then I get a hold of one."

It was a scene right out of that glorious, beer-soaked pennant year of 1957. Hank Aaron stood there grandly, basking in the cheers of some 28,000 Milwaukee fans after another dramatic game-winning home run.

Even if the uniform, the team and the situation were different, the delirious Milwaukee fans sensed the significance of Aaron's one-out, 10th-inning homer which gave the hometown Brewers a 5-4 victory over the Texas Rangers and a sweep of Sunday's doubleheader. So, too, did baseball's all-time home run king.

"The home run I hit in 1957 against the St. Louis Cardinals, which won the pennant was my biggest thrill here," said Aaron. "But I'd have to say this one ranks second."

Aaron's homer, his ninth of the season and 754th lifetime, came after the Brewers won the first game, 6-3, behind the four-hit pitching of Jim Slaton and then rallied to tie the nightcap in the ninth inning on run-scoring singles by Bernie Carbo and Robin Yount.

"I heard on the radio the fans were still out there cheering for me," said Aaron, who will be missing his first All Star Game in 22 years. "You can't imagine what a great feeling that was. They've always been great to me here. But I've got a homer or two left even though for seven years some people have been saying I'm through. Still, this is my last year."

Brewers manager Alex Grammas, whose club has now won seven of eight games going into the All Star break after a depressing April, May and June, was even more excited than Aaron. "When the fans called him back," said Grammas, "I had to go out there with him. You don't get to see too many moments like that and, when you do, you've got to take advantage of it."

The Brewers, still last in the AL East with a 34-44 won-lost mark, also came from behind to win the opener with a five-run rally in the seventh inning, which gave Slaton to his 10th win of the year.

"You've got to be happy when you sweep a five-game series from a second place ballclub," said the elated Grammas.

Elsewhere in the American League Boston put away Minnesota, 6-4; Detroit edged Kansas City, 6-5; Oakland drubbed Cleveland, 9-3, and Baltimore stopped California, 31.

Red Sox 6, Twins 4

Fred Lynn belted a solo homer and Denny Doyle knocked in a pair of runs with a third inning single as the Red Sox climbed back to .500. Ferguson Jenkins, 8-8, went 8 1/3 innings for the victory and was replaced by Jim Willoughby when Craig Kuskick hit a two-run single for Minnesota in the ninth.

Tigers 6, Royals 5

Rusty Staub grounded a twoout single up the middle to score John Wockenfuss from third base in the 12th inning enabling Detroit to slow Kansas City's runaway effort over second place Texas in the AL West. With the score tied 5-5, Wockenfuss began the 12th against loser Steve Mingori with a walk and advanced on a sacrifice and an infield groundout.

A's 9, Indians 3

Major league stolen base king Billy North swiped second base in the first inning to set up one run and drove in two others as the A's completed a three-game sweep of the Indians. North, who scored three times, singled home two runs in the second with two out. Paul Mitchell, 5-5, was the winner with 3 2/3 innings of shutout relief from Paul Lindblad.

Orioles 3, Angels 1

Reggie Jackson drilled a two-run first inning homer and Terry Crowley singled home Ken Singleton with an insurance run in the eighth, enabling the Orioles to best Angel strikeout ace Nolan Ryan, 7-10, fanned 12 and went the distance, spacing nine hits. Ex-Yankee Dave Pagan, 2-3, went 7 2/3 innings to get the win for Baltimore.

Montanez Finds A Way As Braves Edge Mets

ATLANTA (UPI) — Atlanta Braves Manager Dave Bristol says if there's a way to win a game, Willie Montanez will find it.

"Willie will find a way. We've found that out," Bristol said Sunday after the Braves defeated the New York Mets 9-8 with the help of a three-run double from Montanez in the eighth inning.

Montanez, acquired by the Braves earlier this season in a trade with the San Francisco Giants, ended the game with six runs batted in, three of them on the eighth-inning double, and one each on a pair of singles.

He has been on a hitting tear since he came to Atlanta, batting safely in 25-of-28 games. Going into Sunday's game, he was batting .318 for the season.

"I guess I'm right at the top of my career right now," Montanez said. "There were two outs and I was just trying to get a hit. I had a good pitch and I hit it. I'm swinging the bat good right now. I'm hitting it where I want to hit it. I usually make them throw a strike and after that I go to work."

The Mets gave starter Jon Matlack a 4-1 lead after six innings on a two-run homer by Ron Hodges in the second and a two-run single by Matlack in the sixth. But the Braves drove Matlack from the game with a five-run seventh inning, highlighted by two-run singles by Tom Paciorek and Montanez.

After the Mets scored four runs off reliever Mike Marshall in the eighth to take an 8-6 lead, the Braves came back in their half of the inning with three runs on a pinch-double by Dave May, a walk, an error and Montanez' double. Bruce Dal Canton, 3-1, was the winner for Atlanta.

"We won 40 games going into the All-Star break and I hope our next 40 games aren't this hard," Bristol said. "But that Willie will find a way."

While the Philadelphia Phillies and Cincinnati Reds look past Tuesday night's All-Star game to the glitter and glory of the playoffs, the San Francisco Giants and the Houston Astros try to turn their springs of despair into the summer of hope.

The future for those two National League also rans looked brighter Sunday when a pair of young right-handers came up with outstanding pitching performances as both the Giants and the Astros scored shutout victories.

Ed Halicki, a 6-foot-7 sidearming fastballer who appeared to be on the threshold of greatness when he pitched a nohitter against the New York Mets last season, hurled a twohitter in San Francisco's 2-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

It completed a renaissance of sorts for Halicki, counted on by manager Bill Rigney to be one of the mainstays of a heralded pitching staff that was supposed to help the Giants challenge Cincinnati for supremacy in the West.

Instead, Halicki lost seven of his first eight decisions and Rigney threatened to send him to the minors unless things changed quickly.

"Earlier in the season I didn't have good stuff," Halicki said after raising his record to 8-11. "Coach Frank Funk helped me shorten my stride, worked on my slider and I built up my confidence. I don't worry what happened the last time out."

Phils 3, Padres 0

Greg Luzinski broke up a scoreless pitching duel with a three-run double in the sixth inning to help Jim Kaat gain his ninth victory and Philadelphia maintain its 10-game lead over Pittsburgh in the NL East. Luzinski's blow followed an infield single by Dave Cash and bunt singles by Larry Bowa and Mike Schmidt. Kaat allowed nine hits in pitching his 29th career shutout.

Pirates 8, Reds 5

Pedro Borbon hit Tommy Helms on the left elbow with the bases loaded to force home the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning and pinch-hitter Rennie Stennett followed with a two-run double to pace Pittsburgh. Despite the loss, the Reds take a six-game lead into the All-Star break. Don Gullett made his first start for Cincinnati since June 20 and pitched six innings.

Dodgers 9, Cards 6

Reggie Smith highlighted a seven-run, seventh innin g with a three-run homer, his third in as many games against his former teammates, as Los Angeles wiped out a five-run deficit. Bill Buckner had a two-run double in the inning. St. Louis took a 5-0 lead on a solo homer by Keith Hernandez, a three-run homer by ex-Dodger Willie Crawford and a solo homer by Bake McBride. Don Sutton picked up his ninth victory with three innings of one-run relief.

Jones Takes Formula5000

WATKINS GLEN — A rain-soaked track at Watkins Glen made for hazardous driving conditions Sunday — but that didn't seem to bother Alan Jones, who zoomed off with first place in the Formula 5000 auto race.

Jones, who began the race from a third place ranking, posted an average speed in his Theodore Racing March of 101.08 mph in the final heat. Al Unser finished second in a Vel's-parnell'i American Racing Lola. Third was Australian Warwick Brown, driving a Bay Racing Lola.

Twenty four cars began the field, and all but 13 were forced out during the 30-lap 101.3 mile contest. With the threat of rain, all but two cars started on rain tires. Spins were numerous, but no serious damage or injuries were reported.

The race was the third of nine Formula 5000 contests scheduled by the Sports Car Club of America and the United States Auto Club. Brian Redman won the first stop on the circuit at Pocono International Raceway and Alan Jones won the second race at Mosport Park, Canada.

The winner picked up 36 points, giving Jones 76 points toward the championship, followed by Brian Redman, who placed sixth, with 44 points. Al Unser in his first Formula 5000 race picked up 24 points for his second place finish.

The winner also got $15,000 prize money, a quarter of the race's $60,000 purse. Winners of the first and second heats also got $1,250 apiece.

Carner and Palmer in Open Playoff Today

SPRINGFIELD, Pa. (UPI) — Three ladies competed today in an 18-hole playoff for the U.S. Women's Open championship— Sandra Palmer, JoAnne Carner and Lady Luck.

Both Palmer and Carner, who battled each other back and forth Sunday to finish with 72 hole totals of 292, eight over par, mentioned luck a lot when they talked about their final round.

Carner, the second leading money winner on the LPGA tour this year and the longest hitter, sank a five-foot putt on the 17th hole to go one up on Palmer, playing in the group behind her.

Along came Sandra to the par-5, 438-yard hole and dropped in a 20-footer for a birdie and stay tied. "I just got lucky," said Palmer, the defending champion. "I really knew I had to make a birdie after JoAnne did. I had a 3-iron to the green. I don't know how it ever stayed on the green."

Carner made a routine par on the 18th hole, also a par 5, to finish with a two-over 73. She then stood along the green and watched Palmer come in and leave herself 40 feet away from the pin with her third shot.

Her first putt was short, leaving a tough, five-foot downhill putt that broke to the right. She dropped it in for a round of 75 and forced the playoff, the first in the Open since 1964.

"I was glad I was in and she (Palmer) had to par in. It's just Lady Luck if she birdies," Carner said.

"When Sandy lined up that second putt and started shaking her head. I knew it was going to go in. I'd rather play an 18 hole playoff than sudden death. That's just Lady Luck."

tention with a double bogey on the 16th hole, finished with a 76 for a 296 total, earning $3,454.

Susie McAllister was alone at 297 and Amy Alcott and Sharon Miller were at 299. Mary Beth King of Berville, Pa., was the low amateur with a 303 total.

Judy Rankin made LPGA history when she finished with a 74 for a 307 total to earn $1,229 and become the first woman pro to earn more than $100,000 in a year.

Carner, who had taken a two-stroke lead into Sunday's final round at the Rolling Green Golf Club, and Palmer were locked in a sudden death playoff in a LPGA tournament at St. Petersburg Fla. in February.

Carner won the playoff with a par on the fourth extra hole.

"On the second extra hole," Carner recalled, "I chipped in for a birdie and Sandy followed with a birdie. It was a very exciting playoff."

"That lucky thing," Palmer said when she was reminded of the playoff, "She owes me one."

Rankin Makes LPGA History

SPRINGFIELD, Pa. (UPI) — While the galleries followed the fortunes of the leaders in the U.S. Women's Open, Judy Rankin quietly sank a three-foot putt before a few well-wishers on No. 9 to make LPGA history.

With that putt, Rankin finished with a round of 74 and a 72-hole total of 23-over-par 307. But, more important, the $1,229 she pocketed Sunday made her the first woman in the history of golf to go over $100,000 in earnings for a single year.

Rankin, who started out on the back nine after thunderstorms delayed the start of play, bogeyed the first three holes, but then settled down as she shot for the magic $100,000 figure.

"That's all I had left to play for after my bad play this week," said Rankin, who surprisingly shot a pair of 79s in the tournament. "There was nothing else to try for, except maybe finishing 12 strokes behind instead of 16."

But even at her best, the 31-year-old Texan said there was no way she was going to master the hilly Rolling Green Golf Club course—no matter how hard she tried.

Judy Rankin

"Today (Sunday) was as good as I could've played this course," she said. "This is as long a course as I've ever played competitively. If I had played very well, there is no way I could've broken par

Lister Is Winner In Quad Cities Open

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (UPI) — John Lister's "fantastic" putting and calculated risks swept him to victory Sunday in the $100,000 Quad Cities Open and earned his biggest paycheck in five seasons on the pro tour.

Lister, the 29-year-old New Zealander, battered the 6,305-yard Oakwood Country Club course for a four-round total of 288, 16-under-par, with rounds of 68, 68, 65 and 67 to beat Fuzzy Zoeller by two strokes. He is the first foreign born player to win on the PGA tour this year.

Lister's final four-under round paved the path for his $20,000 payoff. Lister sank a 13-foot putt on the par-five, 500-yard 13th hole for an eagle. He shot birdies on the sixth, seventh and 11th, but he needed a 20-foot putt at No. 7 and a 14-footer at No. 11.

"I was due a good putting round and today was it," Lister said. "My putting was fantastic, especially through the first five holes when I was nervous. I think the birdies at six and seven were the turning point for me."

Green, Wentz, Houck Cop Orange Speedway Wins

MIDDLETOWN — Two new names popped up in victory lane Saturday night at the Orange County Fair Speedway as Bobby Green of Newburgh and former sportsman champion, won his first career modified victory and Bill Wentz, Jr. took the URC sprint feature. Bobby Houck, of Port Jervis became the second double-winner in the sportsman competition.

Green, starting third in the lineup, finally took the lead from Bobby Botcher on the fourteenth lap and went on to win in convincing fashion as Botcher was forced out with engine trouble four laps later. Most of the close racing in the modified feature came over the positions behind Green.

Kaskel-Siderowf Defeat Butera-Parsons, 9 and 8

MAMARONECK — The team of Howard Kaskel and Siderowf combined for a near-record 9 and 8 win over Aldo Butera and John Parsons in the 40th Anderson Memorial Four-Ball golf tournament Sunday at Winged Foot. Parsons has entered the Woodstock Open July 19 at Woodstock Country Club. Parsons won the Woodstock Open in 1971 with a four-under 66 and he finished second and third in the two succeeding tournaments.

Prudhomme, Sharp Score In Hot Rod Drag Races

ENGLISHTOWN, N.J. (UPI) — Don Prudhomme of Granada Hills, Calif., maintained his torrid pace in the Funny Car division and Richard Tharp of Houma, La., won his very first Top Fuel championship Sunday in the wrap-up to the seventh annual National Hot Rod Association Summer Nationals drag races. Prudhomme, the winningest driver in NHRA history, increased his career victory total to 18 by winning his sixth straight Funny Car title and his 10th in the last 12 NHRA championship events. He earned $12,650.

Tharp, meanwhile, was winning his very first title and earning $12,250 for himself and car owners Paul Candies and Leonard Hughes. In beating Jeb Allen of Santa Rosa, Calif., in the finals, Tharp produced the top speed of the meet at 244.56 miles per hour. In Pro Stock, Larry Lombardo of Malvern, Pa., drove the Bill Jenkins Chevy Monza

SPORT PARADE

Milton Richman,
UPI Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — There was a time when you could call baseball's annual All-Star game a spectacle and nobody would laugh. It used to be an intensely exciting, eagerly anticipated event that not only fascinated the fans, but also had significant appeal for the players and managers.

That was way back, more than a quarter century ago, when the All-Star game had some meaning, some genuine substance to it, when everybody could relate to Carl Hubbell striking out Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Jimmie Foxx, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin in succession, and to Ted Williams rattling one of Rip Sewell's "eephus" balls five miles downtown for a titanic home run.

Somehow most of the drama has disappeared from the All-Star game, and with it, much of the interest as well.

Baseball's beautiful people, the very best performers it has to offer, will be showcased for the whole nation to ogle at in tomorrow night's All-Star contest here, but about the only ones left who take the game even half-seriously any more are the fans. Certainly the players don't, nor do any of the managers who aren't directly involved.

"To me, it's a great big nothing," says Billy Martin, the Yankee's manager. "It doesn't prove a damn thing. All it amounts to is the two league presidents trying to outdo each other."

"The All-Star game doesn't represent a team effort. It's only a bunch of individuals pushing their own ability, and the guy who pushes least is the pitcher. He's got nothing to gain by pushing. If you're out there pitching for the All-Stars Tuesday night and you know you're gonna have to start for your own team Thursday, are you gonna bust your neck?"

Years ago, yes. Today, no. That's why All-Star games today aren't what they were years ago.

Billy Martin won't be here for tomorrow night's All-Star game. Neither will the majority of other managers, most of whom will be back home relaxing.

Martin never cared to take part in the All-Star game during his active career, most of which he spent playing second base for the Yankees under the late Casey Stengel.

"Casey would always say 'who wants to go?'" Martin remembers. "Some of the guys like Gil MacDougald, Bill Skowron and a couple of the others who hadn't been picked would say they'd like to go, but I never wanted to."

"Nellie Fox always beat me out for the All-Star game. I'd finish second to him all the time. It didn't bother me. I always admired him. He was a helluva competitor."

Finally, Stengel made Martin go to an All-Star game in 1955.

"Casey said to me, 'you never been to one. You gotta go,'" Martin remembers. "So I went to Washington and sat on the bench most of the game. I got to hit only once and grounded out to Roy McMillan, my buddy."

Although the All-Star game has little or no appeal at all for Billy Martin, he concedes it's still a fine vehicle for the fans because it's like a big holiday outing for them.

He says it's also a great thing for the players' pension fund, which derives revenue from the All-Star game, and for such All-Star first-timers as the Twins' Butch Wynegar and his own Mickey Rivers.

"For them, it's super," says Martin. "Everyone ought to be in an All-Star game at least once."

Rivers is only one of six Yankees on the American League squad. The others are pitchers Jim "Catfish" Hunter and Sparky Lyle, catcher Thurman Munson, first baseman Chris Chambliss and pitching coach Bob Lemon, serving as honorary captain of the American League. Lemon is to be inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown next month.

Rookie second baseman Willie Randolph also was to have represented the Yankees in the game, but he was scratched by a knee injury.

With the Yankees 9-1 games up in the American League East, Billy Martin could be managing the All-Stars this time next year. "If I ever manage in an All-Star game, I'll manage the only way I know and that's to win. But I still say the All-Star game is a great big nothing. It doesn't prove that one league is better than the other, only the World Series proves that."

Fidrych Gets Nod For American League

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — It's the kind of pairing that Arch Ward had in mind for his "dream game" when he founded the All-Star contest in 1933 as part of the Chicago World's Fair.

Randy Jones versus Mark Fidrych.

What better matchup could there be than baseball's two most exciting pitchers and biggest gate attractions of the season showing their stuff to the guys in the "other league" before the President of the United States and the largest All-Star Game crowd in more than two decades?

That confrontation became official Sunday when Darrell Johnson, manager of the American League, named the colorful 21-year-old Fidrych to start against the National League in the 47th mid-summer classic Tuesday night at Veteran's Stadium.

Jones, the winningest pitcher in the majors with 16 victories, had previously been named by manager Sparky Anderson to start for the National League.

All-Star Game rules prohibit a starting pitcher from going more than three innings and chances are neither pitcher will have a dramatic effect on the game's final outcome. But no matter. It's an intriguing matchup and it's the kind of thing the All-Star game is supposed to be about.

In getting the nomination, Fidrych will become only the second rookie in history to start an All-Star game. The first was Dave Stenhouse of Washington, who started the second All-Star game of the 1962 season. Unfortunately, that proved to be the high point of Stenhouse's career. After posting a 10-4 record with a 2.73 earned run average for the first half of the 1962 season, Stenhouse finished the year with an 11-12 record. Two years later he was gone from the major leagues.

Even if he doesn't get a batter out, though, Fidrych is bound to please the crowd, which is expected to number more than 60,000 and include a host of notable dignitaries, including President Ford. A hyperactive youngster who talks out loud to the baseball and runs around the infield congratulating teammates for good plays, "The Big Bird," as he is called, has succeeded in drawing large crowds wherever he has pitched this season. His

9-2 record and major league leading 1.78 earned run average indicate there is nothing flakey about his ability, however.

Jones, too, has been something of a curiosity but not because of any emotional behavior. The 26-year-old southpaw, who has been attracting from 10 to 15,000 more fans to the park whenever he pitches, is considered unique because he wins without being able to throw a major league fastball. He is a sinkerball specialist who seldom walks a batter and while his pitches look delectable, batters have trouble connecting solidly. In one game against Cincinnati this year, All-Star Pete Rose, a switchhitter, got up left-handed against Jones because he was having so much trouble with him from the right-hand side of the plate.

The selection of Fidrych to start for the AL will undoubtedly take some of the heat off Johnson, who has been the target of the critics for some of his selections to the team. Baltimore's Jim Palmer, the AL's top winner, was bypassed by Johnson as were Oakland's Sal Bando, the league's leading home run hitter, and Milwaukee's Henry Aaron, baseball's all-time home run king. Palmer was especially critical of Johnson, calling the Red Sox' skipper "an idiot."

The AL, which has lost 13 of the last 14 All-Star contests, will start Rod Carew of Minnesota at first, Bobby Grich of Baltimore at second, Toby Harrah of Texas at shortstop, George Brett of Kansas City at third, Thurman Munson of New York behind the plate and Ron LeFlore and Rusty Staub of Detroit and Fred Lynn of Boston in the outfield.

The world champion Cincinnati Reds dominate the NL squad. The Reds will have Rose, second baseman Joe Morgan, shortstop Dave Concepcion, catcher Johnny Bench and outfielder George Foster in the starting lineup. In addition Cincinnati's Tony Perez, a first baseman, and Ken Griffey, an outfielder, were added to the squad by Anderson, giving Cincinnati seven representatives on the squad.

First baseman Steve Garvey of Los Angeles, outfielder Dave Kingman of New York and outfielder Greg Luzinski of Philadelphia complete the NL starting unit.

Colwell-Johnson Post PBA Doubles Win

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — Paul Colwell and Don Johnson defeated Steve Neff and Eddie Ressler, 447-414, for the championship in the first Professional Bowlers Association Doubles Classic.

The victory, in which the two share the $10,000 first prize, capped a three-game barrage for the duo. For Johnson, Las Vegas, Nev., the victory moved him into a tie with

Dick Weber, St. Louis, Mo., for first on the all-time PBA title list with 25. For Colwell, Tucson, Ariz., it was his eighth PBA crown and second in three weeks.

Johnson joked about the win afterwards, obviously pleased.

"I carried us all week and Paul carried us today," he quipped.

TROTTOING TO VICTORY

France's Equileo (5), owned by French actor Alain Delon and driven by Bernard Froger, surges ahead to win the Roosevelt International Trot Saturday night at Roosevelt Raceway. Favored Bellino II (foreground), also of France, was second and Meadow Bright (4) of the United State was third. The winner paid $40.60.

Under-16 Battle Shapes Up In Mid-Hudson Soccer League

KINGSTON—A battle is shaping up in the under-16 division of the Mid-Hudson Soccer League. Kingston Sports Club tightened up the race with two victories last week to raise its record to 2-1. Its only loss came to the leaders, 3-0 Kingston Chrysler-Plymouth, earlier in the season.

Sports Club defeated Potter's 2-1 behind goals by Terry Malloy and Todd Miller. Walter Straib scored for Potter's. Sports Club then handed a 3-1 loss to Saugerties Athletic Association as Malloy, Greg Rose and Steve Norman tallied. Bob Miller was the goalie in both games for the victors.

Kingston Chrysler-Plymouth roughed up Sunshine Castle 5-2 with goals from Frank Spadafora (John Ossmer assist), Jay Quest, John Rheinhardt (two goals), assists by Greg Manuel and Larry Friedman) and Lou Venditti (unassisted). Eddie Barnowski was goalie, and he allowed unassisted goals by Sunshine's Lou Biscardi and Steve Tichardt.

Yallum's remained unbeaten in the under-10 division with its third consecutive win, 3-1 over Rhinebeck Little Indians. Greg Amato (two goals) and Guy Kraston (one goal, two assists) paced the win, with David McMichael in the nets. Dawkins' also remained unbeaten in the under-18 group (2-0-1) but had to settle for a scoreless tie with Chick Dalton Memorial. Dawkins' goalie

Jeff Venditti scored both goals to lead Port Ewen to a 2-0 win over Rhinebeck Studio 10 Stars in the under-14 division. In other games: Under-12, Rhinebeck Braves 2, Kingston Travel 0; Saugerties Bluestone 1, Saugerties Air Corps 1 (tie); Under-14, Goodwill Travel 4, Oscar's Tapers 0; Under-18, Brumen Motors 3, Hanstein, Berardi and Lawles 1; Rhinebeck Rotary Dolphins 4, Saugerties West Penn 1.

City Parks Softball Opens

KINGSTON — The city parks softball program for boys and girls began last week with action in both the Junior and Senior Divisions.

In the circuit, Forsyth topped Hasbrouck, 8-6, Brigham beat Hutton, 8-7, and Block edged Loughran, 4-3. In Senior games, Hasbrouck turned back Forsyth, 5-3, Hutton blanked Brigham, 9-0, and Block bombed Loughran, 20-4.

Nastase Defeats Orantes

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (UPI) — Ilie Nastase's power tennis game and the wind were just too much for Manuel Orantes Sunday in the first Grand Slam of Tennis.

The pressure, applied by the globe-trotting Romanian in the $150,000 tournament and the tricky winds gave Nastase a 6-4, 6-3, straight sets victory over Orantes and the $75,000 first prize.

Nastase conceded the wind made it more difficult for him to play his normal game, but Orantes had more trouble with the wind and handling the Masters champion's driving serves.

Orantes, who earned $40,000, said the wind, clocked one time at 10 knots in the area, caused the ball to "move much more than usual" on the composition court, requiring extra concentration.

Nastase, who flew in from Hawaii Friday night where he had nine $5kowng the Wimbledon matches, said the large purse drove him to victory.

"I seemed eager because big money makes you eager," Nastase said. "It's good money for a weekend's work. It's four times what you can get at Wimbledon."

Orantes, who tried to combat Nastase's power game with finesse, said he missed several shots at the net because he was unnerved by Nastase's quickness.

Nastase, exuding confidence in the second set, bantered with the crowd as he broke the 1975 U.S. Open champion's service in the fourth game to take a 3-1 lead. Orantes' placement shots frequently missed their mark.

In the consolation match, Jimmy Connors, who was replaced ailing Bjorn Borg, downed 1975 Wimbledon Champion Arthur Ashe 6-4, 7-6, to take third place and $20,000. Ashe received $15,000.

Connors failed to break Ashe's service in both sets until the ninth game and was behind 3-0 before he won his first game in the second set.

The second set ended with a 12-point tiebreaker in which Connors fell behind 4-1 before bouncing back to win 9-7 and take the match.

NL Umpire Behind Plate

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harry Wendelstedt, a 10-year National League umpire, will be behind the plate for the July 13 All-Star game at Philadelphia.

Wendelstedt worked in the 1968 mid-summer classic as well as the 1969 World Series. He appeared in the 1970 and 1972 championship series.

The remainder of the umpiring crew includes the American League's Jerry Neudecker at first base, Don Denkinger at third and Jim Evans in right field.

Racing Report To Force Changes

ALBANY (UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey says a State Investigation Commission report critical of the state's Racing and Wagering Board will be used to make changes to "bring a new standard of performance" to the board.

"The people of New York are not being served adequately by the present board," Carey said after receiving the report, which recommended changes in the racing board's responsibility in regulating racing and a reorganization of its present administrative procedures.

The SIC document was the commission's second study of the board. It also examined the financial condition of the New York Racing Association and said the group, which runs Saratoga, Aqueduct and Belmont race tracks, has inadequate cash to meet debt obligations and the cost of major plant improvements.

The earlier report had examined the intricate network of legal and financial arrangements between the state's major harness race tracks and related businesses. SIC Chairman David Brown said the arrangements had resulted in the funneling of millions of dollars of racing income from harness tracks to other business entities.

Carey ordered the investigation in December after receiving information from the state Budget Division that the Racing and Wagering Board was lax in its surveillance of the financial affairs of the harness tracks.

MONTICELLO (UPI) — Currituck Star beat Mike Success by a length and a half in 2:00 4-5 Sunday to win the $8,500 featured pace at Monticello.

Driven by Ben Webster, the winner paid $5.80, $3.80, and $3.00. Owl was third.

A 3-1 daily double, Chief Pincher and Lt. Collins, paid $28.60.

Advance Sale Begins For Monticello-OTB

MONTICELLO—Sale of 2,300 reserved seats for the July 25th, second annual $300,000 Monticello-OTB Classic has begun in the track admissions office.

Elimination trials to pare down the field for the Classic II, harness racing's richest event will take place on July 18.

In the inaugural year of the event, Silk Stockings swept the field in a world record time of 1:57 3/5, an achievement that led to the recognition of the filly as the leading pacer of 1975.

make a complaint for the police to take care of a violation."

One person interviewed said that someone had left a full sized mattress leaning against a store across the street from Montano's Shoe Store on upper Partition Street for six weeks before it was moved.

"The taxpayers in Saugerties are being taken by the street department," was one opinion.

A. Michael Schovel, village zoning enforcement officer, has given the village board a list of buildings he considers hazardous. They will be inspected by village engineers before further action. This route in the past has been followed with less than spectacular results. With no fire code in the village, a building must be declared structurally unsafe before it can be removed.

Multiple Dwelling Officer Richard Jackson has given the board a list of recent inspections of apartment buildings with violations listed. He promised to have the entire village inspected as soon as possible.

There are those who think the final solution must lie with the residents themselves. "After all," said one disgusted person, "what kind of animal fouls its own nest?"

Some findings of the Schovel report:

- 228 Partition Street. Building partially burned. Bricks falling out of first story walls. Accessible to the public.
- Buildings corner of Dock and Partition streets. Bricks falling out, weeds and brush, accessible to the public.
- Buildings on Partition and McDonald streets. First story boarded up, second story open.
- Nine Ann Street, corner E. Bridge Street. Bricks falling out, weeds and brush, building hazardous.
- Old Diamond Mill. Forty foot walls about to collapse. Very hazardous.
- Old chicken factory E. Bridge Street. Walls unsafe. Hazardous to the public.
- Building next to 9 Ann St. Bricks falling out of foundation. Accessible to the public.

- 24 and 25 Allen St. Brick structure completely open to the public. Trash in front of building.
- Campbell House West Bridge Street. Burned out and boarded up. Not hazardous to public.
- Rathburn Building on Livingston Street. Building deteriorating. Termed hazardous fire trap.

Some recent multiple dwelling reports:

Refugee Camp Reported Taken

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Christian and Syrian troops pounded left-wing and Palestinian forces across north Lebanon and Beirut today. A right-wing broadcast claimed the Christians had captured the Palestinian refugee camp of Tal Zaatar, ending a 20-day siege.

Palestinian spokesmen denied the rightist claim and said the camp's defenders had "successfully repelled" new Christian attacks.

But Palestinian officials said privately the camp's fall was "imminent and inevitable."

The Christians, apparently driving for superiority on the battlefield before today's emergency meeting of Arab League foreign ministers in Cairo, launched a series of attacks Sunday on the camp and on left-wing positions around Tripoli, 51 miles north of Beirut.

In the north, they pushed the leftists back to the port city's outskirts, trapping them between right-wing columns to the south and Syrian artillery forces reportedly shelling the western, Moslem-held sector set off their own fireworks over an apparently unfounded report of a coup in Damascus.

The Palestinian news agency Wafa said "Palestinian intelligence channels in Damascus" reported eight Syrian officers had killed Syrian President Hafez Assad in a coup attempt, but later retracted the story.

The American embassy and Palestinian, right-wing and leftwing sources said they had heard nothing of the alleged coup, but the rumor set off impromptu celebrations all across the leftist zone.

"The war is over, the war is over," one Palestinian guerrilla shouted, firing machine gun bursts into the air.

Missing Woman Found

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (UPI) — Margaret White, 70, of Brookline, Mass., was resting comfortably today in a local hospital after being lost for five days in the woods and steep hills of nearby Marlboro.

Missing since last Monday, Mrs. White was found Saturday morning in a wooded area of Hogback Mountain in Marlboro after a nearby innkeeper heard her calls from about a half mile away.

For Mrs. White, a summer resident of Marlboro, her five days and nights in the rugged terrain were an ordeal. She survived with the help of temperatures that didn't fall below the 50s at night and with the aid of two nights of heavy rain which provided her with drinking water.

Her husband, Robert, a noted psychologist now retired from Harvard University, said Sunday Mrs. White got her drinking water by lying on her back and catching rain in her open mouth.

He said the short sleeve summer dress she wore got soaked by rain at night, but dried quickly in the daytime.

Mrs. White was reported missing Monday after she failed to return to her Horse Hill Road summer cottage from a shopping trip.

Police found her car Tuesday night stuck in mud on a remote road about two miles from her home. They immediately began a search with the help of volunteers.

Search parties, including 500 volunteers, took turns combing the forest. However, they were unsuccessful and hope of finding Mrs. White had all but been abandoned by Thursday.

185,607 people know a good deal when they see one.

Good Deal Checking is working.

From the day we started Good Deal Checking, people stopped paying monthly maintenance charges. They also stopped paying a charge for each check they used. No matter how many checks they wrote. That's a good deal.

To get that, people keep at least $200 in their checking account. Or $200 in a savings account, which earns the highest interest allowable. That's a good deal, too.
